California voters decide today on state, national political races

By Mark Forster

California voters will cast ballots today on five statewide offices, U.S. Senate and Congressional seats, state representatives, and 17 propositions. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m.

In the Governor's race, Secretary of State Edmund Brown, Jr. (D) faces State Controller Houston Flournoy (R). Brown has based his campaign largely on political reform while Flournoy has been stressing his legislative experience. Both candidates represent the moderate-liberal wing of the respective parties.

LT. GOVERNOR

State Senator Mervyn Dymally and Lt. Governor John Harmer battle for the Lt. Governor's post. Dymally, a liberal from Los Angeles, and Harmer, an ultra conservative from Glendale, have both run low key campaigns. Harmer had previously been a State Senator until a month ago, when Gov, Reagan appointed him to succeed Ed Reinecke, who resigned the office after a perjury conviction.

March Fong (D) and Brian van Camp (R) are running for Secretary of State while Ken Cory (D) and William Bagley (R) have been slugging it out for the Controller's post in this year's muddiest campaign.

Jesse Unruh (D), former Assembly Speaker and gubernatorial candidate, has returned to the California political scene trying to gain the Treasurer's seat vacated by Ivy Baker Priest. John Kehoe (R), State Consumer Director, is opposing Unruh.

Incumbent Evelle Younger (R) is running against William Norris (D) for the state Attorney

Senator Alan Cranston (D) in his bid for a second Senate term has met little opposition from State Senator H.L. Richardson.

LOCAL RACES

Incumbent Robert Lagomarsino is battling James Loebl, Ojai mayor, in the 19th District Congressional race. Lagomarsino won his seat in a special election last spring after the death of Charles Teague and now faces Loebl, who garnered the most Democratic votes in the special election.

Demos have advantage over GOP in today's election

Republican, independent, upward trend evident with campus voters

By Cary English

Democrats will have a substantial advantage over Republicans in local races today — there are 15 percent more of them here. And overwhelmingly Democratic Isla Vista and UCSB will have a significant effect on the outcome.

Almost 10 percent of the people registered to vote in the Gary Hart-Tim Terry race for state assembly live in I.V. and UCSB.

Five percent of the voters who will choose between Omer Rains and Don MacGillivray for State Senator are I.V.-UCSB residents. In the congressional race between Robert Lagomarsino and James Loebl, the portion of I.V.-UCSB voters is also five percent.

Of the 10,789 Isla Vistans who registered for the Nov. 5 election, 71 percent are Democrats, 10 percent Republicans and 16 percent declined to state.

Dorm residents are slightly more conservative. Of the 2,493 voters who registered as UCSB residents, 62 percent are Democrats, 16 percent Republicans and 20 percent declined to state.

Together, registered Isla Vistans and dorm residents number 13,282, nine percent of the county's 149,409 voters.

This bloc of voters will have its greatest impact on the 35th District Assembly race between Hart and Terry, where it forms 9.5 percent of eligible voters. The newly-reapportioned district boundaries follow closely the Santa Barbara county line, minus part of Santa Maria. Of the voters registered in the district, 52 percent are Democrats, 38 percent Republicans and 9 percent declined to state.

I.V.-UCSB voters will have a less substantial impact on the larger 18th District State Senate race between incumbent Senator Rains and Assemblyman MacGillivray. Democrats in that district are 53 percent of the registered voters, Republicans 38 percent and seven percent declined to state.

The district includes Santa Barbara and Ventura Counties, with nearly a quarter million voters. Democrats hold a 38,078 voter edge (15 percent) over Republicans.

Ironically, Democratic chances are considered worse where their numbers are the greatest. In the 19th Congressional District (including Santa Barbara County and parts of Ventura and San Luis Obispo Counties), there are 17 percent more Democrats than Republicans.

But Democrat James Loebl's opponent, incumbent U.S.

Steven Flick, 25, was being supplied air from a commercial fishing boat with a gasoline operated air compressor which malfunctioned around 10 a.m. Flick surfaced and was being given air from an emergency unit while another diver and the boat went to aid him.

Witnesses said Flick panicked and started to swim toward the boat and became entangled in his air hose and kelp beds.

Flick was pulled from the water and taken to Goleta pier where University Rescue Service attempted to resuscitate him. He was transferred to Goleta Valley Hospital and pronounced dead shortly before noon.

Watergate tapes rumble in coverup jury's ears

By Michael Sugerman

WASHINGTON—The Nixon Oval Office tapes, the tapes that ultimately were the demise of the Nixon presidency, are being played for the first time in public at the Watergate cover-up trial in Washington.

There is nothing new on most of the tapes. Almost all have been previously released by the House Judiciary Committee, which listened to them during their deliberations on impeachment. But this is the first time the general public has had the opportunity to hear the voices of the participants in candid conversation; no one but the former president knew the tape machines were rolling during those White House meetings.

The government has played about seven tapes so far. The court provides headphones — KOSS headphones, roughly $60 a pair — to all the jurors, defendants, lawyers, reporters, and spectators. The courtroom is silent during the playing of the tapes and those without headphones can hear nothing.

UNINTELLIGIBLE

Those with headphones, though, still have a rough time understanding it all. Last week, the one hour and 40 minute, March 21, 1973 tape (the famous "cancer on the Presidency" discussion) was played in its entirety, and without transcripts provided by the court, most of it would have been almost impossible to comprehend.

There were three people present at the meeting that day — John Dean, Bob Haldeman, and former President Nixon. Dean and Haldeman could be heard clearly, but the voice of Nixon was very muffled and far away. Nixon most likely placed the microphone away from himself and towards his underlings, so as to keep a better record of what they had to say.

This was the first time the voice of Nixon was heard by most of the people listening, other than on television or giving a speech. Surprisingly, he talked the same way, showing that impressionists are not far off

Wilcox open space issue decided today

By Cary English

Las Positas Road winds through rolling brown hills until it stops just short of the ocean. You can't see the water from here, though, a large tree-shrouded hill is in the way. The Wilcox property.

Developer Harold B. Toso has been trying to get a zoning change for the hill so he can build a 220 unit hotel on it. Santa Barbara residents will have the opportunity today to decide if they'd rather keep it as it is.

If Proposition A passes, the city will be empowered to purchase the property from the Wilcox heirs "for open space purposes." The property is adjacent to Henry's (Arroyo Burro) Beach.

Wilcox is "the last large undeveloped oceanfront parcel that's left in the city," says David Liquornik, representing the local Small Wilderness Area Preserve (SWAP). "If we don't buy it now, it's gone."

The county board of supervisors voted unanimously July 23 to "encourage the city to purchase the Wilcox property." The park and recreation divisions of the City Community Services Dept. consider Wilcox a top priority.

Toso's attorney, Gerald Parent, says his client believes "if the people want it as a park, it should be a park." But he notes that the plans for the hotel include walkways along the bluff that are open to the public, and the hotel would not be very conspicuous from the road.

Opponents of the measure argue the city has too many parks as it is, mostly undeveloped. And some believe the city has higher priorities for its money.

"I personally can't see how a city can have too many parks," says Liquornik. Much of the passive park space, he says, isn't meant to be developed.

The cost of the property is undetermined. The estimate is about $1.1 to $1.3 million. Councilman Gus Chavalas has argued the final price could run into several millions. The assessed evaluation for tax purposes is $400,000, notes Liquornik, but

Financial Aids recieves space; Bikeshop put off

By Nadia Maril

The Associated Students' space proposal for a bikeshop was refused last week by Chancellor Vernon I. Cheadle.

The Financial Aids Office has instead been granted the use of room 125 in Building 434. The Financial Aids Office has been requesting the room for the past year as a place for storing their files.

Howard Robinson, A.S. Rep-at-large who was the major proponent of the proposal, was aware of the Financial Aids space request, but since the bikeshop was only requesting the use of half the room, he felt Financial Aids could still use the other half for their file storage.

According to Robinson, "There is a lot of controversy as to what is more important, academic use or student services. I don't think you can say one or the other, obviously you have to have them both, and the bikeshop is a very worthwhile student service and should be given high priority."

It was Robinson's feeling that the administration's refusal of the space proposal was not so much a denial of the bikeshop space request as a decision to grant the space to Financial Aid, whose request had been under consideration for a longer time.

Robinson stated that in his conference with Cheadle, the Chancellor stressed the fact that space is very limited and space decisions made now will be important for the future. In approximately three years time there will be no requests for space to deal with, because there will be none to give out. The Chancellor was unavailable at press time for comment.

As a result of the space request denial, the original opening date scheduled for January will probably have to be postponed. Robinson stated, "This throws our time schedule off. We'll have to show a lot of student support if we are to get any campus space."

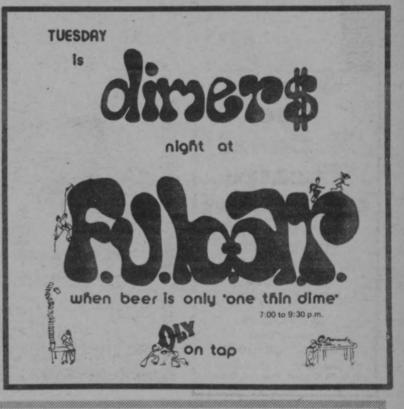

At the present time Leg. Council has allotted $7,500 from

Work-study, fellowships info

The Office of Financial Aid has announced that students holding academic year work-study awards, but not working pending the income tax audit clearance may now be referred for job placement by signing a work-study release agreement.

The conditions of the agreement stipulate that either we have not received a copy of the 1973 income tax form 1040 which we have requested or that the student has not notified us that a copy of the 1040 will be sent by IRS. It is understood that the required tax documents must be received within 45 days.

The availability of work-study positions are plentiful. Employers are anxious to utilize work-study students. So, if you are not working pending the tax audit clearance, please make an appointment immediately at the Office of Financial Aid (telephone extension 2431).

Applications are being accepted for the President's Undergraduate Fellowship Program until Nov. 15. The program provides funds to undergraduate students for supplies and miscellaneous expenses related to research and creative projects or studies. Undergraduates who are interested must obtain a faculty sponsor and submit an application to the Undergraduate Scholarship Committee. Additional information and applications are available in departmental offices and in the Office of Financial Aid.

Commentary

Gubernatorial choice not that dismal

By Marc Wutschke

The monopolization of our political system by the Republicans and Democrats has fostered the illusion that the choice voters face Tuesday for Governor is either Jerry Brown or Houston Flournoy. Yet never has a choice between two candidates seemed so dismal. Despite their desperate attempts to present themselves as clear-cut alternatives, Brown and Flournoy are trapped in the dilemma that their respective parties are fundamentally similar in support of our present system of capitalist government.

Thus both Brown and Flournoy have stressed their personal qualities and experience as a flimsy appeal for votes, and have avoided the fundamental issues facing our society.

The Socialist Workers Party feel that the problems our society faces are too critical to ignore, and the candidacies of Brown and Flournoy as an answer to these problems too ludicrous to leave unchallenged. Most importantly, the Socialist Workers Party see that the capitalist system the Republicans and Democrats support is unable to cope with these problems, and is in fact the cause of

We face, in California as well as nationally, staggering inflation, rampant unemployment, a decline in real wages and buying power, a deterioration of our environment, health, and standard of living, and cutbacks of social services and education. Olga Rodriguez, in contrast to Brown and Flournoy, is addressing herself to these vital problems in her campaign. And as the Socialist Workers Party candidate of Governor, she presents to California the socialist alternative.

Of great concern to Olga Rodriguez is the loss of buying power, as this hits hardest those on the bottom; Blacks, Chicanos, and the elderly in particular. There is an absence of answers of substance on this critical problem from either Brown or Flournoy. In contrast, Olga and the Socialist Workers Party propose the abolition of any wage controls and a cost of living clause in all union contracts, Social Security benefits, pensions, and unemployment benefits at union scale, as protection from inflation.

The SWP and Olga Rodriguez firmly support the right of all workers to strike, under rank and file union control, with no government interference with collective bargaining. The SWP demands the end of police violence and court injunctions against the right to strike and collective bargaining, particularly for the United Farmworkers of America, now in their critical struggle against the growers and Teamsters.

The SWP feel that it is not the "waste" of working people that are causing shortages and high prices, as President Ford and the capitalists would have us believe, but the greed and inefficiency of the corporations upon which the workers are dependent. In the case of oil, Olga and the SWP advocate the nationalizing of all oil companies under worker control, opening up the books to public review so that this vital commodity can be allocated rationally and for the welfare of workers and consumers rather than for individual private profit.

The position of Brown and Flournoy on the serious problem of educational cutbacks has only been vague promises for "more state support." Olga's position is more forthright to meet the challenge. She calls for immediate construction of new schools, and a halt of the teacher job freeze to reduce class size. Cutbacks and shortages in education are hardest hitting on Blacks, Chicanos, Chinese and other working class students. Olga and the SWP maintain that high quality education is a right, not a privilege. To insure that everyone has an equal chance to the educational level that they desire, Olga supports tuition-free education through the University level, open admissions, and affirmative action plans for women, Blacks, Chicanos and Chinese.

Unlike Brown or Flournoy, Olga has publicly called for removal of all criminal penalties against such victimless crimes as marijuana possession and repeal of the California "Lewd Conduct" Law and all other laws used to oppress homosexuals.

Olga Rodriguez and the Socialist Workers Party oppose the destruction of our environment, demanding an immediate halt to oil drilling off the California coast, the burning of high sulphur fuels, and the building of nuclear plants without infallible

If Olga's and the SWP's approach to the problems of our society appeal to you more than the empty and redundant campaigns of Brown and Flournoy, then she deserves your vote. Voting for the lesser of evils who may win but is not really committed to fundamental change will not bring you real solutions, but only a perpetuation of the problems. As Olga Rodriguez said in her talk here last Thursday, "It is better to vote for something you want and don't get it, then to vote for something you don't want and get it.'

We urge a clean break from the capitalist program of the Republicans and Democrats, and a vote to support the campaign of the Socialist Alternative: Olga Rodriguez for governor, and Dan Styron for U.S. Senator.

Letters Door tax explained

As a person involved in the development of the volunteer door tax, I appreciate the Nexus article published this week. However, there are a couple of mportant additional points w about this novel way of raising money for community projects.

First, it should be pointed out that this money is necessary to keep several community projects going and also to start new ones. On the ballot with the question of whether or not to establish the door tax is a place for voters to indicate several of the projects which they feel should be subsidized or initiated.

Secondly, funding for these projects should come from tax monies we all pay to state and county governments, but these agencies are not currently responsive enough to the needs of our community. For example, Isla Vista residents currently pay more than $1 million each year in property taxes and another $500,000 each year goes into the county treasury from state and federal sources which should go to delivering services to this community. So far, the Board of Supervisors have not faced up to their responsibility to the Isla Vista community and this is the real reason we are having to raise money within the community by such a volunteer tax on each apartment or home.

Parent says "the city would have to acquire it at the same price a private entity would buy it for." Council Nyle Utterback has with $1 million from its $4 million oil spill settlement, supplementing it with money from other sources.

But even passage of the proposed that the city buy it proposition won't keep development out of the Las Positas area. The 210-acre "Jesuit property" across Cliff Drive from Wilcox is being considered for a 140 unit development. Another housing project may be proposed for the nearby Campanil Hills area. Civilization is slowly creeping into Las Positas.

their general fund for the establishment of a bikeshop which will provide free tool use, low-cost repair service, and low-cost new and used parts. Due to the present setback in their schedule they probably will not be able to open the bikeshop until Spring quarter.

Possible alternatives to the original proposal for room 125 include the old commissary, moveable trailers, or the old Home Economics building (on the east side of campus). Robinson does not think Associated Students can afford to have the bikeshop located off campus because the rental cost would cut too much into their expense budget.

Don Vito's challenge Coke

By John Vian

Tonight's stadium flag football games are guaranteed to be great as no. one ranked Coke will be challenged by no. three ranked Don Vito's in the A league game, and Jolly Rodgers will slash with the Mystic Knights in the B league game.

Just after proving their place as the no, one team in the A's, the Coke team will be tested by the once tied Don Vito's Derelicts.

Both squads are coming off of poorly played games. Coke could only take eighth ranked Six Pack to Go 6-0, and Don Vito's was tied by that same Six Pack team 6-6. In the Coke-Six Pack game only a Joe Empe interception put the no, one team ahead, as quarterback Jeff Hesselmeyer history however, the game tonight will undoubtedly be super as both teams struggle to determine who is the no. one

Although Don Vito's will have an excellent chance to win, they will probably be stopped by the rugged Coke defense as Tom Powell, the Derelicts no. one quarterback, is hurt. Prediction: Coke by 13.

Even though most of the space devoted to flag football is on A league games, the real backbone of the football scene everyday on Storke fields are the teams in the B leagues. With only 17 teams in the A leagues it has been relatively easy to rank them.

Now however, the Nexus brings rankings of the top 20 B teams, a representation of the top 15 per cent, into the picture. See where your team rates by looking at the B list on this page.

when they "exaggerate" Nixon's conversation voice.

A lot of the conversation, not just Nixon's part, was also hard to follow because many times the three talked over each other, all at the same time. Transcribers had a hard time weeding out the individual dialogue, and had to listen to parts over and over to get it all.

Sometimes, background noises that probably went unnoticed in the original conversation came out clearer on the tape. For instance, at one point in the March 21 tape, Dean tapped his fingers nervously on the desk for about three minutes. On the tape, it sounds as though the entire office is falling apart with bricks, lumber, and cement caving in on the desk. The three continue to talk as if nothing is going on.

This resulted, most likely, because the microphone was placed on top or inside of Nixon's desk. When placed that way, tapping of any sort sounds thunderous when the tape is played back.

Parts of the transcripts that "unintelligible"

State Senator Omer Rains (D) is facing Assemblyman W. Don MacGillivray for the 18th District State Senate seat. Rains became a state Senator last July by defeating MacGillivray in a special election to fill the seat vacated by Lagomarsino who was elected to Congress.

Of 17 propositions, two are of special interest to UC students. Prop. 4 proposes limiting Regent terms to 12 years instead of 16 and Prop. 16 will determine whether the state Legislature or the Regents determine tuition level at UC.

Isla Vista Community Council is also holding district elections today. Any I.V. resident 16 or older may vote at the booths located outside the regular county polling areas. Residents should vote for three representatives at large and one district rep. Voters should also decide on the town meeting referendum and the voluntary door tax.

indeed, unintelligible. The three mumbled, turned their heads away from the microphone, or simply said something under their breath that wasn't picked up on the tape. The label didn't hide anything that was actually there.

At another point in the March 21 tape, there is a nine second pause in the middle of a Nixon passage, and it comes right in the middle of a sentence. After the long silence, Nixon begins a new sentence with a new thought from completely out of nowhere. It isn't clear whether something was done to the tape, or Nixon really did lose his thought, wait nine seconds, and start a new one, and there is no way to tell.

These tapes might never be played again publicly. Everyday, over 100 spectators line up in front of Judge Sirica's courtroom, hoping to get one of the 30 seats set aside for the public. Many get there as early as 5:30 in the morning, but all say it's worth the wait. The tapes are a piece of history that might never be shared with anyone else.

Congressman Robert Lagomarsino, is "the roughest Republican to beat," according to Ross Pumfrey, campaign manager for Omer Rains.

Out of over a quarter million voters in that district, 54 percent are Democrats, 37 percent Republicans, and eight percent declined to state. There are 39,907 more Democrats than Republicans.

But Mike Wootton, Lagomarsino's campaign manager, isn't impressed by these odds. He notes that during the March special election that elected his boss, Lagomarsino received 53 percent of the vote against seven Democrats. "We have strong bi-partisan support," he said. He figures Lagomarsino got 25 percent of the Democrats'

John McDonagh, MacGillivray's campaign manager, notes, "Many Democrats are conservative. We've always run în overbalanced by Democrats."

But Pumfrey thinks the effects of Watergate and inflation make this a "bad year for Republicans. Voters are angry at the people in power," he said, "and locally, mostly Republicans are in
