Mosccone will speak here today at noon

By Mike Drew

Indicative of the importance that politicians give the student vote, the second candidate for the 1974 California gubernatorial race will be on the UCSB campus today. State Senator George Moscone of San Francisco, Democratic floor leader, will speak at noon in the Free Speech area behind the UCen on "Reaganism and the University."

The San Francisco legislator is on campus today to drum up support from what should be a natural constituency. He has been an enthusiastic supporter of many issues popular with students in the past: reform in medical care, abolition of capital punishment, elimination of major tax loopholes, numerous consumer protection measures, enfranchisement of 18 year-olds and recently introduced legislation requiring more comprehensive reporting of campaign finances. He was chosen in March of 1972 as legislator of the month by the UC Student Lobby.

HEALTH CARE

The major theme of Moscone's campaign for governor has centered on bringing a decent standard of health care to all Californians. In 1972 he introduced the Consumers Health Protection Act which would replace private health insurance with state coverage.

"As it stands now the average person who is 'insured' in this state pays 63% of the costs of medical care and hospitalization himself. His insurance firm pays but 37% of the average annual cost," says Moscone.

His plan would do away with all the exclusions, deductibles, and co-payments in existing insurance policies and grant a standard of coverage for everyone that will take care of health and accident problems, preventive checkups and all the facets that are not now covered. The system would be financed by payroll deductions (on a graduated basis) with employer contributions and use of existing governmental expenditures.

DRINKING AGE

Mosccone plans to introduce his health care legislation once again this year.

The Senator does not always fit into the liberal legislator mold. Oddly enough, he was one of eleven senators who voted to kill a bill lowering the drinking age to 18 last year.

Mosccone's speech will be followed with a lunch with faculty members in the Faculty Club (no booze) and a seminar with students in I.V.

School board elections tomorrow

I.V. bloc identity to be seen?

By Mike Gold

When the polls close Tuesday and the votes are tabulated much more will be determined than just who wins for Goleta Union School Board, at least as far as Isla Vista is concerned.

Each of the three Isla Vista candidates in the race for the three open spots on the Goleta Union School Board of Trustees agree upon the fact that a massive I.V. turnout could set the wheels turning for I.V. incorporation.

I.V. write-in candidate Geoff Wallace explains that the "whole question of identity is at the root of whether or not we get incorporation." Since normally only 10% of a populace turns out for school board elections, a strong turnout would show "that I.V. has a consciousness that is somewhat unlike other areas. It would demonstrate that I.V. can mobilize, and that means power."

In a different light, Roger Marcus emphasizes "we need to begin on this current political issue so as to act as a unified body, not so much as a political power but to build a sense of cohesiveness and worth as a community." He indicated that everyone should already know of the value a strong turnout would mean to incorporation.

"The community is building," says Walter Briggs. "Only by a massive vote will we be recognized by Santa Barbara as an important entity." Briggs added that "a big turnout would help the struggling Justice Court cause and build up a momentum for IVCC's planned May offensive."

The destiny of Isla Vista parks could also be aided by I.V. voters, if they show up at the polling booths Tuesday. Judy Evered, a local mother who has been extremely active in the race and who sits on the I.V. Park Commission, said that since the school board and the parks board should be working together, an Isla Vista voice on the school board could keep an awareness of the community here alive.

News-Press writer Dewey Schurman has told the Goleta Valley public that Isla Vista is the key to the Goleta School Board election, and that the student turnout may be sizable. As if to confirm Schurman's prediction, a GOTV (Get Out the Vote) campaign tomorrow has been arranged by IVCC and the candidates from Isla Vista.

Faculty relaxes personnel review

By Anne Sutherland

Changes in the personnel procedures of ad hoc review committees will be implemented in the 1973-74 academic year on an experimental basis, following the passage of a resolution by the Faculty Legislature at their meeting last Thursday, April 12.

The suggested changes include the participation of a departmental representative on ad hoc review committees considering personnel action for promotion. Options are also outlined for the candidate whose case is up for review such as inclusion on the review committee of members of his department, or a member from outside UCSB. The candidate may also request "that a limited number of specified faculty members from his department not be appointed to the ad hoc committee to review his case."

The resolution specifies that any such requests are subject to the approval of the Committee on Academic Personnel.

In reference to the request from a candidate that certain faculty members from his department not be appointed to his review committee, the resolution states that such a request may be sent directly to the appropriate dean rather than to the departmental chairman, and the request shall not be accompanied by explanations.

ENGINEERING FREEDOM

The Executive Committee of the College of Engineering secured passage of a General Education requirement change for the Engineers. 23 quarter units of Humanities and Social Sciences are now required instead of the former 31. These eight units dropped from this area have been added on to the Electives category, increasing that category to 20 units.

Discussion of this change brought concern from faculty members who feared the "narrow outlook" of engineers might be enhanced by their having to take less liberal arts-type classes.

The Faculty also approved requirements for the graduate degree of Master of Fine Arts, which amended the wording of the M.F.A. requirement "according to the perceived needs for strengthening certain areas of graduate study in art."

VOTE FOR RITA JOHNSON

BOARD of TRUSTEES, Goleta Union School District

Why I'm A Candidate for The Board of Trustees

- To keep the public more informed about the problems and decisions of the board.
- To help see that we are using the best and most modern teaching techniques.
- To help guide our schools toward a well-founded curriculum that includes social problems and acceptance of racial and ethnic differences.
- To emphasize individual attention and progressive techniques that allow children to develop their own abilities.
- To help develop a real concern for the teaching staff and expand the authority given to our teachers.

RITA JOHNSON

I have two children in the Goleta School System and they are being offered a good program of fundamentals. I believe, however, that to properly prepare our children for tomorrow we need to expand the curriculum and make greater provision for individual needs. I favor smaller class size with greater emphasis on individual instruction. It is important to improve the employer-employee relations between the school district and our teachers, and it is essential to improve and increase communication between the Board of Trustees and the citizens of the district.

Rexroth petition now

By Skip Rimer

Many conservationists on this campus, in recent years, have become increasingly concerned with a certain species of animal which is becoming rare in appearance.

This endangered species is the great professor. Today in the chancellor's office, John Bastion, a student at UCSB, will present a group of petitions with approximately 2,000 signatures on them to Chancellor Vernon Cheadle.

The point of the petitions is a plea to administrators to rehire world-renowned poet Kenneth Rexroth at his UCSB lecturer's post for another yearly appointment.

Circulated by UCSB students Bill Hand, Nanette Benedict, Bastion and Edmond Chibeau, a technical writer for the University, the petitions appeared when it was heard that Rexroth may not be rehired for another English Department lectureship due to his age.

Rexroth is 67, the age at which all University of California employees are to retire. According to the UCSB Personnel Manual: "Any person over 67 years of age shall not be employed. Employees are separated from University service upon attainment of age 67 in accordance with retirement system regulations."

The man whose work has appeared in numerous magazines as well as in many books he has had published, sat in the upstairs lounge in the UCen one day last week and tried to put his rehiring problem into perspective.

"I believe it may not be effective," said Rexroth of the petition drive, although he said he is pleased that students were making an active effort to bring him back for what would be his sixth year at UCSB.

"And I'm not going to lead any demonstration to get myself rehired," he added. All he wants to do, Rexroth stressed, was remain involved in his work and stay out of the bureaucratic hassles involved in his rehiring.

The thing that bothers him, he says, is that some people think he has been behind all of the efforts to grant him another lectureship. "They think I'm the head of some fifth international organization," smiled the poet-playwright-translator-critic-editor-painter.

Chibeau, one of the leaders of the signature campaign, supported this by saying, "Other than he (Rexroth) knows about it (the petition), he in no way instigated it."

"The campaigning," Chibeau went on to say, "has consisted of petitions, a series of letters and personal interviews with members of the faculty and administration. We have not been told that they refuse to rehire Rexroth, but at the same time, they have not told us that they will rehire him." Chancellor Cheadle has refused to comment on the matter.

Chibeau, who also considers himself to be a poet, was more optimistic about the effect which the 2,000 signatures will have. "We feel our campaign will be successful because it was an orderly petition to the administration by faculty, students and members of the Santa Barbara community."

He concluded, "A significant number of students have let their feelings be known. If the administration recognizes the rights of the students, then they will let us keep Rexroth."

NOT POLITICAL

The man whose English 183 (Poetry and Song) and 194 seminar are among two of the more popular classes on campus, is certain that the issue of his reappointment was not "a political thing." Rexroth stated "I think one big thing is a lack of money."

When asked if his age was a factor, Rexroth replied, "Making an exception to that is not hard."

But the opposite of this may be true. According to Vice-Chancellor John Snyder, there are no regular faculty members at UCSB over the retirement age of 67. There are, though, two visiting members over that age.

Also, in a call to the President's office of the University of California, a spokesman for the Retirement Division of Personnel stated, "The policy of the University is to continue to discourage the reappointment of UCRS (University of California Retirement System) members after they have arrived at the compulsory retirement age."

According to English Department Chairman Frank Gardiner, his department hires a certain number of lecturers every spring for a one year appointment (assuming the money is available). This year there were eight.

Gardiner mentioned that these appointments are usually not made until the end of April or the first Clockwork Orange Dep't.

State Senator Nicholas C. Petris (D-Alameda County) last week labeled a Governor Reagan proposal for performing experimental surgery on prison inmates as "a very frightening and dangerous step in the direction of a totalitarian state."

The proposal, and the creation of a Center for the Study and Reduction of Violence, was first mentioned by the Governor in his state of the state speech to the Legislature in January and has been receiving criticism from scientists, criminologists, attorneys and mental health professionals as the specifics of the Center have been unveiled.

The center, to be located at UCLA, would be funded by federal funds channeled through the California Council on Criminal Justice, which has also been under fire from legislative sources for spending its funds unwisely and developing regulations which hinder community involvement in anti-crime activity.

The Center on Violence will be headed by three doctors, named Ervin, Mark and Sweet, who have conducted research in this area previously. A similar proposal offered by these physicians to the United States Senate Committee on Appropriations was rejected in 1972 for three primary reasons:

The scientific merit of the study was questionable on the basis of testimony by the National Institute of Mental Health and the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

All three men have strongly advocated psycho-surgery as a technique for reducing violence, which Senator Petris criticized as "a strangely familiar concept to those who recall the Hitler experiments on concentration camp inmates."

Administrative deficiencies in grants handled by Drs. Ervin, Sweet and Mark.

EASTER "EGGCITEMENT" AT FACULTY CLUB

Faculty families are invited to an old fashioned Easter egg hunt and Easter brunch on Saturday, April 21 at the Faculty Club.

For a Responsive School Board . . .

Jeremy Kramer

RESPONSIVE TO THE COMMUNITY

"One of the most important duties of a Board member is to serve as a link between the schools and the community. During the last two years of attending Board of Education meetings, I have seen many people come to the Board with questions, criticisms, and suggestions for change. Instead of encouragement and concern, these people were met with disinterest and irritation. This kind of attitude must be changed if our communication problems in the District are to be solved. Taxpayers have the right to have their questions answered clearly and honestly."

Early childhood programs such as the Santa Barbara preschool and the Children's Centers at McKinley, Franklin and the Santa Barbara Nursery School should be brought into the regular school program. These programs are attempts to deal with both the problems of child care for working mothers and early childhood education for children who may not otherwise receive it. These programs should be maintained locally and not be forced to depend on inconsistent Federal funding.

RESPONSIVE TO STUDENTS

"The first responsibility of our schools is to the student. For the junior high or high school student who doesn't know how to read and write, school can be a virtual nightmare. Since almost the entire curriculum a student will be faced with is based around reading, the child who is not taught to read in the early grades tends to fall farther and farther behind as work becomes more reading-oriented. At the present time, there is no District-wide effort being made to diagnose where the reading problems are in the District and what specifically needs to be done. This is one of the first problems I would like to tackle as a member of the School Board."

Every student is entitled to an equal education regardless of language or culture. 38% of the students in the Santa Barbara School District are classified as Spanish-surnamed students. An increase in the number of bilingual teachers and counselors would greatly improve communication between school personnel and Spanish-speaking students and their parents.

RESPONSIVE TO TEACHERS

Teachers must be granted a larger share in decision-making. Teachers and students are the people most directly involved in the educational process. By involving teachers in decisions regarding such things as class size, curriculum, the budget, and working conditions, we can improve our schools and save precious tax dollars.

Class size, or pupil/teacher ratio is the underlying problem in many educational issues. When classes become too large, teachers start dealing with numbers instead of people. This makes it difficult to teach and difficult to learn. "I favor the adoption of a maximum class size for both Districts, giving this a very high priority in the budget."

Some thoughts on a troubled University

By Sen. George Moscone

The University of California, Santa Barbara is experiencing a troubling decline in enrollment and difficulty in developing and expanding some of its fine undergraduate and graduate programs.

Inadequate state financial support for the University of California and the demagogic shellacking that higher education has received from state and federal politicians is at the heart of many of these problems. We can no longer permit our elected representatives to be insensitive to higher education and cavalier about the future of California.

Governor Reagan has gambled with the future of California by shortchanging our universities. The enrollment, academic and directional crisis facing UCSB and other campuses testify to the fact that the people of California are losing this senseless gamble.

MEDIOCRITY

We can no longer tolerate a budget that tracks higher education on a road to mediocrity. We can no longer afford to fail to attract or retain the faculty we need as we have too often in the past. We can no longer deny top students and potential scholars or career oriented persons the opportunities of higher education because of insufficient financial aid. We can no longer allow buildings to burn or to remain fire hazards because there are insufficient funds to remedy them.

My philosophic commitment to higher education, my personal observations of the state of the University and my belief that higher education must serve all the people of California either as students or as beneficiaries of its services, programs and research lead me to no other conclusions.

Budgetary shortcomings have taken a serious toll at UCSB. The delay with the construction of the School of Engineering is well publicized. We have witnessed increased difficulty with the recruitment of top new faculty. The Graduate School of Education at UCSB was outbid last year for five of its top choices. The delay in the development of a school of law is of great concern when we face an unmanageable escalation in law school admissions. Moreover, the public outcry for quality legal counsel for the protection of civil liberties commands our prompt and vigorous response.

The decline in enrollment and the legitimate demands of undergraduate students for a top quality instructional program of theoretical and applied education deserves the energetic attention of all of us. The development of freshman seminar and career oriented programs are constructive and documented steps in meeting this challenge. We must know that improved student-faculty contact will not result until we achieve a more responsible student-faculty ratio. The Reagan years have seen this ratio increase when we should see it decrease.

INNOVATIVE

Nevertheless, I have been encouraged by innovative programs which have developed within existing budgetary restraints. For example, the University of California, Irvine offers a "Social Ecology Program" which provides a broad-scoped curriculum oriented toward preparing students for professional careers at the baccalaureate level. The program is divided into six sub-programs such as Mental Health, Environmental Quality, Urban and Regional Planning, Criminal Justice and Human Development.

Students become immediately exposed to and prepared for employment in professions such as early childhood education, consumer protection, police-community relations and environmental protection among others. The students, general community, administration and participating faculty are enthusiastically supportive of this and similar programs.

It is unrealistic to assume that all students will seek an advanced degree. The availability of an option with an applied educational curriculum (such as the Program of Social Ecology) provides not only a stepping stone to graduate studies, but an immediate avenue to vital and professional careers.

I hope today in my visit to UCSB to achieve a more thorough understanding of the problems, challenges and issues facing UCSB. I hope we can maintain a continued contact on the issues facing education and California. I hope to see you and talk with you today and please write to me at the State Capitol to express your views on these issues and others.

Abuse of authority?

To the Editor:

Re your April 11 story on Economics Department Chairman M. Bruce Johnson:

Assuming that an applicant's overall GPA and his GPA in his major were 2.51 and 2.00, respectively, as stated in Nexus, it would be unprecedented to admit him to our graduate program unless there were obvious mitigating circumstances. By mitigating circumstances I mean that he would have to have brilliant GRE scores, or outstanding letters of reference or something like that.

If such mitigating circumstances did not exist, and there were business connections between the applicant's family and the admissions officer, in this case Chairman Johnson, I would think that it would be difficult not to conclude that Chairman Johnson had abused his authority.

At the very least, the proper thing for Chairman Johnson to have done would have been to have turned the admissions decision over to someone without a conflict of interest.

May I add that I understand that Halimi has done quite well since he has been admitted. The point here, though, is that if a better qualified candidate than Halimi was rejected for admission, he might have done even better.

No response

To the Editor:

I understand that volleyball has been shown to be the most popular sport at this school (overriding basketball by a small margin).

I like it too, and have been involved in classes and weekend activities since I started school here. This quarter the inside of the old gym is being renovated, leading to the cutting of volleyball classes at all levels from 40 students to 28 (max.) students.

What I don't understand is, given the interest and limitation on regular facilities, why the P.A. Department has not opened more classes.

Are those people who pre-enrolled and were arbitrarily rejected not to play at all? The sand courts would be perfect for any new classes if the department would take the time to renovate the sand.

It bothers me and others that though there is all this interest in the sport the P.A. Department seems not to respond to it.

Removing stress

To the Editor:

We are grateful for the excellent Nexus articles by Larry Padway and Mike Gode on the school board elections.

In the past students have helped POISE parents in many directions in gaining the open classroom. Their energy was essential to our successes.

Now we are imploring everyone to please vote tomorrow for the school board of Goleta and Santa Barbara.

We believe the welfare of children and teachers centers on the issues of removing stress from the classroom, the introduction of alternative education on a voluntary basis and community participation in schools.

These, we also believe, would be the most strongly served by the following three candidates for the Goleta School Board: Roger Marcus, Geoff Wallace and Walter Briggs.

Roger Marcus's impressive ability to communicate and to listen to the community has earned him our strongest support.

For the Santa Barbara School and High School District Board of Education: Jeremy S. Kramer, Forrest D. Perkins (an I.V. resident and POISE member).

Liquor position

To the Editor:

I encourage students to meet gubernatorial candidate Senator George Moscone today at noon in the Free Speech Area to ask him why he has consistently blocked passage of bills which would allow liquor to be sold within a mile of a University campus.

In the past, Moscone has justified his stand by stating that passage of the bill would ruin the liquor business of those who now sell liquor outside the one mile radius. Consequently, students must drive out to stores on Hollister or elsewhere and Isla Vista remains dry.

Does this reason substantiate defeat of the bill? That is for you to decide today after hearing Senator Moscone.

I am referring to Mike Gordon's article: "Econ chairman's role in MA bid questioned" of April 11, 1973.

'Dunes' flick tomorrow

By Lyn Goldfarb

The last time you were on the beach — remember the feel of the sand running between your toes, all warm and smooth? Well, if you go see "Woman in the Dunes" tomorrow night (Apr. 17) in Campbell Hall, such memories probably will quickly recede as you are bombarded with images of sand — so much sand that when the movie ends you'll probably feel like you have sand in your shoes.

Teshigahara's "Woman in the Dunes," based on a best-selling book by Japanese writer Kobo Abe, is a haunting allegory probing fundamental questions of existence and the meaning of freedom. In a bizarre story of a man held prisoner with a woman at the bottom of a sandpit, Teshigahara and Abe make their statement on the "human condition" as they perceive it. The end product of their explorations is fascinating.

An entomologist collecting beetles on the sand dunes is offered assistance by some local people who lower him into a sandpit with a woman who is to provide him with food and shelter. He accepts and then the next morning finds himself trapped at the bottom of the pit, the rope ladder removed. It slowly becomes clear to him that he has been put there to help the woman who spends her life shoveling and loading sand, ostensibly to prevent the village from being engulfed. The man's world is turned upside-down. The nightmare of life in a sandpit is matched by the outside world, now equally hostile. When he does succeed in escaping, he finds only black night before being recaptured and returned to the pit. It is in the developing relationship between the man and the woman and their battle against the sand that the film reaches its dramatic resolution. The film has been widely acclaimed and has received awards at major film festivals in Cannes, Montreal and New York.

Also being shown is a short film "The Andalusian Dog," written, directed and produced by Salvador Dali and Luis Bunuel. Made in France in 1929, before either of them became famous, the film represented a protest against the dominant avant-garde and surrealist movement in the arts. It was heavily influenced by the then new Freudian theories. The film was meant to shock and horrify, so Bunuel could not understand "... those foolish people who have been able to find the film poetic when at bottom it is really a desperate and passionate call to murder."

These two films are being presented by People's Caucus tomorrow, April 17, at 7 and 9:30 p.m. in Campbell Hall. Admission is $1.

'Gaslight' cast announced

Dr. William Reardon, chairman of the UCSB Department of Dramatic Art, announced that the cast for "Under the Gaslight" has been chosen. The melodrama by Augustin Daly will be performed May 11-13 at the Lobero as a salute to the Lobero Theatre's Centennial Observance by the UCSB College of Letters and Science, Committee on Arts and Lectures and the Department of Dramatic Art.

The heroine Laura, who is the belle of society and during the course of the play is threatened with the loss of her home, lover and birthright, will be played by Valerie Warner. Cast as her melancholy lover Ray is Harry Bigelow. Elizabeth Toohey plays Pearl, Laura's adopted sister and best friend, who is coincidentally sweet on Ray.

The two villains, Byke and Judas, are out to make money off Laura's and Pearl's misfortunes and will be played by William O'Reilly and Shelley Hoffman. Snorkey (Tim Perez), who is at first an accomplice to Byke and Judas, later becomes Laura's ally. Peachblossom, the runaway daughter of Judas, finds the only friend she has ever had in Laura and is played by Teri Alschuler.

Within the society of New York, Laura has two other admirers, Demilt and Windel, played by David Yacker and Larry Maynard. Two social snobs who slander Laura's name are Mrs. Van Dam (Holly Taylor) and Miss Earlie (Eileen Smith).

In a conniving and heart breaking scene Byke attempts to win custody of Laura as his daughter. Sitting on the bench is Judge Bowling played by Peter Davies and involved in the proceedings are Lawyer Splinter (David Tannen), the organ-grinder Raffardi (Michael Strows) and a policeman (Steven Aveson).

Adding further excitement to the play are a trio of youths played by Dan Berney, Eric Larsen and Frank Potts; the signalman played by Mark Busch; and Cliff Weimer, Peter Nowack and Heidi Heidorn as servants and clerks.

The "Under the Gaslight" cast consists only of University students, many of whom Santa Barbara audiences will remember from other productions and introducing a few new actors. In addition to the evening performances at 8:30 p.m. May 11-13, there is a 2:00 p.m. matinee scheduled on Saturday, May 12. Tickets for the limited engagement will be available at the Lobero Box Office beginning April 23.

MESA ROAD OPEN TODAY

UCSB Parking Services has announced that Los Carneros Road is now completed and as of today, Mesa Road will be opened for students and campus personnel with valid parking permits. Mesa Road will be open from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. for inbound traffic, and from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. for outbound traffic, Monday through Friday.

Parking Services urges all persons who live in the west or northwest areas of Los Carneros to use this new entrance to help ease traffic on El Colegio Road during peak rush hours. Traffic signals have been installed at the intersections of Los Carneros and Mesa Road, and Los Carneros and Hollister to help move traffic along these roads in a safer manner, according to Parking Services officials.

TODAY

Shell and Oar will meet at 4 p.m. in UCen 2284. Picnic plans for the April 28 home regatta will be discussed.

Professor Paul Switzer from the Departments of Geology and Statistics of Stanford University will speak on "New Ideas in Nonparametric Methods of Estimation" as part of the UCSB Mathematics Colloquium, in South Hall 6607F at noon. Bring a bag lunch if you wish; tea will be served.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Applications are now being accepted for Community Service Officers for the 1973-74 school year. Apply at the Campus Police Department weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Gaucha nine do it again; drop all three to UOP

By Tom McNulty

There was something for everybody this weekend at Campus Diamond: despair, dejection, frustration, bitterness, but most of all defeat, as the Gauchos dropped three games to University of the Pacific.

One of the Gauchos summed up the situation perfectly after Saturday's first game: "There is just no way we can win a game."

FRIDAY

It is an axiom in baseball that you never walk the lead-off man. Lynn McKinney walked the first two Tigers Friday and they went on to score the only two runs UOP really needed. The Gauchos were hand-cuffed by Rod Bovee's nine inning stint, losing 11-1. UCSB scored its only run in the sixth, when Tim Terrell was safe on a fielder's choice, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Steve Gullotti's base hit.

The only memorable event of the game was Solomon Le Flore's tying of a school record by striking out four times in one game. He joins four others in possession of the dubious honor. Sol blew a chance to establish a new record in the ninth by flying out to right field.

Friday's Line Score

UOP 200 010 620 - 11-10-2
 UCSB 000 001 000 - 1-6-5
 2B: Vaiarello, Ringer (UOP); 3B: Weismann; HR: Boras, Walsh (UOP);
 SB: Vaiarello (2); LOB: UOP-11; UCSB-10.

It has been agreed that pitching is the Gauchos' primary weakness this year, closely followed by weak defense. But in Saturday's first loss, Marshall Gates pitched a helluva game, allowing three runs (two earned) on just five hits, walking none and striking out twelve UOP batters. But the Gauchos could not produce offensively. Twice in a row the lead-off batter reached second base but could not be brought around.

Gates, lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth, did not get the loss, however, as the Gauchos tied the game in their half of the ninth. John Picone singled and was replaced by pinch runner Tom Buckley, who promptly stole second and scored on Steve Gullotti's double. Gullotti, however, died on second.

The strategy worked so well that UOP had their pinch runner steal second and score on a double in the top of the tenth off losing pitcher Rick Beardsley.

In the second game, Gaucha pitching returned to normal as the Tigers tagged Larry Hold and Brian Moulton for nine runs. UCSB managed only four runs off winning pitcher Pete Martinez.

But the worst development of the day was in the fourth inning, when Tony Torres pulled up lame. Torres, batting at a .500 clip, suffered a sprained right foot. It is uncertain how long he will be out.

After dropping three games to Pacific, the Gauchos now have an iron grip on the PCAA cellar, with a 1-8 conference record.

Saturday, Game 1

UOP 000 201 000 1 - 4-6-1
 UCSB 000 000 201 0 - 3-8-1
 2B: Brown (2), Weismann, Gullotti, Abdalla (UOP); 3B: Boras (UOP); SB: Vaiarello, Sperry (UOP), Buckley; LOB: UOP-4; UCSB-8.

Saturday, Game 2

UOP 101 010 6 - 9-17-0
 UCSB 000 300 1 - 4-9-3
 2B: Walsh (2), Martinez, Weismann; HR: Zakoor, Vaiarello (UOP); LOB: UOP-8; UCSB-3.

Cactus Jack speaks out

"Cactus" Jack Curtice, former head football coach and current athletic director at UCSB, recently revealed his opinions concerning student interest in sports.

Reflecting back upon the early '70's when Curtice noticed a dwindling student interest in intercollegiate athletics, Cactus Jack stated, "The students went through a militant period when they were against mother and apple pie and everything under the sun.

"There was a tendency to belittle athletes. A lot of groups made fun of letter sweaters and there wasn't the pride there once was."

However, Curtice has noticed a change in the past few years. He states, "The old group of students with its nothing-matters attitude is gone. Every four years there's a new turnover and new thinking.

"The good, high class individuals will still sacrifice. They are still willing to train, to pay the price, to be part of the team. Those who are not willing to do this are just mediocre."

Coach Curtice will be retiring in June at the age of 65.

All persons who have signed up teams for coed waterpolo, women's flag football, coed six-person basketball, men's 1.8 meter basketball, and men's six man volleyball are urged to stop by the IM Office, trailer 567 B, this week to pick up their schedules.

Women's football swings into action this Tuesday afternoon on Storke Fields. According to student director Tony Keaty, the caliber of competition appears to be quite high, yet at the same time quite even. Look for defending champions Frankie and the Rumpkins, the DG's, the Pi Phi's, and the Six Pak Shop to all be top contenders for this year's title.

Effective Teaching Conf. set this week

By Anne Sutherland

Centered around the theme of evaluation of teaching techniques, UCSB's first Conference on Effective Teaching will get underway this Wednesday evening and continue on Thursday, April 18-19.

The conference is a result of efforts to focus attention on the improvement and evaluation of instruction on the University campus. It is being sponsored by the Academic Senate Committee on Effective Teaching and Learning Resources Center, in cooperation with the Academic Affairs Board as part of their Symposiums '73, the series of lectures planned to focus on effective teaching.

Naftaly Glasman, Chairman of the Committee on Effective Teaching, outlined the particular relevance of evaluation techniques in relation to the changing goals of the University. In recent years, he noted, teaching has become the most important of the professor's functions, but to accurately reflect a teacher's effectiveness requires the use of valid techniques of evaluation.

Establishing criteria for such "valid techniques" is essential, because the evaluations are used for promotion, improvement of instruction and development of new methods of teaching.

THREE SESSIONS

The upcoming conference will be held in three sessions. The first will be Wednesday from 7-9 p.m. in Ellison 1612. Discussion will center around the topic "Dichotomies and Dilemmas in Evaluation of Teaching." Papers will be presented by professors Harold Drake of the History Dept. and Elijah Lovejoy of the Psychology Dept.

Ellison 1920 is the site of the second session, scheduled for Thursday from 10-12 a.m. The morning session's topic will be "Individualization of Instruction and Evaluation: Promise or Peril?" Participants will include professors Bernard Kirtman from the Chemistry Dept., Jacqueline Simons of the French Dept. and a senior Economics/Political Science major, Keith Pritsker.

Dealing with "Evaluating Faculty - Subject Matter Approach and the Reward System," the final session will be held Thursday afternoon in the Faculty Club from 2-4. Robert A. Potter of the Drama Dept. and Frederick Milstein of the Mechanical Engineering Dept. will present their views on the topic.

Rexroth...

part of May.

Every year the English Department has approved Rexroth's appointment, and every year they have managed to find the funds to pay him. Gardiner was asked if this year was any different.

"No, it really isn't," he replied. "The only problem is Mr. Rexroth's retirement, which means the procedure is different." For him to become an exception to the retirement rule, Rexroth must receive approval from the department, the Administration and the Board of Regents, said the department chairman.

Gardiner wanted to make clear, though, that retirement was not the issue, and he felt that its importance has been blown out of proportion. "The only question is, do we have the resources to hire Mr. Rexroth, and does the faculty wish to recommend his appointment? Procedurally, I can't ask the faculty until I have the resources."

This, says Gardiner, is the reason that there has been such a delay on declaring Rexroth's status for next year.

He also mentioned the fact that the English Department's dropping enrollment the past few years has brought about a loss of eight faculty positions in the department, and so money and positions are not as available as when Rexroth first came here.

But if people of Rexroth's stature and popularity are continually forced to leave, won't this continue the cycle of dropping enrollment?

"That's one of the things we (the English Department) have to talk about when we discuss appointments," answered Gardiner. "One of the first questions is, will he or she be a genuine benefit to our students?"

Will the petitions have any effect on the department's ruling?

"They'll be carefully considered," Gardiner replied. He added that he has decided to take Rexroth's reappointment to the entire department for approval.

Finally, Gardiner discussed others' questionings of Rexroth's stature as a poet. Rexroth himself has said, "The real problem is that administrators don't really believe I'm that well known."

To this, Gardiner said firmly, "The issue of reputation is not at stake."

Staggering event at 8

Rennie Davis, a former radical leader in the student movement, will kick off a nation-wide tour at UCSB tonight at 8 p.m. in Physics 1610 speaking on his own investigation into "Who is Guru Maharaj Ji?"

Davis believes that "the appearance of Guru Maharaj Ji on this planet is the most staggering event in the history of the world." For more information call 966-0984.

38% of Santa Barbara's school children are of Spanish surname. We need a school board member who especially sympathizes with these children's educational problems as well as stimulate the innate asset of their cultural heritage. Help Hank Hernandez be the first full term minority member on the Santa Barbara School Board ever...for all the children.
