

New rental agreement rejected by landlords

By DEBBY PETERSON
DN Staff Writer

A new rental agreement proposed by the Contract Negotiations Committee (DN, 1-7-70) met with considerable opposition from I.V. landlords Friday afternoon at a meeting in the Community Service Center.

Landlords, in general, felt the proposed month-to-month contract, including a term of lease clause to prevent rent raises, was unacceptable.

Independent owner, Kenneth Peterson, voiced his opinion that students would move from apartment to apartment as the previous apartment became dirty.

Bud Oxford, owner of Embarcadero Realty Company, pointed out that "students could move out, not filling that vacancy, leaving the landlord with an empty apartment."

A suggestion that I.V. housing contracts be placed on a quarterly basis was also rejected by apartment owners and realty companies.

Such a set up, landlords explained, would involve an increase in paper work, the threat of a 25-40 per cent move, loss of rent and additional cleaning responsibilities for owners.

A suggestion was then made that perhaps a variety of quarterly and yearly contracts could be offered to students. No opposition was made to this request and the owner of Surf Rider Apartments, Jim Rothschild, suggested that an alternative to the nine month plan be written into the contract.

The idea of individual liability for one's own portion of the rent also met with antagonism from owners. "We are renting furnished apartments, not bedspace," they explained.

Don Lawrence, president of Beaumont - Gribon - Von Dyl Realty, then suggested that this year's leases be used next year so that both landlords and students could come to better understand each other's problems. Problems could be compiled by the end of this school year and discussed again next year, he proposed.

Health Center announces new dental care program

By M.X. DEAN
DN Reporter

"Student response will determine the extent and success of dental care here at UCSB", declared Robert Thacker of the Student Health Service (SHS) in announcing the opening of the Health Center's pilot dental program.

The primary purpose of the pilot dental program will be emergency care, such as temporary fillings, trench mouth and emergency extractions at a moderate cost.

However, regular dental care will also be available on an appointment basis. The clinic, located in Room 1017 of the Health Center near the Isla Vista entrance, will initially be open on Mondays and Tuesdays beginning Jan. 18. Appointments are now being taken by Mrs. Begg at 961-2891 (if no answer, 961-2086) and in person at the clinic during office hours 8 a.m. - noon, 1-5 p.m., closed Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday.

The clinic is equipped with five modern dental chairs, an x-ray machine and laboratory facilities. Dental work will be performed by Dr. Thomas J. Kindel, a semi-retired dentist who has practiced in Goleta since 1944.

A dental hygienist will also be available on a scheduled basis, although no regular hours have been established.

The dental clinic was originally supposed to be opened in the fall quarter, 1971. However, since the

HEARING TOMORROW

Zeitlin seeks interim relief

The Santa Barbara Superior Court will hold a hearing tomorrow morning to decide whether Professor Maurice Zeitlin will be granted interim relief while the University appeals the original court decision in his favor.

If relief is granted, Professor Zeitlin will be allowed to use University office space and facilities in order to continue his research while awaiting the outcome of the University's appeal.

Zeitlin is being defended by attorney Gerald Franklin, although a representative of the American Civil Liberties Union has become interested in the case and has filed a "friend of the court" brief in Zeitlin's behalf.

The court ruled against Zeitlin on Nov. 9 when he attempted to name the U.C. Regents as a party to the case along with Chancellor Vernon Cheadle. Judge C. Douglas Smith ruled at that time that the petition for a writ of mandate naming the Regents had been improperly served by Franklin.

The petition has now been legally served, according to Walter Buckley of the Sociology Department.

Canham tells Isla Vista gathering: 'Two cultures should get together'

By RICH EBER
DN Staff Writer

"I believe the two cultures should get together to work out practical measures," Erwin Canham editor-in-chief of the Christian Science Monitor, told an assorted audience Sunday afternoon.

Canham who was a member of the much criticized Scranton Commission on Campus Disorder, referred to the "Counter Culture" as having a penchant for pure "idealism," yet also being "contemptuous of those who have not shared in their views."

He also characterized the activism in youth as rejecting conventional norms of collective materialism in terms of self interest, rules and power.

Because of this divergence in values Canham reasoned that the new youth culture became increasingly oppositional and polarized from society.

Canham pointed to the diverse dress in the audience and the regenerated interest by youth in ecology, music and art, as being manifestations of the counter culture's discontent, but also their positive characteristics in bringing change to society.

In his speech and during a later rap session with students, Canham stated that violence on campus and other civil discontent was not the answer in bringing change to society. Instead, he outlined several alternatives of

Ecology Action will mark spill date, plans joint paper recycling program

By DOUG ROBERTS

Plans for joint efforts in recycling and in the celebration of the second anniversary of the Santa Barbara oil spill were formulated at Ecology Action's (EA) meeting last Friday night.

Santa Barbara City College's active ecology group will recycle newspapers through Ecology Action in order to make use of EA's $6,000 bailing machine. The new bailer creates rather impressive bundles of newspapers weighing 800 pounds each, as required by companies buying used newsprint.

Another ecology group, the Community Environment Committee (CEC), composed of Santa Barbara residents, will be joined by Ecology Action and SBCC in commemorating the second anniversary of the oil spill this Jan. 28.

Festivities will take place in front of CEC's Ecology Center in downtown Santa Barbara. The street there will be sealed off and displays will be set up concerned with various aspects of the fight to preserve the environment.

The need for more personnel and organization for the variety of projects Ecology Action is interested in was the second major topic of discussion. The recycling effort was of primary concern.

Only a few people have been showing up at 11:30 a.m. Saturdays in Perfect Park for the weekly pick-ups. Ecology Action's hopes that 30-40 people could be recruited from the 11,000 in I.V. in order to limit the time required for pick-ups have appeared largely unjustified.

Another recycling problem cited was inadequate jobs performed by a large percentage of the survival centers. The need to separate the bottles by color, remove the metal from the bottles and to carry unbundled newspapers was said to slow the collection process considerably.

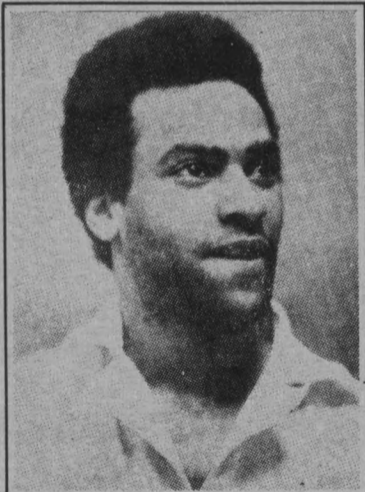

Despite their lack of personnel Ecology Action supported two more projects that will require volunteer help. The first of these involves a daily patrol through the West Dunes Ecological Preserve beginning this spring.

Patrol members will ask trespassers to stay out of the Dunes in order to preserve the unique environment there. Only the West Dunes are restricted and even there, certain areas designated for surfing and sunbathing have been left.

Los Padres National Forest was the focus of the second project. Peter Schapiro appeared to ask Ecology Action to organize people for weekend or single day projects in the forest.

Schapiro described the forests as being in very poor shape due to the recent fires and neglect as a result of understaffing in the Forestry Service. Projects would include camp clean-up, brush-clearing and removal of old

Huey Newton

Supreme Commander and Minister of Defense of the Black Panther Party, Huey Newton will be speaking at the Campus Stadium Wednesday at noon.

Newton, 28, was instrumental in the implementation of the Merritt College Black Studies Department, the first in the nation. He is a graduate of Merritt College in Oakland.

Newton is currently out on bail, awaiting a retrial of a manslaughter charge from 1968.

Admission is free to the event, co-sponsored by the Center for Black Studies and Associated Students Arts and Lectures.

Landlords reject proposals

It was generally pointed out by the realties that there was little time to accomplish anything this year as leases must go to press Feb. 1.

In an attempt to cover more territory, it was suggested and generally agreed upon that a meeting should be held again on Wednesday. A general meeting with the I.V. community may be in the offing in another two weeks.

Both groups decided to create smaller committees to represent their interests at the next and any ensuing meetings. Landlords chose as their representing body members of IPM and Embarcadero Realities, the owners of the French Quarter and the Surf Rider and another independent owner. Bud Oxford of Embarcadero Realty was chosen as their spokesman.

The students were unable to finalize membership on their committee, but promised to have done so by the next meeting. Barney Barnett, co-chairman of CAB; Paul Gassaway, A.S. Administrative vice president and a member of the Tenants Union will serve on the committee.

Landlords stated that they had come to negotiate with the Associated Students, not a Tenants Union. In light of the ensuing negotiations which, it appeared, would involve a Tenants Union, Bud Oxford resigned as spokesman for the landlords.

It was finally agreed that a member of the Tenants Union could serve on the negotiating committee, but that they would not deal with just a Tenants Union.

Jim Rothschild of the Surf Rider pointed out that he felt the trouble lay in the fact that "most landlords use different rules here than elsewhere."

Bud Oxford disagreed, reminding the student committee that "either you will accept a full rent contract, two months rent in advance or there is nothing to negotiate."

UCLA surveys L.A. residents on bussing

Los Angeles area residents generally favor desegregation in Los Angeles public schools but largely oppose bussing students to achieve it, according to UCLA's Survey Research Center.

Analysis of data collected revealed that 75 per cent of those interviewed favored "desegrating public schools so that Negro, Mexican-American, and Anglo children will attend the same schools." Only 19 per cent opposed desegregation and 7 per cent were undecided.

On the other hand, 69 per cent of the sample opposed bussing of students, even if "the only way schools can be desegregated fairly quickly is for some of the children to ride school buses." Bussing was favored by 25 per cent with 6 per cent undecided.

Interviews on these and other issues were conducted in spring 1970 with 1,026 adults from a representative cross-section of Los Angeles County households.

Reasons given most frequently to support attitudes on desegregation were that "equality in educational facilities and teachers" and "race-mixing to produce better citizens" were desirable goals.

The substantial majority, however, thought that desegregation should occur without bussing and "only with children already living in the neighborhood."

Canham

working within the system:

- rapid termination of the war in Vietnam

- full justice for all ethnic minorities—Black, Chicano, Indian and the poor

- more intensive work in obtaining peace with nature in the ecology movement

- curbing the industrial complex

According to Canham, it is of utmost importance to reform the rules of Congress so that committee chairmen representing districts with heavy defense benefits would not dictate legislative action.

To provide this political reform, Canham called upon the voters to put pressure on politicians so that necessary changes can be made.

In addition to concrete programs Canham suggested, "The two cultures in America should open wider avenues of communication with each other."

While saying this task is difficult, he said it wasn't impossible if "criticism and response could join."

In obtaining these goals Canham said, "Young people should be encouraged to work in the political process. Welcome, utilize and prove to them that working within the system is better than trying to destroy it."

Along with the acceptance of youth's ideas, Canham encouraged increased political participation by all ages in place of the apathy he said is currently plaguing society.

In response to the opinion of one member of the audience, that overthrowing the system is the only course available to bring change, Canham commented, "Change must come steadily, but not through violence."

Faculty favors renewal of UC AEC contract

Statewide faculty members of the University of California have voted 2,278-1,712 in favor of continuing and strengthening operations of research facilities with the Atomic Energy Commission, it was learned Wednesday.

The present contract with AEC expires Sept. 30, 1972 and involves AEC facilities at Livermore, Calif. and Los Alamos, N.M. In 1968, over $162 million in federal funds was allocated to the University for weapons research at the two facilities.

The majority of work at both facilities (80 per cent at Livermore and 65 per cent at Los Alamos) is devoted to weapons research and design, most involving nuclear and thermonuclear devices.

Official results of the voting will be presented at the Jan. 22 meeting of the Regents who hold final authority in UC dealings with AEC.

Dental care to start...

new Health Center came complete with the dental facilities, the SHS Administration secured a loan through the Chancellor's Office to begin a pilot dental program.

The function of the project, besides offering dental care to the student body, is to determine student reaction and whether the clinic can be financially self-supporting.

The program will run through June 15 at which time it will be evaluated by both Student Health Center and Administration officials as to its continued mode and extent of operation.

Thacker emphasized that this pilot project was undertaken in the belief that students would support a dental clinic. "It depends solely on how much on-campus care they want. Increased demand will result in increased days of operation."

Although this entire program is experimental in form, the SHS is hopeful that it can develop into a full-time student dental care service.

Counseling Center introduces new programs and facilities

Has the Counseling Center gone schizophrenic? The staff announces a fourth location, the Personal Exploration Center, opening today in Bldg. 478, and denies all charges of their services possessing a split personality.

The new location's purpose is to fill the need of students in a more relaxed environment.

With the opening of the Personal Exploration Center a new "Peer-Counseling" program will also begin.

The Peer-Counselors, who are eight undergraduate students with a wide and divergent range of backgrounds and interests, will operate a student run office at the new location.

Interested in talking to students about "differing attitudes in education and life styles," the Peers set their goal at the "sharing of thoughts and feelings toward the solution of everyday hassles and discussing the alternatives and resources of the University."

Barbara Ibarra, one of the Peer-Counselors states, "The emphasis is on informality and privacy, which we hope we can establish by being at the same age level, and personalizing a place where you can come and talk knowing there will be people here to listen. A personal discussion place, a loose meeting place where things aren't structured and sterile."

"My main thing is to help facilitate the realization in people that the Counseling Center as well as our program is warm, human and a friendship type thing," explained Ray Sparrowe. He went on to say the Center "fills a need; that I have personally to share some of the things that have helped me—that are important and I think can be a benefit to others."

To sum up the program's purpose, Julian Sanchez, another Peer-Counselor explained, "The idea is that one doesn't really need to have a problem to come by, but if someone has time on their hands and doesn't feel like going to the University Center, that they can come by here to relax, talk and have a cup of coffee or tea."

The Peer Office will be open from 4 p.m. — 8 p.m. on Mondays through Thursdays and from 6 p.m. — 10 p.m. on Fridays.

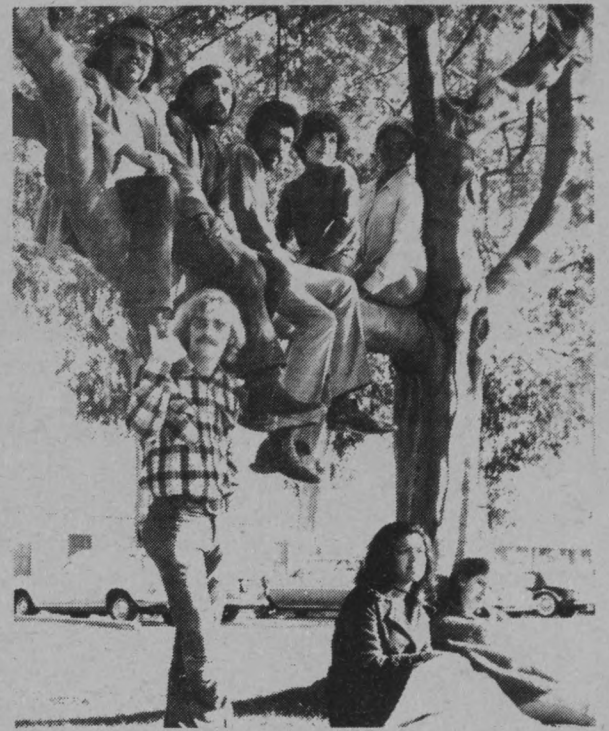

The Personal Exploration

Center will also house drop-in counseling, with the professional staff, from 10 a.m. — noon and 2 p.m. — 4 p.m. week days, and a Career Development Center staffed from 9 a.m. — 3 p.m. and open till 5 p.m.

The Career Development Center will contain information on career jobs and which schools offer programs for the different types of graduate and undergraduate studies. It is run by Marilyn Wienstock, Counselor, and a group of volunteer women who, as Miss Wienstock stated "are eager and happy to talk to students about any kind of thing they're trying to find out in any area of work or futher study."

Other locations for counseling services are in the Administration Building, which handles testing and appointment scheduling and is open from 8 a.m. — 5 p.m., the Community Counseling Center in the Isla Vista Community Service Center open from 2 p.m. — 10 p.m. and the Reading Studies Center open 8 a.m. — 5 p.m. with special arrangements during evenings.

The counseling staff encourages all to take advantage of new and existing services available. The Peers extend their invitation to stop by the northwest wing of Building 478 (old student health building).

Dear Stuck:
Well, that's a pretty sticky situation! Sounds like alot's going on, but nothing's coming off! (Your pans, that is!) Maybe you should try using cast-iron-type skillets— or else invest more money into one good pan. There is also a new non-stick food spray "Pam" you might use to avoid sticky pans and it saves calories, too!

Dear Joanie:
My roommate and I have budgeted so much money for food and so much for liquor. I've never experienced a thirsty moment yet, but I lost 10 pounds last week and the cubboards are bare! Something's wrong here.

Dear Floating:
You're right—don't dip into money for food to use for booze! Apparently you've allotted a little TOO much for the "liquid" part of your budget. Shop wisely—buy as many non-perishables in volume as possible and don't pay for the package—pay for the product inside. You can save alot more by buying the large boxes or bags rather than the individual packets. (Cut down on that "cooking" sherry!)

Editor's Note

The letter from Brad Smith, GSA President, written to Chancellor Cheadle on the Zeitlin Case, is reprinted here with the endorsement of the NEXUS. We encourage all to read it carefully and also urge our readers to note the strange similarities between the letters from Chancellor Cheadle and President Hitch. In such a case it is incumbent that President Hitch maintain impartiality as mediator; he obviously has chosen not to do so. This case of violated academic freedom concerns ALL of us in the University.

Cheadle reveals position on Zeitlin Case to GSA

Dear Mr. Brad Smith:

This is a reply to your letter of Dec. 10 which included a resolution passed by the Graduate Students Association, 15-4, at its meeting on Dec. 1, 1970. I can reply by briefly reviewing the case.

I withdrew Dr. Zeitlin's appointment (without salary) at UCSB after learning in mid-July that Dr. Zeitlin had engaged in conduct at the University of Wisconsin which I deemed to be unprofessional. Dr. Zeitlin initiated litigation to contest my action.

The Superior Court hearing in Dr. Zeitlin's lawsuit was held in Santa Barbara on Oct. 9, 1970. At the end of that proceeding, I was ordered to arrange for a University hearing on the termination of Dr. Zeitlin's visiting research appointment. In the litigation I had taken the position that an enforceable contract with Dr. Zeitlin never existed, but that in any event good cause existed for withdrawing Dr. Zeitlin's appointment. On that same occasion Dr. Zeitlin's attorney conceded that the University would be entitled to argue that Zeitlin's invitation to use campus facilities for his own research could be terminated without good cause at the University hearing.

I decided not to appeal the court's Oct. 9 decision and asked President Hitch to arrange for a University hearing. He did so promptly and Dean Edward Barrett of the Law School, UCD, agreed to serve as the hearing officer. Dean Barrett scheduled the hearing for San Francisco on Oct. 23, 1970. The University offered to meet the travel expenses of all parties to the hearing, including attorneys and witnesses for Dr. Zeitlin.

Two days before the Administrative hearing was to have been held, Dr. Zeitlin's attorney, contrary to his previous concession as to the scope of the University's rights at the hearing, persuaded the judge to issue an order preventing the University from contesting the nature of Dr. Zeitlin's relationship to UCSB. The judge's action was without notice to the University and without an evidentiary hearing, which should have been conducted before the court so ruled. The President postponed the scheduled Administrative hearing so that appropriate judicial relief might be sought after he was advised by the University's attorneys that the judge's ruling was erroneous and substantially prejudiced the University's right to offer pertinent evidence at the hearing.

On Nov. 25 at the President's request the University's attorney wrote to Dr. Zeitlin's attorney, formally offering Dr. Zeitlin a hearing to be conducted in accordance with the procedures originally proposed by Dean Barrett. Dec. 9 was suggested as the date for such a University hearing. On Dec. 7 the University was advised that Dr. Zeitlin declined the hearing offer and would initiate further legal proceedings. Dr. Zeitlin made such a decision even though the scope of the hearing proposed by Dean Barrett was the same as agreed to by Dr. Zeitlin's attorney during the Oct. 9, 1970 court hearing.

I trust you agree that the University is as much entitled to a hearing on its position as Dr. Zeitlin is on his.

Please also remember that Dr. Zeitlin has now named the Regents in his suit, thus adding another dimension in the litigation.

I enclose a copy of the last public statement by me in this matter. You may have copies of the rest of them if you wish.

VERNON I. CHEADLE
Chancellor

GSA slams Cheadle on Zeitlin

Chancellor Cheadle:

This letter takes up some points you mentioned in your letter of Dec. 23 to me. You state you can reply to my letter to you by "briefly reviewing the case." The problems with your reply are the very problems which have plagued the entire issue from the beginning.

You state that after you withdrew Dr. Zeitlin's appointment, Dr. Zeitlin initiated litigation to contest your action. Is it not a fact that, prior to initiating litigation of any kind, Dr. Zeitlin attempted to secure from you the reasons for your withdrawing his appointment? Only after failing to secure from you an adequate hearing of his case did Dr. Zeitlin, as you state, initiate litigation.

LOGIC

Your claim that Dr. Zeitlin's attorney conceded that our University would be entitled to argue that it could terminate Dr. Zeitlin's appointment without good cause runs counter to the logic behind Dr. Zeitlin's initiation of litigation in the first place, and in the second place, runs counter to the resultant decision of the court.

You say that you decided not to appeal the court's Oct. 9 decision and that a hearing of Dr. Zeitlin's case was arranged to take place in San Francisco on Oct. 23, 1970. What you do not state is that the ground rules for such a hearing were set up such that the question of whether or not Dr. Zeitlin had a contract was to be argued again, rather than the question of Dr. Zeitlin's alleged "unprofessional conduct." The court had already established on Oct. 9 that Dr. Zeitlin was an academic appointee, and was thereby entitled to a hearing under Section 191 of the Administrative Manual of the University of California. Such a hearing should deal with our University's cause for withdrawing Dr. Zeitlin's appointment, not with its right to do so.

Additionally, it should be pointed out that our University's offer to pay the travel expenses of all parties to the hearing was not made to Dr. Zeitlin's party until one, or at the most, two days prior to the time the hearing was to have been held. This is evidenced by the nature of the refusal of Dr. Zeitlin's attorney to submit to a hearing any great distance from Santa Barbara due to the expense of travel (see article by Mike Salerno, UCSB DAILY NEXUS, Oct. 21, 1970, in which he cites Dr. Zeitlin's counsel to this effect).

You claim that Dr. Zeitlin's attorney persuaded the judge to issue an order preventing our University from contesting the nature of Dr. Zeitlin's relationship to UCSB. Judge Smith's order to which you refer was in fact an ex parte order explaining his earlier ruling. Judge Smith explicitly states that the existence of a contract between Dr. Zeitlin and our University is not at issue; rather, that he is an academic appointee and that the University Administration must assume the burden of proof and show cause why the appointment of Dr. Zeitlin should be terminated. It may be the case that Judge Smith overstepped the bounds of his authority in issuing such an order or violated accepted procedure. If so, this does not alter the fact that Judge Smith viewed this order as nothing more than a simple explication of his earlier ruling.

Dr. Zeitlin's refusal of the offer of a second hearing, to be held Dec. 9, "to be conducted in accordance with the procedures originally proposed," was not in violation of any previous agreement made by Dr. Zeitlin's attorney in regard to the first hearing, as you claim, because the University Administration intended to persist in pursuing the question of whether or not Dr. Zeitlin had a right to a hearing showing good cause for "withdrawal" of his appointment—a question already answered in the affirmative by Judge Smith's ruling of Oct. 9.

HEARING

Moreover, I cannot agree with you "that the University is as much entitled to a hearing on its position as Dr. Zeitlin is." To equate the entity of "the University" with the entity of an aggrieved individual in any claim for a hearing is to no small degree specious in that "the University" stands to lose nothing in the contested interim, whereas Dr. Zeitlin suffers daily from "the University's" intransigence. To fail to distinguish between the two entities is bureaucratic arrogance and usurpation on your part. To presume that the Administration alone speaks for the University shows a callous disregard for the kinds of concerns which motivate students to side against "the University" in such matters.

Furthermore, it may be, as you claim, that Dr. Zeitlin's naming of the Regents in his suit adds another dimension to the litigation. However, this is an obfuscation, since it was a technicality brought up by the Administration's counsel at the Oct. 9 hearing, and that it makes absolutely no difference in the final outcome. At most, the original failure to bring in the Regents constitutes an oversight on the part of Dr. Zeitlin's attorney.

In your "last public statement" (UCSB DAILY NEXUS, Oct. 21, 1970, p. 5, col. 1)

Hitch reaffirms Cheadle position on Zeitlin Case

Dear Mr. Smith:

This is a reply to your letter of Dec. 10, 1970, which contains a resolution passed by the UCSB Graduate Students Association in support of Dr. Maurice Zeitlin. The resolution expresses the opinion that the University Administration has demonstrated a "prima facie lack of good cause" for the withdrawal of Dr. Zeitlin's appointment by appealing Judge Smith's decision. The following chronology does not substantiate the conclusion expressed in the resolution; in fact, Dr. Zeitlin has just declined the University's second offer to grant him a hearing on the merits of his contention that his visiting research appointment was improperly withdrawn.

Chancellor Cheadle has stated that he withdrew Dr. Zeitlin's appointment at UCSB after learning in mid-July that Dr. Zeitlin had engaged in conduct at the University of Wisconsin which he deemed to be unprofessional. Dr. Zeitlin initiated litigation to contest Chancellor Cheadle's action.

The Superior Court hearing in Dr. Zeitlin's lawsuit was held in Santa Barbara on Oct. 9, 1970. At the end of that proceeding, Chancellor Cheadle was ordered to arrange for a University hearing on the termination of Dr. Zeitlin's visiting research appointment. In the litigation Chancellor Cheadle had taken the position that an enforceable contract with Dr. Zeitlin never existed, but that in any event good cause existed for withdrawing Dr. Zeitlin's appointment. On that same occasion Dr. Zeitlin's attorney conceded that the University would be entitled to argue that Zeitlin's invitation to use campus facilities for his own research could be terminated without good cause at the University hearing.

Chancellor Cheadle decided not to appeal the court's Oct. 9 decision and asked me to arrange for a University hearing inasmuch as he had taken the action to withdraw Dr. Zeitlin's invitation. I did so promptly and Dean Edward Barrett of the Law School, UCD, agreed to serve as the hearing officer. Dean Barrett scheduled the hearing for San Francisco on Oct. 23, 1970. The University offered to meet the travel expenses of parties to the hearing, including attorneys and witnesses for Dr. Zeitlin.

Two days before the Administrative hearing was to have been held, Dr. Zeitlin's attorney, contrary to his previous concession as to the scope of the University's rights at the hearing, persuaded the judge to issue an order preventing the University from contesting the nature of Dr. Zeitlin's relationship to UCSB. The judge's action was without notice to the University and without an evidentiary hearing which should have been conducted before the court so ruled. I postponed the scheduled Administrative hearing so that appropriate judicial relief might be sought after I was advised by the University's attorneys that the judge's ruling was erroneous and substantially prejudiced the University's right to offer pertinent evidence at the hearing.

On Nov. 25 at my request the University's attorney wrote to Dr. Zeitlin's attorney, formally offering Dr. Zeitlin a hearing to be conducted in accordance with the procedures originally proposed by Dean Barrett. Dec. 9 was suggested as the date for such a University hearing. On Dec. 7, the University was advised that Dr. Zeitlin declined the hearing offer and would initiate further legal proceedings. Dr. Zeitlin made such a decision even though the scope of the hearing proposed by Dean Barrett was the same as agreed to by Dr. Zeitlin's attorney during the Oct. 9, 1970 court hearing.

I trust you agree that the University is as much entitled to a hearing on its position as Dr. Zeitlin is on his.

Yours sincerely,
CHARLES J. HITCH

Zeitlin defended

NEXUS, Oct. 16) to which you refer, you claim to document your charge of unprofessional conduct against Dr. Zeitlin. Two instances are mentioned. First, you refer to Dr. Zeitlin's participation in the Senator Gaylord Nelson panel discussion at Madison, Wisconsin, on May 15, 1970. Secondly, you refer to Dr. Zeitlin's participation in a "strike" at the University of Wisconsin following the United States' incursion into Cambodia.

TOOK OVER

In the first instance, you claim that Dr. Zeitlin "took over" the panel discussion and made an "intemperate and inflammatory" speech. You say that Dr. Zeitlin was refused a pay increase at the University of Wisconsin because of this behavior. In fact, Dr. Zeitlin was invited to speak at the panel discussion by all participants on the panel, and he did not speak until both the panel and the audience consented to his speaking. Likewise, Senator Nelson's administrative assistant wrote to Dr. Zeitlin making it clear that Senator Nelson did not consider Dr. Zeitlin's conduct in any way offensive. (Sources for these conclusions are: letters to Acting Chairman of the UCSB Sociology Department, Walter Buckley from the panelists at the May 15 event; a pair of articles in the UCSB DAILY NEXUS, Oct. 22, 1970; and stories in the May 16, 1970 editions of The State Journal and The Capitol Times of Madison, Wisconsin.)

SECOND CLAIM

In the second instance, you claim that Dr. Zeitlin was not docked at his own request for his participation in the Cambodia "strike," but that the docking was a penalty imposed on Dr. Zeitlin by the Administration of the University of Wisconsin. If you would carefully read the attachments to your own brief for the Oct. 9 hearing, you would notice that the only way in which any of the professors mentioned could have been docked was at their own initiative.

In your statement of Oct. 16 you also state: "As far as I am concerned, the loss of pay and the rejection of a salary increase were penalties imposed by the University of Wisconsin for unprofessional conduct on the part of Dr. Zeitlin; and it was his conduct just described that caused me to withdraw the invitation."

"PENALTIES"

You and other administrators may construe these as "penalties," but they are by no means and by no stretch of the imagination proof or documentation of

"unprofessional conduct" on the part of Dr. Zeitlin. Perhaps closer to the truth is the fact that the Chancellor of the University of California at Santa Barbara regards Dr. Zeitlin as a potential threat to the stability of the University community. In this connection, witness the associate counsel of the Regents, acting on your behalf at the Oct. 9 hearing: "...he is the type of person who is going to holler "fire!" in a crowded theater. That's the type of man he is." He also broadly claimed that two persons who were subsequently CHARGED with the bombing of the Army Mathematics Research Center at Madison, Wisconsin, FIVE MONTHS LATER were POSSIBLY present at Dr.

Zeitlin's speech at the Nelson panel discussion and that they MAY have been influenced (if they were present) by that speech to perpetrate their alleged deed (if they were present, if they were influenced, if they...etc.). If any line of reasoning be more tenuous than this, let us never see it invoked in a matter bearing on the personal fate of a man in a court of law in the United States. It would appear that, contrary to Dr. Zeitlin's being a potential danger to the stability of UCSB, he has demonstrated his reasonableness and respect for due process by the way in which he has conducted himself both at Madison and since his arrival here to face ridiculous charges and the (Continued on p. 6, col. 4) failure of the Administration of the University of California to follow the University's rules pertaining to the dispute.

SUMMARY

In summary, it should be pointed out that of two possible issues of contention between Dr. Zeitlin and the University Administration, one has been settled and the other is a blatant fabrication. The first issue concerns whether or not Dr. Zeitlin was bona fide academic appointee and therefore entitled to a hearing showing good cause. Judge Smith ruled on the Oct. 9, 1970, hearing that he is.

The second issue concerns whether or not Dr. Zeitlin is guilty of unprofessional conduct. Given that Dr. Zeitlin is an academic appointee, this second matter is for a hearing to decide, wherein the burden of proof that Dr. Zeitlin should be deprived of his privileges as a Research Sociologist is borne by the University. It is certainly not a matter for you as Chancellor to prejudge by your own lights and by whatever information you may be able to muster which is not subject to careful scrutiny and cross-examination by all parties concerned. Finally, one irony in all the charges made against Dr. Zeitlin, "documenting" his alleged unprofessional conduct, is that even if it developed that all such charges were true in substance, the argument has yet to be consummated that they constitute whatever might be termed "unprofessional conduct."

Chancellor Cheadle, if you have a genuine concern in maintaining the stability of our University community, I call upon you to repudiate the University counsel's attempt to save face, and to immediately provide Dr. Zeitlin with the privileges accorded a Research Sociologist.

Sincerely,
BRAD SMITH
President

Graduate Students Association

P.S. I have subsequently received from President Hitch a letter almost identical to yours. I have no way of knowing who is responsible for the similarities in phraseology and content, but I would have hoped that the President of our University could take a more objective view than does one of the parties to the dispute. For this reason, I shall refrain from drafting an individual reply to the President's letter.

Gauchos trounce SJS, Bulldogs; face Long Beach Sat.

HITTING THE OPEN MAN—Bob Schachter, shown here passing off to teammate Earl Frazier against UC Riverside, scored 33 points over the weekend to pace the Gauchos to wins over San Jose State and Fresno State. Schachter poured in 23 against the Bulldogs including 14 of UCSB's final 21 points. He has also connected on 21 straight free throws.

By STEVE HENZEL
It's good to be a winner. On the strength of great games by Ron Allen Friday night, and Bob Schachter Saturday, the Gauchos won their ninth and tenth games against only two losses, as they opened up the 1971 Pacific Coast Athletic Conference basketball season by defeating San Jose State, 81-61, and Fresno State, 91-65.

Friday night, the Gauchos scored the first six points in the game against San Jose's Spartans, and were never closer than four after that. The Spartans were just outclassed, and it looks like another long year for San Jose, as they went down to their thirteenth defeat against only two wins.

For Santa Barbara, it was an entirely different story. Doug Rex led all scorers with 23 points, and also grabbed 11 rebounds, but it was Allen who picked up the slack on a night when most of the team was a little off their game. Ron scored 22 points, twice his season average, and pulled in 10 rebounds from his guard spot, to end up third in that category for the night.

On Saturday, Fresno's Bulldogs came into Robertson Gym ready for anything Coach Barkey's team might throw at them. They lost Friday night to L.A. State by two, at the buzzer. Saturday night, it looked as if they were headed for their second straight league defeat without too much of a struggle, when the score was 48-38, Santa Barbara, at the half. But things changed suddenly.

They came out charging in the second half, and proceeded to whittle away at the lead, cutting it to only two with 11:46 left, and they trailed by as little as three, seven times. At 6:40, the game's leading scorer, Jerry Pender, who ended up with 27 points, scored a lay-up to make the score 69-66, but that was it for Fresno. John Tschogl sank a free throw, and then Schachter went on a tear and scored eight straight points, and 14 of the Gauchos' last 21. By the time Bob was finished, the closest the Bulldogs could get was nine, and the final score was 91-75, UCSB winning it.

Schachter was high scorer for Santa Barbara, with 23, including an incredible nine-for-nine at the free throw line; Rex was next with 20, Allen had 19, Tschogl sank 15 and Earl Frazier put in 11, as all five starters were in double figures.

This weekend the Gauchos go on the road for only the second time this season to take on the Aztecs of San Diego State, Friday, and, in the first of two meetings which may decide the PCAA title, the Gauchos meet Long Beach State Saturday, at the Long Beach Arena.

CSCLB, UCLA tickets on sale

By TOM WALSH

A limited number of tickets are available for the Cal State Long Beach and UCLA basketball games, so it is very important to understand the conditions regarding purchase.

According to Donn Bernstein, sports information director, tickets are now available for the Long Beach game. They are $1.50 each, if the purchaser presents a student identification card. The game will be played Saturday, Jan. 16, at the Long Beach Arena. For those who wish, bus transportation can be obtained by signing up at the Recreation Office. The price for the round trip is $2.50 and must accompany the sign up.

Tickets for the UCLA game go on sale tomorrow morning at 8:30. Purchases can be made at the Ticket Office in Robertson Gym. Only 185 student tickets are available for the Jan. 30 game. Seats cost $1.50 and are located in the upper end zone of Pauley Pavillion. There are also some 200 tickets priced at $3 each. They are also located in the upper end zone of the Pavillion, but are slightly lower seats. A map of the Pavillion will be shown at the time of purchase in order to inform the students as to just where the seats are located.

For those who cannot make the game in person, it will be televised on Channel 5 as the Pacific 8 Game of the Week with tip-off slated for 2 p.m. The direct telecast is a sellout.

Alan Hall

"My main worry was that I would only be able to read certain things faster, but I found the Evelyn Wood method actually works with technical reading as well as fiction. And with my major, it's a good thing."

David J. Samuelson

"Reading Dynamics has revolutionized my study and leisure time schedule. I can now read all of my assignments and supplementary texts in depth — and I still have ample time for pleasure reading."

Harold Taft

"Well, not only did my actual reading speed increase — it tripled in fact — but also I developed a whole new way of approaching study material. I'd say I'm a much better student now."

Stephen Hayes

"Well, the free introductory lesson hooked me into it. But boy was I glad when the results started showing. My grades are higher, I can read a novel in two hours and I remember what I read now, even author's names!"

Diane Jefferson

"I would never have gone to graduate school if I hadn't taken the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Course. I actually enjoy studying now."

Ronald F. Baireuther

"The primary reason for my taking the Evelyn Woods' Reading Dynamics course was to improve my technical reading. The results far surpassed my expectations. I increased my reading speed nine-fold and maintained my comprehension at 85%."

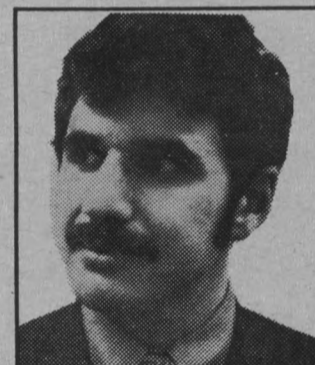

Christine Mar

"I guess what I remember most is the stress on ideas, not words. This was important to me at the time because I was taking a course in abstract thought and I really think Evelyn Wood got me through it."

Casimir A. Wilson

"I think Reading Dynamics is analogous to seeing a picture as a whole rather than as patches of color. That our public schools teach us to read word by word seems rather weak support for the conclusion that this is the only or even the most efficient way to read."

Lance Robbins

"I've found dynamic reading to be a valuable asset in researching and organizing material of a semi-technical nature as well as an aid in keeping abreast of current day developments."

We want you to decide for yourself the value of becoming a rapid reader through the use of the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Techniques.

Therefore, we are offering a special free one-hour lesson to provide you with a glimpse of what it is like to be a dynamic reader. You'll learn the rate of your present reading. You'll discover various study methods and procedures. And you'll actually participate in the techniques that will improve your reading and comprehension.

You'll find that there's no particular magic to becoming a speed reader...the real ingredient is mastering the proper techniques. Students, educators, businessmen and housewives, over 450,000 of them have mastered the Evelyn Wood method, and the late President Kennedy was sufficiently convinced of its value to invite Evelyn Wood to the White House to train his staff.
