Isla Vista Landlords May Face Charges of Alleged Price-Fixing

By JULIE GORDON

An investigation to discover if price-fixing exists in Isla Vista was recently completed by the Attorney General's office in Los Angeles.

A decision on whether to press charges against local landlords for engaging in "collusion" will be made by the Santa Barbara District Attorney's office.

Over a year ago Rent Control Alliance and Network, a political action group, informed the District Attorney's office that both the Santa Barbara Housing Council and the S.B. Apartment Association had announced plans to set prices and rent increases for their entire memberships.

Tony Romasanta, a major apartment owner in the Housing Council said, "People like Network are interested in causing dissatisfaction and confusion in the community. They appear at public meetings and oppose every single development project that would provide housing in the area. This gives them a platform in which to talk about rent control."

Romasanta described the council as "a group of major owners interested in providing decent housing." He said, "We are trying to educated people in the housing industry so the public is not gouged. We are interested in improving housing conditions and supply, and in avoiding additional government regulations in housing."

The council was informed by the Attorney General that they were in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust legislation by providing owners and landlords with specific guidelines as to how they should raise rents.

Both the Apartment Association and the Housing Council suggested raising rents according to the consumer price index increases which rose 12 percent last year. The majority of rents in Isla Vista were raised 12 percent this year.

According to a reliable source, "Every real estate study shows that rent increases go up half as much as the consumer price index, and half of landlord's costs are fixed. The landlords are not telling the management companies what to charge, but the management companies are telling the landlords what they can get."

Romasanta said the investigation, "does not affect us one bit. We have just become more vague in our suggestions. The Attorney General's office has backed off, and agrees with us."

According to the source, investigators from the Attorney General's office "rented nice cars, dressed in polyester suits and hid microphones in their lapels." They allegedly visited the major I.V. rental companies, initially asking about the climate.

The tapes which were recorded show that most of the management companies admitted meeting on a yearly basis, and one company even admitted that they do set a bottom line on rent increases.

The anonymous source added,

"Management companies learn there's a lot more profit in cooperation than competition. They know it is important to raise rents as they take six to ten percent off the top. One company increased their capital income $30,000 in two years."

A great deal of serious price-fixing escapes detection because overt communication is necessary to establish an attempt, but may not always be necessary to put

Weaver, McFarland and Hone Hold Edge in Water Board Race

With 65 percent of the vote tallied, Donald Weaver, Gary McFarland Donna Hone have an early lead in the Goleta Water Board race.

Thus far, UCSB geology professor Weaver had received 8188 votes for 18.55 percent of the total. McFarland and incumbent Hone received 7803 and 6755 votes respectively.

Trailing was Dave McDermott with 6406 votes or 14.32 percent, Steve Jones with 6321 votes and Frank Thompson with 6130 votes. These three candidates formed a second slate.

Of the two independent candidates, when 42 percent of the vote counted, Kenneth Coyle had 771 votes or 4.48 percent of the total and Justin Ruhge with 302 votes or 1.79 percent.

In the I.V. Sanitary District, David Lewis was ahead with 1787 votes, 27.08 percent of the total. In second place was James Green who had 1492 votes for 22.61 percent. Tom Kurz was close behind, garnering 1097 votes for 16.63 percent of the total.

It appears that all four of the statewide ballot measures will be approved. Proposition 1, the

More Mesa Plan Garner Approval

By HELEN BASSHAM

Approval for the development of 300 units of housing at More Mesa was granted by the Santa Barbara county Board of Supervisors yesterday.

The board first rejected plans for both more extensive development and for zero development.

The final decision met with vocal disapproval on the part of some audience members who were supporters of the More Mesa Land Trust, a group organized by Dr. Larry Bickford for the protection of the More Mesa landscape.

A local contractor, Don Simonson, controls the land which is currently owned by Columbia University in New York. Originally the area was designated for planned residential development with a maximum of 600 units.

However, the Local Coastal Planning Commission, recommended an Ag-1-40 zoning designation, which would prevent development of the area by putting it within rural boundaries, and by allowing 40-acre minimum land parcels.

Another plan, presented by the county Planning Commission, would have zoned the area within urban boundaries and allowed the development of 540 units of housing. This plan eventually passed by the board closely followed the CPC plan except that the 540 units were decreased to 300.

This plan passed with a 3-2 vote.

Supervisor Robert Kallman said the decision to zone the land as urban or agricultural was "controversial," and it was "not inconsistent to retain it" as part of the agriculture land plan. Supervisor Harrell Fletcher, however, said that zoning the area as agricultural to limit urban growth was "not fair to property

Moratorium On Licenses Halts Diablo Canyon

By KAREN CLABEAUX

Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant will be among four not to be granted operating licenses by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission due to the moratorium on all nuclear licensing, the NRC announced to the House of Representatives in Washington Monday.

"Basically the chair of the NRC told the House that the primary concerns of the staff are to review the Presidential Commission report, and our own internal investigations concerning Three-Mile Island and its relation to future plants," said NRC spokesman Jim Hanchett.

Diablo Canyon was expected by the staff to have been decided upon by early next year. This moratorium will serve to delay the project.

"There won't be any decision on Diablo now at least until next spring," said Hanchett, "right now it stands in second level priority."

The moratorium will stand, for both operating and construction licenses, until the NRC adopts a new set of safety, siting and emergency standards.

"Operating plants have got to be our first priority...but if all goes well, I think we could resume licensing by the springtime of 1980," said Harold Denton, director of nuclear reactor regulation, in a recent interview.

Despite Opposition, Concepcion Chosen

By DEBBIE YORK

Active opposition to the importation, transportation and storage of LNG has existed since 1972, but it took the serious consideration of Pt. Concepcion as the West Coast's first terminal in 1976 to cause local opposition to surface.

The site is actually located three and one half miles east of Pt. Concepcion at Little Cojo bay. A terminal there is opposed because of the environmental, archaeological and religious significance of the area.

Southern California Edison bought 970 acres at Little Cojo in 1976 in an estate sale of Hollister Ranch after the death of the son of the original William Hollister. Edison planned to build a nuclear power plant there. Their plans never materialized, however, and Western LNG subsequently sought to buy the land from Edison for the LNG terminal. The purchase agreement was concluded this month.

According to Charlie Ekberg, Hollister Ranch manager, "The Hollisters were always opposed to the development of the area." The residents of the adjacent Bixby and Hollister Ranches have been opposed to the development of the Little Cojo site since Edison's purchase of it.

Environmentalists have also long been opposed to the development of the land, saying that Pt. Concepcion is a "pristine area" and one of the last remaining stretches of undeveloped coastal areas in California. They also fear that an LNG terminal will lead to further industrialization of the area.

When Western LNG began trenching at the site in order to assess the potential earthquake dangers, they encountered opposition from the Native Americans. The Indians believe the Pt. Concepcion area is sacred land. It is the site of burial grounds and is known as the "Western Gate", where souls pass out of this world to the life beyond. The Chumash are the traditional "keepers" of the Western Gate.

Of the Indian occupation of the land when the trenching began in April, 1978, Tom Sanger, press relations supervisor for Pacific Lighting Corporation, said, "We had no prior knowledge of the Indian's religious concerns at the site. We knew of the existence of a village there because of archaeological studies."

Pt. Concepcion was originally considered as a possible site for an LNG terminal in 1976 as an alternative means to bring in gas from the north slope of Alaska. Later, it was decided to bring in the gas by pipeline. By then, however, much work and study had been carried out at the site.

Originally, Western LNG wanted to build two terminals, one in Los Angeles harbor for the Indonesian gas and one in Oxnard for the Alaskan gas. The LNG Terminal Act of 1977, however, mandated that the terminal be built in a remote area. "After the LNG Act, Pt. Concepcion became the logical site because so much work had been done there," said Sanger.

HEADLINERS

The State

ALAMEDA COUNTY — The trial of former Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver on charges of attempted murder and assault stemming from an Apr. 6, 1968, shootout with police was postponed until Jan. 24. Attorney Marc Topel, representing Cleaver, said the postponement was requested because the Alameda County Superior Court calendar is crowded and the holiday season is approaching. Cleaver, presently free on $100,000 bail, did not appear for the brief postponement procedure in Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO — Limited service resumed on one of San Francisco's three cable car lines — but the city is still seeking $9 million in private funds to obtain a federal grant for renovation of the other two lines. All the city's cable car lines were shut down six weeks ago for long-needed repairs on the 106-year-old system, but the 1.5 mile California St. line was reopened after crews worked 18-hour days to make repairs.

LOS ANGELES — Twenty-one persons suffered minor injuries in a rear-end collision involving two buses in the southbound lanes of the Hollywood Freeway in downtown Los Angeles. The California Highway Patrol said a No. 44 (Beverly Hills line) Rapid Transit District bus changed lanes near the Temple St. exit and was struck in the right rear by a Continental Trailways bus. Passengers on both buses complained of injuries, mostly bumps and bruises.

The Nation

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Fourteen men, described by a judge as "imminently dangerous to others of the community," were ordered held without bond in Greensboro, N.C., on charges arising from a shooting rampage Saturday that caused the deaths of five persons attending an anti-Ku Klux Klan rally. Twelve men were arrested a few hundred feet from the site of the shootings, at a predominantly black housing project, where gunmen fired repeatedly into a crowd gathered by the leftist Workers Viewpoint Organization.

WASHINGTON D.C. — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported that a space shuttle engine apparently suffered extensive interior damage during an abortive weekend ground test firing. The incident could cause a new delay in the effort to launch the rocket plane next year. A spokesman said that during a test firing all three engines, a seal failed in No. 3, causing all three engines to shut down. And during the shut-down process, a hydrogen pipe ruptured on the No. 1 engine, causing an oxygen-rich combustion that produced extremely high temperatures.

CENTRAL PLAINS — The second major snowstorm of the season rolled across the Central Plains dumping heavy falls on parts of Nebraska, closing schools and causing scattered power outages. Snow squalls lingered in the Rockies and up to 9 inches of snow fell in northwest Wyoming.

The World

DUBLIN, IRELAND — The prosecution in the murder of two Irishmen accused in the assassination of Earl Mountbatten of Burma said Monday that defendants Thomas McMahon and Francis McGill planted the bomb that blew up Mountbatten's fishing boat Aug. 27, but that someone else apparently set it off. Both defendants pleaded innocent as the trial opened in Dublin under heavy security. Both were apprehended about 100 miles from the scene of the crime before the bomb went off.

ITALY — Chinese Premier Hua Guofeng discussed Mideast affairs with Italian President Sandro Pertini, singling out the efforts of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to bring peace to the troubled region. Italian officials said that Hua, who is wrapping up a four-nation swing through Western Europe, told Pertini he saw contradictions in American Mideast policy, attributable to rival pressure groups in the United States.

WASHINGTON D.C. — The Carter administration asked the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington to overturn a lower court ruling that President Carter acted unconstitutionally when he terminated the U.S. mutual defense treaty with Taiwan without congressional approval. The administration contended that termination of the treaty was an essential part of U.S. recognition of the Beijing government, and "an unwarranted intrusion of the judiciary into matters which should be resolved through the political process."

Common Ground

Press Council Withholds Action Until Legal Advice Obtained

By CATHY KELLY

Press Council decided Monday to withhold action on the freezing of Common Ground's funding by A.S. Legislative Council until legal counsel can be obtained.

"We can't form an opinion. We don't know what is or is not valid until we get a legal opinion," Press Council Chair Dennis Rodgers said.

Common Ground's funding was frozen by Leg Council two weeks ago following accusations that the newspaper's staff violated a section of their contract with the Associated Students. However, the staff was granted $500 to produce their next issue which is due to be printed by Nov. 12.

Under the contract, Common Ground must submit a monthly financial progress report. However, the staff failed to submit a report by Oct. 8, last month's deadline.

Common Ground staff members, while admitting they missed the deadline, feel the actions taken by Leg Council were unfair. In a statement to Press Council Tuesday, the Common Ground claimed that the violated clause was invalidated by Leg Council's failure to enforce it this summer.

"I'm sure their (Leg Council's) charge is legal but it's so vague," said Rodgers at Monday's meeting.

Members of the Common Ground, Leg Council and Press Council will meet as an ad hoc committee this week to discuss renegotiation of the contract. Their recommendation will then be submitted to Leg Council for final approval.

"There is a question of whether Leg Council would approve funding...If Leg Council cuts all (Common Ground's) funds, our course of action will be determined by our lawyer. If he says the contract was binding, we'll take a course of non-action," Press Council member Rob Palmer said.

Should Leg Council refuse to renew funding, the newspaper will be able to finance their next publication staffmember John Raymond said at the Press Council meeting. "We don't have any ads in the next issue yet, but we do have a $50 donation from an anti-nuke group," Raymond said.

Common Ground is now soliciting funds from supporters to pay for legal fees should Leg Council refuse to unfreeze their budget and Common Ground staff members take the case to court.

Del Playa Halloween Riot Topic of IVCC Meeting

The Foot Patrol's view of Halloween's "mini-riot" highlighted the Isla Vista Community Council meeting Monday night.

According to Sheriff Richard Zuniga, Wednesday night's repeat of last Halloween's mini-riot "was pretty much out of control." Zuniga said the "wild" night began with people calling to complain about loud music. Approximately 400 students attended each of the Del Playa parties. The Santa Barbara Police Department was sent out to disperse the people at the parties, and when four officers tried to break up the band, they became targets for rock and bottle throwers.

The procedure of ordering dispersment involves arresting anyone who remains; that night approximately 25 arrests were made. The 25 patrolmen finally pulled out of the scene, deciding that their presence in the area added to the problems.

Zuniga said 80 percent of the arrests made were of juveniles of the Goleta area. He suggested a solution to the problem of future band parties would be to move them back into the parks and keep them off the streets.

The Foot Patrol said Del Playa should have been barricaded Halloween night, as it was the previous Saturday night to keep the commotion low.

The Foot Patrol's crime report of the past week listed ten arrests, 12 bike thefts, two burglaries, eight traffic citations, 30 parking citations and one theft.

In other action a discussion of preparations for yesterday's election ended the meeting. The preparation entailed making and erecting signs and distributing flyers for the election in the I.V. area.

Army Changes It's Mind on Marijuana Smoking, Penalties

(ZNS)—The pentagon is apparently no longer turning its back on the fact that a reported 60 percent of enlisted personnel in the Armed Forces have smoked marijuana at some time or another.

The U.S. Journal of Drug and Alcohol Dependence says that pot use has become so widespread in the military that the Department of Defense now wants to revise its penalty policy for smokers of the illicit weed.

The Journal says that under the new draft proposal, first time pot smokers would be fined $100 and demoted. Current penalties for soldiers caught smoking marijuana can be anything from a mild reprimand to being court-martialed and kicked out of the military.

According to The Journal, under the proposed pentagon policy, enlistees would also no longer be questioned about their past history of marijuana use. Says The Journal: "This doesn't mean the Department of Defense...is getting soft on pot. It does mean, however, that the DOD recognizes it must shift its policy to rule out excessively harsh penalties for marijuana use."

Commitment

In April, U.C. President David Saxon issued a statement to the nine U.C. campuses reaffirming the system's "commitment to the principle of student involvement in governance in both administrative and academic areas."

At that point, Saxon's policy statement set June 1980 as the deadline for universities to have developed their guidelines to be used in achieving this end.

We strongly believe student participation is necessary in all facets of university affairs and hope this campus heeds this deadline.

Last spring, a student governance task force produced guidelines for increasing student participation in administrative affairs. This has resulted in the present efforts of administrators and students to examine the structure of committees at UCSB, and to eliminate those which have outlived their usefulness.

The student governance task force must now address the second half of the issue, that of student participation in academic affairs. Saxon explicitly states this responsibility as one of examining those "areas where students are not now participating." He added, "In this regard, ways should be sought to enhance student involvement in academic departments, where important decisions that affect students are made."

An important first step will be to determine in what areas student participation will be allowed. For example tenure and teacher evaluation, not presently open to student participation, are two primary concerns of the student members of the task force.

But a major obstacle the task force, which is only an advisory board, will face is the Academic Senate. We understand that any new policy in the academic area can only be implemented with the Senate's approval. But we hope that the Academic Senate will use its power responsibly, and recognize the need for student participation in the issue-areas noted before.

We also hope the administration does not allow the Academic Senate to exert its power in a manner opposing the spirit of Saxon's directive.

Difficulties are certain to arise in this process, but we urge administrators, faculty members and students to work together to reach the deadline of June with a liberal plan for increased student participation on this campus.

New Activism

A.S. student leaders have recently taken a more active role in the controversy surrounding LNG.

Members of A.S. Leg Council were present at last Wednesday's occupation of the proposed liquified natural gas terminal at Point Conception. A.S. members also attended a demonstration in front of the Southern California Gas Company on Thursday to protest that company's joint involvement with Pacific Gas and Electric Company on the LNG project.

We would like to commend Marty Cusack, Tibby Rothman and the other students who are involved with this protest. Their actions demonstrate a great amount of social concern and represent strong initiative on the part of UCSB's student leaders. This leadership also demonstrates that A.S. representatives are not apathetic this year when important local issues are involved.

We hope that A.S. President Cusack and the others will maintain their activism, as inspiration to other students to join the fight against LNG, and involve themselves in the important local issues.

Final Farewell

This past weekend, a special experiment in alternative living came to an end in Isla Vista.

Tipi Village, which has been part of the local community since 1973, was officially closed as the Nov. 3 eviction date became a reality.

We feel that I.V. is losing much with the eviction of Tipi Village and its residents. Alternative living communities are rare and with the loss of the village it is unlikely that similar communities will be started again.

The village's closure also is an example of the lack of local control over I.V. affairs.

We hope that Isla Vistas have learned something from this incident. We hope in the future when part of the community's culture is threatened, as was Tipi Village, a greater effort by local residents can be generated in an effort to protect that which is being threatened.

"WHY, DEAR UNCLE, HOW VERY NICE OF YOU TO COME! I WOULD LIKE TO DISCUSS WITH YOU THE POSSIBILITY OF A SMALL LOAN..."

Jacksonian Politics

By JAMES P. LEVERETTE
Recently Jesse L. Jackson, founder of Operation PUSH (People United to Save Humanity), has been criticized by the media for his involvement in Middle East politics.

Essentially Jackson has been accused of supporting the Palestinian Liberation Organization, accepting funds from Arab Americans, and of overstepping the bounds of a so called "black leader". I say so called because PUSH membership, although it is predominantly black, has always been multi-racial and the aim of the organization is to "Save Humanity". Therefore Jackson is not exclusively a black leader, but rather he is a humanitarian.

Yet media perpetuation has taken the recent issue involving former U.N. Ambassador, Andrew Young and his relations with the PLO, combined it with Jackson's actions in the Middle East, to disseminate the idea that blacks and Jews are now dialectically opposed.

The official American policy in the Middle East has always been overwhelmingly pro-Israel. Any action by any so called American that would move U.S. policy in the direction of evenhandedness would be defined by many as a move away from the policy that Jews find most attractive. Here the term "anti-semitism" is injected by the media to further infect superficial wounds and to inflame a serious international political problem.

Jackson, being a humanitarian, feels that the PLO must reassess its image of violence and shouldn't continue to employ phrases like "Zionism is racism" or "We must push the Jews into the sea." He denounces terrorism but he said that it exists on both sides of the conflict.

Jackson supports Israel's right to exist and at the same time he supports a Palestinian state on the West Bank and in the Gaza. He accepted $10,000 from Arab Americans, but he also accepts Jewish dollars and funds from any other ethnic group.

Jackson is not two-faced, but rather he is indifferent to Palestinian-Israeli politics. He is however, interested in "Saving Humanity" and using this ideology, Jackson considers the PLO "a government in exile." He will not reduce the PLO to a "terrorist organization."

Because economic wealth is political power in capitalist nations like the U.S. and also in its so called "fifty-first state", Israel, one could easily see that the Palestinians, lacking the economic and military support of the U.S., are disadvantaged in Mideast political potency, just as blacks, representing a politico-economic subculture within the U.S. are disadvantaged in the area of U.S. political power. In South Africa, and many other African states, blacks are oppressed and disadvantaged in international political influence.

Perhaps it is because of these realities that Jackson has willingly allowed Arabs to become members of his multi-racial organization. Perhaps it is why he suggested that Arab nations sell oil at reduced prices to African states.

Jackson is not overstepping the bounds of an international humanitarian. But he and Andrew Young both represent a new phenomenon in Afro-American politics. They are the first publicly well-known black intellectuals who have survived the transition from black politics to international politics.

When Martin Luther King Jr. began to view things from an international perspective, when he criticized the Vietnam War, when Malcolm X looked beyond the United States and announced the formation of the Organization of Afro-American Unity (OAAU), an organization strongly committed (Please turn to p.5, col.1)

Soliciting For Legal Aid

Editor, Daily Nexus:

Last week, Common Ground, UCSB's alternative newspaper, had its funds taken away by A.S. Leg Council for an alleged violation of a contract between A.S. and Common Ground. After four years, over 50 issues, and several nationally significant stories, we were terminated because we had allegedly failed to turn in a monthly progress report, by the second Monday of October, no less. Our lawyer's opinion was that we had not even violated the contract, but Leg Council ignored this.

Despite what you read in the Nexus about "wasting money" and other unfounded charges, the report violation was the only one Leg Council was willing to prove. As a friend said, denying the paper the right to publish for failing to turn in a relatively meaningless monthly progress report (by a certain day, no less) is like beheading someone for jaywalking.

Leg Council's willingness to ignore legal opinions, to operate without due process and to take away a group's funding for such insubstantial reasons represents a threat to all A.S. funded groups.

We believe that Leg Council's action is illegal. We are currently in the process of exploring legal action against the Associated Students alleging violation of due process violation of our First Amendment rights under an illegal and discriminatory contract, failure to submit the contract to Press Council for approval, and a number of other charges. Three legal defense centers are currently working on legal opinions for a (Please turn to p.5, col.4)

DOONESBURY

Many Untruths

Editor, Daily Nexus:

The "pro-choice" movement does not tell us the truth. Some information that the movement releases are downright lies and much of it is half-truth. Consider the following claims made at the Pro-Choice rally held in De La Guerra Plaza as reported in the Daily Nexus on Oct. 23.

Terry Albright from the Women's Feminist Health Center made the following claim, "Abortion is the only way that women can control reproduction." Reason and logic cannot be the basis for this statement. After all, I can think of an exception which surely can be applied to unmarried people. The case I think of is chaste behavior which has the following benefits: its safer than abortion, the chance of contracting venereal diseases goes to zero, the physiological effects and dangers associated with the different birth control techniques such as the pill and IUD are removed, the emotional trauma associated with having an abortion need not be encountered. At the very least, Ms. Albright's statement is misleading.

Gloria Ferci stated that, "The legality of abortion has very little effect on its prevalence." This type of statement is very difficult to prove. The type of information needed is the number of women who chose to obey the law instead of having an illegal abortion. This type of information could cause personal difficulties between those mothers and their at one time unwanted children.

Reverend George Barrett said that "fetal life is not personal life." Perhaps if Mr. Barrett got a proper introduction he would say something different. I ask, is there anyone who says that a fetus is not a human, and if not tell me what it is and why it is not a human (Please don't tell me they are not humans because they look like fish, they are attached to their mother by an umbilical cord or they are unwanted).

I now finish this letter with some information from an article in Scientific American, Jan. 1977 issue, pages 21-27 which I recommend to all concerned for their reading.

Between 30 and 55 million abortions are induced worldwide every year. Abortion is approximately five times more dangerous than childbirth if performed at the 17th week of gestation or later. Between the 13th and 16th week, induced abortion carries about the same risk to the life of the mother as live childbirth. Only when abortion is done before the 12th week is it safer than childbirth.

Of the abortions performed in the U.S., fewer than 200 per year were done due to some type of deformity of the fetus. Tests for such deformities usually must be performed at the 16th week of gestation or later.

Women who have late abortions are most frequently among the young, black and unskilled labor force.

The Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences has called for research on long term medical complications, particularly after multiple abortions. Women's problems may not end with abortion, they may just be starting.

to world socialism, whenever a black man had previously achieved the status of what the late FBI director, J. Edgar Hoover termed a "black messiah", he has been eliminated, gunned down and killed by mysterious assassins.

Jackson has so far survived this tradition. Jackson has not assailed Israel or Jewish Americans. He has recognized the problems that exist both domestically and internationally. Afro-Americans have their problems and goals of equality as do Jews, Palestinians, Arabs, Africans, and many other ethnic groups.

Jackson's political actions in the Middle East should not change or aggravate relations between blacks and Jews. The media has perpetuated this illusion of racial conflict to hide the more realistic international problems.

One can no longer view politics from an entirely American perspective. There is no such thing as an American politico-economy, but rather it is a world politico-economy that is in trouble. Arab nations possess a large share of resources needed by the world. African states also possess resources and any union between Arabs and Africans into an international political bloc would threaten the multi-national corporations that siphon these resources for their own profit. These same multi-national corporations bring you the six o'clock news and your daily newspapers.

Before we accuse Jesse Jackson of anti-semitism, we should carefully examine the international politico-economic situation of the U.S., including its subculture of black America in relationship to the rest of the world.

Needless to say, legal action isn't cheap. Unlike A.S., with a lawyer on retainer, paid employees and a $500,000 budget, we're just students, with hardly a red cent (no pun intended). Our lawyers are currently working for free, but this can't continue much longer.

Although we are confident we can recover legal fees (and more) in what will assuredly be a successful lawsuit, donations are needed now.

to pay our lawyers and so that we can regain our right to publish. We believe this possible lawsuit to stop A.S.'s illegal activity is in the interest of all student groups.

Checks can be made out to the Santa Barbara Legal Defense Center (906 Garden Street, Santa Barbara, CA 93101)--- please earmark them for Common Ground. In the event that A.S. returns all our money and grants other appropriate and necessary redress, donations will be returned to the donors. Thanks in advance for any contributions.

UCSB's Newest Club

Sky-Diving Club Will Sponsor First Meeting

UCSB's newest club, the Skydiving Club, will meet for the first time this week. It is being formed for both the experienced skydiver and the person who wants to skydive for the first time.

The inaugural meeting will take place Thursday at 9 p.m. in the Anacapa class hall.

The Skydiving Club is not intended to be an all male organization, and women are encouraged to participate. Interested beginners should also feel free to join. No faculty advisor has been found yet, so interested faculty are also encouraged to attend the meeting.

At the meeting, an outline of the club's future activities will be discussed, officers will be elected and the club's constitution will be drawn up.

The matter of membership fee's will also be discussed. It is the club's intention, though, to be self-sufficient through the use of fund raisers such as the presentation of movies. This should alleviate some of the costs.

Actual parachuting will not take place in the Santa Barbara area. Weekend trips to skydiving locations like Davis and Riverside, where one day learning sessions are offered, are tentatively planned. Usually the morning is spent teaching the student basic skydiving techniques and how to land safely. In the afternoon, after the preliminary lessons have been mastered, the student makes his first dive.

Some experienced divers may not need to take lessons. If this is the case, the club will try to organize dives that will suit their advanced members' diving abilities. In this way the club will try to accommodate skydivers of varying abilities.

Anyone who is experienced in skydiving and wants to stay active in parachuting, or who just wants to meet and talk with someone who has skydived before, should attend the UCSB Sky-diving Club meeting Thursday.

A weekly column by the Family Planning Awareness Project.

Family Planning: A Human Concern

By RICHARD ELBAUM

"Family planning? That doesn't concern me....I don't even have a family!"

Misconceptions such as this are unfortunately all too common since "family planning" means different things to different people at different times. To one person it may mean choosing an appropriate form of birth control, while to another it may include deciding how many children to have.

Family planning is not only of concern to people who already have children, it is important to everyone who wants to make a wise decision about when to have (and when not to have) a child. Parenthood can be a beautiful experience if you are ready for it. For people who are not yet ready to become parents, family planning means deciding how not to have a child. For these people, there are many different birth control methods available.

Family planning is not something that should be practiced alone, rather, it involves both the man and the woman. Since it takes both of them to conceive a child, it only makes sense that if a child is not wanted at the time, the responsibility for preventing pregnancy should be shared. Men can have an active role in learning about and choosing the contraceptive method and in discussing their feelings about birth control with their partner.

It may all seem confusing at times-- Where can I get contraceptives? How do I know if I'm ready to become a parent? What is the best form of birth control for me and my partner? Fortunately, the answers to these questions are close by.

The Family Planning Awareness Project was created to help answer questions such as these and to provide other needed information. For example, according to Project Coordinator Becky von Kaenel, "A lot of men and women don't know that they may be eligible for Title XX. It is a government-funded program that provides free family planning services like contraceptives and annual exams through the Isla Vista Open Door Medical Clinic for those who earn less than $723 per month." Von Kaenel added, "UCSB students are eligible for free GYN and low-cost contraceptive services available at the Student Health Service on campus."

"The Project is co-sponsoring "Healthstock," a health fair in Storke Plaza on Monday, Nov. 19 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Free health screening including hearing, vision, and blood testing will be available as well as information tables and demonstrations on massage, acupressure and sports medicine. In addition, the Gorilla Repertory Theater of Isla Vista will be premiering their play, "Is There Life After Sex?" Musical entertainment will be provided by the popular local band Calico.

Healthstock is the kick-off for the Project's door-to-door campaign in Isla Vista, where trained volunteers will distribute an information packet and answer any questions.

Also planned by the Family Planning Awareness Project are public lectures on a variety of family planning topics as well as newspaper articles such as this one, that will explore important areas in family planning as well as answer any questions readers may have. Upcoming articles will discuss topics such as: Possible Side-Effects of the Pill; Natural Methods of Birth Control; Age & Pregnancy; Deciding to Become a Parent.

There are many different approaches to family planning and numerous agencies in the Santa Barbara area to serve you. The Family Planning Awareness Project is here to help remove a lot of the confusion. The Project phone number is 961-4312.

Increase in Infant Mortality Seen in 3-Mile Island Area

(ZNS) — A radiation expert at the University of Pittsburgh says newly-compiled government statistics reveal that the Three Mile Island accident late last March resulted in what he calls a "tragic" rise in infant mortalities, especially in the Pennsylvania area.

Radiological Physicist Dr. Ernest Sternglass says that figures published by the government's National Center of Health Statistics indicate that, in February, March and April, 454 infant deaths occurred in Pennsylvania. This figure, he says, shot up to 632 infant deaths in the months of May, June and July, after the Three Mile Island accident.

Sternglass says that in Pennsylvania as a whole, the infant death rate increased by 32 percent in the wake of Three Mile Island. He adds that hospital records indicate that in the Harrisburg area, where the stricken nuclear plant is located, the infant death rate jumped by 280 percent shortly after the accident.

What all of this means, says Sternglass, is that "One in every three babies that died in Pennsylvania in May, June and July died because of Three Mile Island."

The professor says that while the infant death rate soared in the Harrisburg area, it declined by about 10 percent in the United States as a whole.

Pt. Concepcion Site

On May 5, 1978 the California Coastal Commission staff issued a report to the CCC concerning site rankings, terms and conditions. The CCC was charged with studying possible sites and advising the Public Utilities Commission in the LNG Act. According to Jerri Garcia, Public Affairs Coordinator for Western LNG, "Point Concepcion was one of 85 sites that were studied."

The CCC staff narrowed the choices down to five sites and ranked them in the following order: Horno Canyon in Camp Pendleton in San Diego county, Rattlesnake Canyon in San Luis Obispo county, Little Cojo near Pt. Concepcion in Santa Barbara county, and Deer Canyon in Ventura county. Deer Canyon was considered the site where a terminal "would have the most overall adverse impact on coastal resources."

The report stated "the staff is recommending elimination of a fifth site at Las Varas in Santa Barbara county, due to the recently confirmed presence of a small active earthquake fault passing through the site. A similar fault had been identified at the Little Cojo site, which is nevertheless retained in the ranking because the LNG Terminal Act of 1977 requires that the commission rank the site selected by Western LNG Terminal Associates in its application to the PUC."

The conclusion that there was a pressing need for the LNG was an important factor in determining the site location. The PUC staff states, in its report to the PUC on July 31, 1978, "In considering need project timing, the evidence demonstrates that Pt. Concepcion is the only feasible site for the commencement of operations in sufficient time to prevent significant curtailment of high-priority requirements for natural gas."

On the federal level, Administrative Law Judge, Samuel Gordon, conditionally approved the application for a terminal site in Oxnard on July 22, 1977. As a result of the LNG Act, in Nov. 1977, Western LNG filed amended applications for Little Cojo, at Pt. Concepcion as the site for a terminal which could accommodate both the Alaskan and Indonesian LNG.

With the creation of the Department of Energy, the Federal Regulatory Commission was given jurisdiction over domestic gas supplies and the Economic Regulatory Administration was given jurisdiction over the importation of foreign fuels.

The need for expediency also influenced the decision process on the federal level. On Aug. 9, 1979, Julius Katz, assistant secretary for Economic and Business Affairs in the Department of State, sent a letter to the Chair of FERC, requesting a prompt decision of Western LNG's application to import LNG at Pt. Concepcion. In the letter, he cited the patience of the Indonesian Government up to that point with the permit process, but noted that if the review process was not completed by mid-October, Indonesia might cancel the project.

Katz said that failure to take prompt action "would contribute to concern in Indonesia and other friendly governments that the United States is an unreliable

Reseeding to Begin Soon in Fire Damaged Eagle Canyon Hills

By SHANNON EDWARDS
Reseeding will begin by the end of this week in an attempt to restore greenery and prevent mudslides in the Eagle Canyon area.

Portions of Eagle Canyon and Winchester, Tecolote, Dos Pueblos and Las Varas Canyons were severely burned in last month's fires, and officials estimated that approximately 2,500 acres will be reseeded by the time the project is completed.

Jack Fertig, operations engineer for the county's Flood Control office, explained, "By the end of the week, representatives of Condor helicopters will begin spraying Eagle Canyon with seeds of annual rye. Each acre will receive about 12 pounds per acre, with preference being given to the steeper slopes, the most probable places for slides to occur."

In addition, 240 acres of steep slope in the Embarcadero district will receive new grass seeds and fertilizer. Damage to the watershed in this area poses the potential of mudslides during the rainy season, a danger the Flood Control District is trying hard to reduce.

Funding for the project totaling $65,000 has been appropriated, with money going for seeding as well as other fire preventative measures. The funds are part of the $105,000 the Flood Control District asked the Board of Supervisors to approve for flood control spending.

According to Fertig, other steps are also being taken to alleviate the mudslide problem. In the planning stages are small debris dams and a drainage ditch is being constructed to divert water from the Embarcadero district. The possibility of building dikes to keep water from houses is also under consideration, and sandbags are now being made available to Embarcadero residents.

To keep residents of these slide-prone areas alert in case of an emergency, a communications system has been set up. Four color codes: white, green, yellow and red, have been constructed, with each signifying a different degree of intensity. White, for example, means there is no rain forecast while red means that rain is probable and runoff, as well as mudslides, could occur.

Although there are no homes in the immediate area, Fertig cited the Rincon Formation as proof that slides can easily start. "Since the fires of last month, this formation has slid two feet. When there is an overabundance of dirt, friction is caused between the top two layers and one can almost be certain a slide will occur," Fertig said. "Hopefully the reseeded program will help to solve this very pressing problem."

Reseeding will begin later this week in the Eagle Canyon area in which over 4500 acres were burned during late September of this year.

owners who want to use the land," maintaining that the land was unfit for agricultural purposes.

Kallman claimed that the committee was trying to put the land in a "holding pattern."

After the first two plans were defeated, the planning staff recommended that the board adopt additional conditions besides basic private development. Among these were the conditions that 15 acres of land adjacent to the ocean be reserved for public use, as part of the roughly 35 acres of land set aside for public use. On this land, according to Kallman, a hostel would be built; access to the beach would be maintained with a stairway and parking and restrooms would be provided for the public.

The planning staff said that the plan for development is "locally not a popular motion at all."

Supervisor Bill Wallace said "the problem that I see is that we virtually will cement over the mesa; parking, visitors services would destroy what the More Mesa now is."

partner....This perception would be particularly injurious to U.S. interests in countries like Indonesia, which are important suppliers of critical economic commodities to the U.S. and play key roles in major international issues." He reiterated America's dependence on foreign oil "which is in short supply" and the need for gas to "reduce the nation's reliance of imported oil."

On Sept. 26, 1979, the ERA reaffirmed its earlier decision approving the Indonesian project. Though a final site approval had not been made, the ERA favored Oxnard. On Sept. 27, 1979, the Department of Energy removed terminal siting on this project from the jurisdiction of the ERA, thereby vesting sole authority in FERC, which had chosen Pt. Concepcion.

Gordon gave "considerable weight" to the California LNG Terminal Act's stipulation of a remote site in approving the Pt. Concepcion site. "The federal decision makers would respect that choice," he said.

According to Sanger, if Western LNG were not to build at Pt. Concepcion and try to find another site, two things would happen. "First, we would lose the contract with Indonesia. California would lose 555 million cubic feet of gas a day. Then it would no longer be economical to develop gas in southern Alaska. Second, we would have to go and find another site, which would be acceptable to everyone involved. This would mean the whole process over again."

Runners Sweep Top Four Spots, Qualify for Nationals in Florida

By MEG JOHNSON

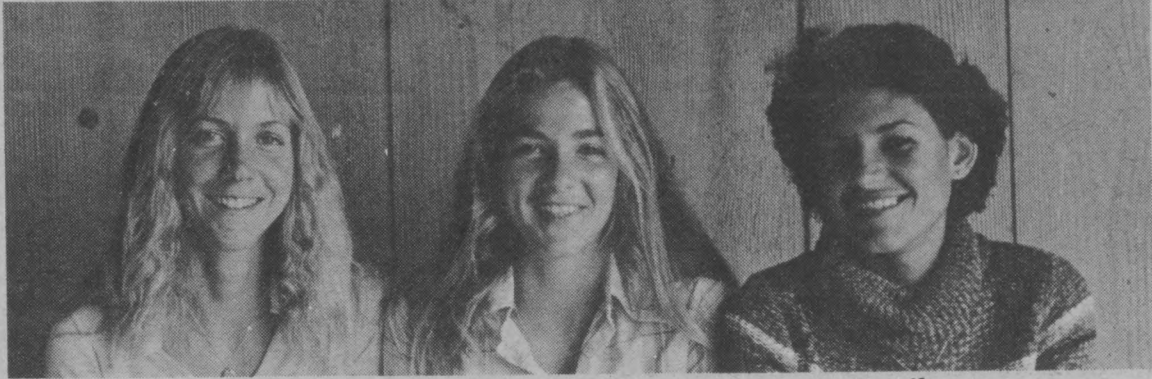

Drenched with rain and mud near Sacramento this past Saturday, an exultant Julie Thrup raised her arms and cried, "Florida!" and not because she's going there on vacation. She and two of her teammates, Melissa Martel and Gigi Camilo, ran a 5,000 meter AIAW Region 8, Division II, Women's Cross Country Championship race in which they qualified for the National

"After the race, I felt I didn't run as hard as I could have," said Camilo, who has never raced competitively before this season.

All this could have gone for naught. There was some tension until Monday afternoon because Campo feared that the UCSB athletic department would not pay their way to Florida and the Nationals since they are still considered a club. Acting athletic director, Dick Jensen, who has been supportive of the team throughout its short season, assured her funds were available.

When the team heard the news at practice, there was much excitement, hugs and congratulations. As the women began their wind sprints and approached the end of the track where the men's track team was working out, they were given a round of applause, well-deserved.

Championships November 17th in Tallahassee.

Finishing first for UCSB was Thrup, with a time of 18:41. Martel came in third at 18:48 and Camilo was two seconds behind, 18:50. M. Alberts of URC took first place with 18:12.

Running against Cal Poly Pomona, University of Nevada, Reno, CSU Bakersfield, CSU Dominguez Hills and U.C. Riverside, the three placed an incredible second, third and fourth.

Incredible because they've only been training four weeks and competed in two other meets. Hard to believe because it was pouring rain and the hilly course was treacherously muddy. Surprising because their coach, Elaine Campo, and the runners themselves, expected "someone to qualify but not all three, particularly not by sweeping second, third and fourth places.

"Going downhill, every step was a risk. I had to think about every step, 'Am I going to fall down?'" Martel said. Even so, she felt the rain was in her favor because it made her "more gutsy." In fact she passed a few runners going downhill.

Thrup agreed that the rain and mud scared some people into being too cautious.

"When you run in the mud, that's real cross country running. So it was actually an inspiration," Martel said.

"This was my favorite course that I've run on. I like the hilly course because the skill is displayed in the hills," Thrup said. At one point in the race, as she passed her teammate Martel, Thrup reminded her to use her arms to give momentum to her feet going uphill.

Thrup and Martel were surprised by how well they had all done. Martel was proud of her teammates. Camilo felt they had worked hard the past four weeks and had improved much in such a short time so they deserved to do well.

Asked if they had any special inspiration, Martel and Thrup thought sticking together throughout the race helped them to the first few positions. Camilo ran the race for her mother who is facing an operation in a few weeks for possible cancer.

"Gigi (Camilo) made it look so pretty," coach Elaine Campo said. She was commenting on the way Camilo passed a runner who was between her and Martel twice on the last hill. Camilo beat that runner by four seconds and nearly caught Martel.

Tom Dunlap serves in the finals of last weekend's IM Tennis singles tournament. Dunlap played on to win the set 10-7 and the men's "A" league title.

Dunlap Wins IM

It took a bit of reshuffling due to soggy conditions, but the I.M. tennis tournament this past weekend turned out to be another successful day of fun and competition.

The matches were originally scheduled for Saturday, but Mother Nature decided Saturday was for rain and Sunday would be better for tennis.

For those participants who returned for Sunday's games and went the distance, it proved to be a tiring schedule of four 10 game pro sets held almost consecutively.

Two of those who went the distance to meet in the men's "A" league final were Tom Dunlap and Bolaji Aluko. Aluko got past Pete Bingham in the semi-finals 10-7.

Tom Dunlap won by default in his semi final match against Thomas Karlson, 6-5, when Karlson's blisters prohibited him from playing any longer. Dunlap proved that his victories on the ladder were not by chance, as he soundly beat Aluko in the finals 10-5.

Across the field, on the east courts, the women's division final was also proved to be an exciting match. Because of time limitations, finalists Patty Berlin and Charolette Welty agreed to play a regular set for the championship. Down 2-5, Charolette Welty played hard and steady to come back for the win with a final score of 7-5.

After a long and difficult semi-final match against Janek Kitajewski, Mike Ichikawa progressed to the men's "B" league final to meet Robert Kono. Ichikawa played consistently and energetically to win the final set 10-3.

Department of Dramatic Art Events

Seascape Reopens

Edward Albee's prize winning play, "Seascape," continues its nine performance run tonight in the UCSB Studio Theatre. Presented by the UCSB Department of Dramatic Art and directed by graduate student Michael Wise, the play is presented tonight, tomorrow, and Friday evenings at 8 p.m. and on Saturday at 5 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

"Seascape" has been entered by the Department in the American College Theatre Festival XII, which is an annual showcase for college and university theatres throughout America. Current estimates indicate that there are more than 2,300 college and university theatres in the country with more than 150,000 students enrolled in theatre arts classes taught by some 4,500 teachers.

For the festival, approximately 400 colleges and universities enter a production into one or more of the competition categories. The productions are seen by judges who make selections for the regional festival, from which final selections are made for showcasing at the three week festival held at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. in April. The festival is presented by the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts and The Alliance for Arts Education, sponsored by the Amoco Companies and produced by the American Theatre Association.

The university production is competing in the Irene Ryan Scholarships and the ACTF Awards for Theatrical Design Excellence categories. This provides the cast members an opportunity to compete for $500

Regional and $2,000 National Scholarships and for scenery designer Darlene Anastas and costume designer Dennis W. Viau to compete for a paid trip to New York to visit professional design shops.

The cast for "Seascape" consists of Kevin Lynch and Jennifer Giggy as Charlie and Nancy and David Anthony and Mary Fullerton as the sea like lizards. Elizabeth Asselstine has designed the lighting for the production which is stage managed by Hope Lyerly.

Ticket information is available from the Arts & Lectures Ticket Office (961-3535). Seating is limited and theatregoers are reminded that there is no late seating in the Studio Theatre.

Jeff Mabee is Peter in the original play "Duo" opening tomorrow night in the Old Little Theatre.

Premier of 'Duo' Nov. 8

An original play entitled "Duo" plays November 8-11 at 8 p.m. in the Old Little Theatre under the auspices of the UCSB Department of Dramatic Art.

"Duo" means a combination, and this play, which is about combinations, is a combination in itself. "Black Peter," by Paul Loomis, and "The Cave," by Michael Ball, were originally written as one-acts and presented in workshop form Spring, 1979. The two authors agreed to join their works as a full-length play. Rewriting and editing by Michael Ball created "Duo."

Directing the show is another combination: Rob Johnson and Pedro-Augusto de Sena, directing emphasis majors. Johnson commented, "It may seem that the product of two one-act plays of vastly differing styles directed by two directors whose styles also vastly differ would be, perhaps, juxtaposed-incongruity. Well, this is the case of "Duo"; although I am not saying that it is an undesirable quality."

de Sena, as a director, plans on producing a work that is clear, particularly suggestive of a man's nature, which he feels we all have and at some point in our lives we need to resolve one way or another.

The play is a tale of three people whose lives transcend two realities — their characters bend, but do not change.

Ticket information is available from the Arts & Lectures Ticket Office and audience members are reminded that there is no late seating in the Old Little Theatre which is located in Building 494.

Athletic Director Search Starts With Formation of Committee

By ERIC BIDNA

Selection of a new athletic director has moved one step closer with the formation of a select committee to screen prospective nominees.

Those named to the committee are Chris Ludeman, Dana Metchek, Dr. David Bohn, Ned Emerson, Treanna Hunter, Bob Rydenover, Dan Peck and Roger Horton will be chair.

Applications for the post vacated by Dr. Al Negratti closed Nov. 1. Nearly 50 to 60 applications from across the country have been submitted.

According to Dr. Ed Birch, vice chancellor of student services and academic affairs, the target date for selecting the new director will be Dec. 1, with Jan. 1 as first day of his job. In the interim, Dick Jensen will be acting director.

However, several steps must first be taken before the final announcement, of the new director.

First, the opening must be announced nationally. Birch said, "I have written personal letters to all the presidents of the Big 8, Pac-10, Big 10, PCAA and even Ivy League schools asking for nominations. Also, I placed an ad in the Chronicle of Higher Education. I called the athletic directors in this area personally asking for their nominations for our athletic director."

The competition might be stiffer this year. Four PCAA schools are also in the market for directors.

After the initial announcement of a vacancy is publicized, Birch formed a committee of six, which will make a recommendation to him. This committee will sort through applications of nominees and hopefully conduct interviews of the final candidates.

After being screened by the press, the Physical Activities Department and a body of alumni and students, the committee will then discuss the candidate and recommend, but not vote on the best man or woman.

"It will be clear to me who will be the favorite of the committee: An informal committee choice," Birch said. "This procedure allows divergent opinions. If you ask to come up with one person, it might

Soccer Team Loses to S.D.

The Gaucho booters lost one more from the road Sunday dropping a non-conference game 2-1 to San Diego State.

San Diego produced the opening goal with 30 seconds remaining in the first half.

UCSB scored in the second half with help from San Diego. On a free kick from outside the goal area an Aztec defender accidentally put the ball into his own goal.

The Gauchos then held the match even until the final 15 minutes of play. San Diego split the Gaucho defense and followed through to rebound the ball off of two players before putting the ball away.

The Gauchos are shooting for a .500 season. At 7-3 right now, they face a last chance game this Thursday away against San Jose State. This is the Gauchos final game of their turbulent season.

just be that the committee was chosen at random, and not really fair."

What kind of person will our new athletic director be?

"We're looking for a person with a young attitude. We need someone who is cognizant of today's sports business, Title IX limitations and both men's and women's programs."

He noted that a woman athletic director is certainly not out of the question and hinted that some applicants were women.

"We need someone who can perform a well-rounded service, man or woman, who can work with minor as well as major sports," Birch said.

Birch adamantly denied allegations printed by Dave Kohl of the Santa Barbara News-Press which assumes the short deadline of one month is deliberate, because UCSB already knows who will be chosen.

"That report is false. There are no inside candidates," Birch stated. "We sure wouldn't be spending any money looking for someone else, if we already had someone in mind. This is a very open search and there are no closed candidates within the search. A full month for applications is plenty of time. There's no reason to extend the deadline two or three months past that."

The committee itself contains a broad spectrum of representation of community, alumni, the reg fee committee, faculty, staff, and student input.

Birch, however, said there was no one from the P.A. department selected because they would be too close to the scene and too unbiased to be represented on a committee.

The committee members: Horton, chair, is assistant chancellor of budget and administrative operations; Peck is an English Professor; Reydenover is an EOP member and a former UCSB basketball player; Ludeman is chair of the registration fee committee; Metchek was a member of the number nine ranked woman's tennis team; Dr. Bohn is president of the University Bench, a booster organization for the community; Emerson runs a sportswear store and is a mid 60's alumnus; Hunter is director of business services.

SAVE UP TO 50% TO DENVER.

This year Continental is really the skier's airline. Our Super Saver fares to Denver, Colorado Springs, El Paso and Albuquerque can save you up to 50% off regular Coach depending on when and where you fly. And we'll take you to the slopes from more cities than ever before. We recently introduced nonstop service to Denver from Las Vegas, Washington, D.C., Peoria, San Francisco, San Jose and New York/Newark.

Continental has a full range of ski packages to your favorite resorts, too. We'll help arrange hotels, rental cars, lift tickets, whatever you need, whether you're a hot-shot hotdogger, or a first-time-out bunny. For a free color brochure with the details, write to Continental Guaranteed Holidays, P.O. Box 18918, Irvine, CA 92713.

Seats are limited and there are some restrictions with our Super Saver fares, so check with your travel agent or Continental Airlines. Have a high time in the mountains at our rocky-bottom price.

Nuclear Licensing Moratorium

Of the 92 nuclear plants, at least four and as many as seven under construction will be stalled indefinitely by the decision.

Besides Diablo Canyon located near San Luis Obispo, Salem 2 in New Jersey, North Anna 2 in Virginia, and Sequoyah 1 in Tennessee will also have their operation licensing postponed.

In congress, leading members involved in nuclear lawmaking Representative Morris Udall, and State Senator Gary Hart both feel a three-year halt to new nuclear construction would be in the best interests of the United States.

"The moratorium I envision would say no more construction permits for three years or until the NRC certifies to Congress the lessons we learned from Three-Mile Island," stated Udall, chair of the House Interior Committee and its subcommittee on energy and the environment.

Hart, chair for the Senate environmental subcommittee on nuclear regulation, said, "I think that new construction permits and licenses should be held up pending the adoption of new siting and safety policies."

The NRC is reviewing evacuation procedures for the plants, because of the Presidential Commission's finding that nuclear plant location is one of the major factors needing examination.

The NRC has fined Metropolitan Edison $155,000 in civil penalties for their role in Three-Mile Island, but investigation is still underway to determine punishment for the utilities role in the accident.

In Congress, Udall and Hart are forming amendments which would expand the 1954 Atomic Energy Act to consider accidents like that at Three-Mile Island.

"We have no idea of when the new regulations will be adopted" concluded Hanchett, "we are really uncertain. It could take a long time before licensing will begin again."

Collusion

It is estimated that rental companies manage roughly three-quarters of all rentals with ten or more units in I.V. Sources in the investigation alleged that the heads of these companies passes lists of suggested prices for their rentals around to other rental agencies, then agreed to set uniform prices.

Commenting on the accusation, Paul Shults of Rentals, Etc., said, "There is no basis for that statement. Rental companies are very independent. They don't get together and meet." A representative of Income Property Management said, "We don't do business like that. We just set prices so as to break even on our main costs."

Part of the original investigation stemmed from the UCSB Housing lists which showed "interesting parallels" among the prices for 80 percent of all rentals in I.V. A.S. External Vice President Jim Knox said, "Realtors can easily use statistics to show that there is not uniformity in how they raise prices."

A.S. President Marty Cusack said, "The landlords met, discussed rent increases and all decided to raise their prices 12 to 13 percent. They are acting as an effective monopoly. A.S. is submitting a bill urging the District Attorney office to prosecute (these rental companies) to the full extent of the law. They are creating an adverse housing situation and I believe that poor housing is linked to the quality of education."

In spite of outstanding uniformity of rental prices, no case of rent-pricing collusion has ever been proven in California. The problem is deciding when discussion of rent prices becomes collusion. Landlords are well-organized statewide, unlike tenants. In I.V., however, about $46,000 in rent was withheld last year, after a study of landlord's Proposition 13 savings, and simultaneous rent increases.

The source said, "Without public pressure, the case will not reach the courts. A trial would expose business practices and dealings of the landlords. The market in I.V. is no longer free.

"Both students and non-students have a lot to gain from a class action suit in which landlords could be sued for rebates. The judge could rule rebates from $100 to $200 depending on how long a resident has lived here. Also, the judge might make the supervisors enact rent control immediately."

Election

In the Santa Barbara School Board race, where nine candidates ran for three open seats, the early leader was Sarah Rugg with 10,980 votes for 16.84 percent of the total. She was followed by Barbara Goodenow, Margaret Connell, Gilbert Robledo, and David C. Brown.

Leading in the race for Goleta Union School Board, which has two open seats, were Jean W. Blois with 5175 votes, 36.25 percent of the total. Larry Sizer had 4863 votes and Beverly O'Gorman got 4237.

The Isla Vista Community Council race saw John Somner capture District 1, Scott Johnson, a write-in candidate, win in District 2, Pat Boyd garner District 3, Cory Woodward victorious in District 5 and Carole Johnson, who ran unopposed, win in District 6.
