Acrobatics
The World Champion Chinese Acrobats performed some impressive feats of strength and physical skill at a Saturday night exhibition in the Events Center, demonstrating the energetic talents that have made them familiar the world over. Here, members of the troupe show their stuff, from incredible acts of balance to one of the many human pyramids that are part of their acrobatic repertoire.

Final 'Cheadle 26' Defendant Gets Public Service Sentence
By LISA LEFF

Cheadle 26 defendant Richard Robb was found guilty of criminal trespassing and given a community service sentence after a two-day trial last week. This was the same verdict rendered by Santa Barbara Municipal Court Judge James Slater at the Oct. 9 hearing of 25 U.CSB students arrested last May while staging the sit-in protest at Cheadle Hall that Robb participated in. The demonstration was staged in opposition to the University of California's ties with two nuclear weapons research facilities, and the lack of public input allowed by the U.C. Board of Regents about their management contract with the Department of Energy. But while the rest of the demonstrationists ultimately pled "no contest" to the charges, Robb maintained a plea of "innocent by reason of necessity," thereby allowing the administration building after 5 p.m. unless they are taking part in a "special, organized, approved activity," and that the group last May had been asked to leave several times before the police were called.

Judge Slater took issue over whether or not the group could be considered an "organized activity," as the students had in fact obtained permission to use the Chancellor's Conference Room for what Zomalt called a "tach-in." It was further determined that Cheadle Hall is sometimes used for evening events, and that the students were given no written specifications on the use of the room. However after hearing testimony given by two of the protesters, former A.S. President Trayvah Rothman and Off-campus Representative Brian MacDonald, which served to establish the frame of mind of the group when they decided to remain in the building, and additional information supplied by a university police officer present at the scene, Slater said "The law is stated that if they request that others vacate a public building after closing, it is a violation to remain." On the second day of the trial, defense attorneys Lorenzo Campbell and Richard Frishman had allowed in the administration building after 5 p.m. unless they are taking part in a "special, organized, approved activity," and that the group last May had been asked to leave several times before the police were called.

Assembly Speaker Willie Brown said students would have to use their political clout to push revenue-increasing measures through the Legislature and to avoid further cuts in the U.C. budget. he said he would work to have the university make cuts in other areas, like administration and research.

5 percent cut be proposed for the 1985-86 fiscal year, which university officials said could force the university to hike student fees $90 per year and either sharply limit graduate enrollments or impose a graduation deadline, are likely to stand unless the Legislature decides otherwise.

Assembly Speaker Willie Brown, who also attended Friday's regents meeting, said that since 1982 is an election year, it could be difficult to push increases.

Speaker Brown said students would have to use their political clout to push revenue-increasing measures through the legislature and to avoid further cuts in the U.C. budget. Friday's meeting was a literal showcase of political power, with not only the governor and the speaker attending, but L.t. Gov. Mike Curb and U.S. Atty. Gen. William French Smith also there.

Although all four are regents, there was nothing in the public meeting to indicate any comment from any of them, and acting U.C. President William Fretter said he was surprised to see them there. Brown took part in a closed-door meeting with a delegation of regents.

U.C.'s Budget Cuts: Record of Fee Hikes

By DREW DIGBY

By the regents after the winter quarter meeting, the regents authorized the university to hike student fees up to $500 for spring quarter to raise additional revenues.

Acting U.C. President William Fretter announced on Nov. 9 that the university's latest proposal to deal with the $59 million cut is to hike student fees by $100 per quarter and to sharply limit graduate enrollments. They are also considering charging graduate tuition instead of limiting graduate enrollment.

Tuition, in the university's definition, is student fees used to pay for the actual instruction of students. When the university hikes student fees, they say it covers the funding for student services, including admissions and student affirmative action, and indirect student services, like the maintenance and administration of student services, to student fees instead of state support.

Hiking student fees by $300 next year would "be going as far as we can go without charging tuition," according to Assistant Vice President William Baker.

Any fee increase would be voted by the regents after the Legislature passed the state budget and the governor signs it.

University efforts to raise additional revenues through fee hikes could be snagged by a bill introduced in the Legislature last year to prohibit the university from charging tuition.

Any fee increase voted by the regents will "be going as far as we can go without charging tuition," according to Assistant Vice President William Baker.

Any fee increase voted by the regents will "be going as far as we can go without charging tuition," according to Assistant Vice President William Baker.

The university's latest proposal to deal with the $59 million cut is to hike student fees by $100 per quarter and to sharply limit graduate enrollments. They are also considering charging graduate tuition instead of limiting graduate enrollment.

Tuition, in the university's definition, is student fees used to pay for the actual instruction of students. When the university hikes student fees, they say it covers the funding for student services, including admissions and student affirmative action, and indirect student services, like the maintenance and administration of student services, to student fees instead of state support.

Hiking student fees by $300 next year would "be going as far as we can go without charging tuition," according to Assistant Vice President William Baker.
SAN DIEGO—About one hundred faculty members are expected to lose their jobs at San Diego State University in the Spring semester. The cutback is blamed on the loss of almost $600,000 in state operating funds. Similar cutbacks are expected at other California colleges and universities.

SACRAMENTO—Governor Brown has told his fellow University of California Regents that there is little hope that the burden of their budget cuts will be eased. In Brown's words, "the university, like the rest of state government, depends on a buoyant economy, and the economy is collapsing." Brown met with the Regents Friday before their regular monthly meeting.

LOS ANGELES—A lawsuit by the Los Angeles Herald Examiner to get a woman sports columnist into the Rams' locker room has led to orders from a judge barring all reporters from the National Football League team's dressing room. The temporary order gives equal access to the team for interview, but in an interview room separate from the locker room.

SAN FRANCISCO—Opponents branded the state's controversial rent-a-judge "legal apartheid." But the California Bar Association Board of Governors refused to eliminate or modification of the rent-a-judge plan. Instead they voted to "acknowledge" an ongoing study of the system which could lead to the practice. Instead they voted to "acknowledge" an ongoing study of the system which could lead to the practice. Instead they voted to "acknowledge" an ongoing study of the system which could lead to the practice. Instead they voted to "acknowledge" an ongoing study of the system which could lead to the practice.

WASHINGTON—President Reagan said yesterday he won't sign the compromise budget resolution worked out between the House and Senate to return the government to solvency. Reagan expressed frustration with Congress' inability to adopt budget bills in an orderly manner. Threatened with the veto, it was not clear that congressional leaders would even submit the proposal to a vote.

WASHINGTON—Justice Department officials said that national security advisor Richard Allen received $10,000 instead of $1,000 from two Japanese journalists, but that possibility is still being investigated. Allen said he took the honorarium to spare Mrs. Reagan embarrassment instead of $1,000 from two Japanese journalists, but that possibility is still being investigated. Allen said he took the honorarium to spare Mrs. Reagan embarrassment. Allen was discovered by someone else eight months later. Lawyers handling the case believe Allen committed no crime.

WASHINGTON—All decisions on permits for oil drilling in federal wilderness areas are being put off for six months. The House Interior Committee and the Reagan administration agreed to the delay so Congress can have more time to review laws governing those areas.

WASHINGTON—A number of major airlines have begun charging penalty fees on refunds of unused discount fare tickets. The charge was prompted by an increase in no-shows during the early weeks of the air traffic controllers strike. The airlines involved include United, American, TWA, Western and Braniff.

WASHINGTON—A lawsuit by the Los Angeles Herald Examiner to get a woman sports columnist into the Rams' locker room has led to orders from a judge barring all reporters from the National Football League team's dressing room. The temporary order gives equal access to the team for interview, but in an interview room separate from the locker room.

WASHINGTON—President Reagan said yesterday he won't sign the compromise budget resolution worked out between the House and Senate to return the government to solvency. Reagan expressed frustration with Congress' inability to adopt budget bills in an orderly manner. Threatened with the veto, it was not clear that congressional leaders would even submit the proposal to a vote.

WASHINGTON—Justice Department officials said that national security advisor Richard Allen received $10,000 instead of $1,000 from two Japanese journalists, but that possibility is still being investigated. Allen said he took the honorarium to spare Mrs. Reagan embarrassment instead of $1,000 from two Japanese journalists, but that possibility is still being investigated. Allen said he took the honorarium to spare Mrs. Reagan embarrassment. Allen was discovered by someone else eight months later. Lawyers handling the case believe Allen committed no crime.

WASHINGTON—All decisions on permits for oil drilling in federal wilderness areas are being put off for six months. The House Interior Committee and the Reagan administration agreed to the delay so Congress can have more time to review laws governing those areas.

WASHINGTON—A number of major airlines have begun charging penalty fees on refunds of unused discount fare tickets. The charge was prompted by an increase in no-shows during the early weeks of the air traffic controllers strike. The airlines involved include United, American, TWA, Western and Braniff.

WASHINGTON—President Reagan said yesterday he won't sign the compromise budget resolution worked out between the House and Senate to return the government to solvency. Reagan expressed frustration with Congress' inability to adopt budget bills in an orderly manner. Threatened with the veto, it was not clear that congressional leaders would even submit the proposal to a vote.

WASHINGTON—Justice Department officials said that national security advisor Richard Allen received $10,000 instead of $1,000 from two Japanese journalists, but that possibility is still being investigated. Allen said he took the honorarium to spare Mrs. Reagan embarrassment instead of $1,000 from two Japanese journalists, but that possibility is still being investigated. Allen said he took the honorarium to spare Mrs. Reagan embarrassment. Allen was discovered by someone else eight months later. Lawyers handling the case believe Allen committed no crime.

WASHINGTON—All decisions on permits for oil drilling in federal wilderness areas are being put off for six months. The House Interior Committee and the Reagan administration agreed to the delay so Congress can have more time to review laws governing those areas.

WASHINGTON—A number of major airlines have begun charging penalty fees on refunds of unused discount fare tickets. The charge was prompted by an increase in no-shows during the early weeks of the air traffic controllers strike. The airlines involved include United, American, TWA, Western and Braniff.

WASHINGTON—President Reagan said yesterday he won't sign the compromise budget resolution worked out between the House and Senate to return the government to solvency. Reagan expressed frustration with Congress' inability to adopt budget bills in an orderly manner. Threatened with the veto, it was not clear that congressional leaders would even submit the proposal to a vote.

WASHINGTON—Justice Department officials said that national security advisor Richard Allen received $10,000 instead of $1,000 from two Japanese journalists, but that possibility is still being investigated. Allen said he took the honorarium to spare Mrs. Reagan embarrassment instead of $1,000 from two Japanese journalists, but that possibility is still being investigated. Allen said he took the honorarium to spare Mrs. Reagan embarrassment. Allen was discovered by someone else eight months later. Lawyers handling the case believe Allen committed no crime.

WASHINGTON—All decisions on permits for oil drilling in federal wilderness areas are being put off for six months. The House Interior Committee and the Reagan administration agreed to the delay so Congress can have more time to review laws governing those areas.

WASHINGTON—A number of major airlines have begun charging penalty fees on refunds of unused discount fare tickets. The charge was prompted by an increase in no-shows during the early weeks of the air traffic controllers strike. The airlines involved include United, American, TWA, Western and Braniff.

WASHINGTON—President Reagan said yesterday he won't sign the compromise budget resolution worked out between the House and Senate to return the government to solvency. Reagan expressed frustration with Congress' inability to adopt budget bills in an orderly manner. Threatened with the veto, it was not clear that congressional leaders would even submit the proposal to a vote.

WASHINGTON—Justice Department officials said that national security advisor Richard Allen received $10,000 instead of $1,000 from two Japanese journalists, but that possibility is still being investigated. Allen said he took the honorarium to spare Mrs. Reagan embarrassment instead of $1,000 from two Japanese journalists, but that possibility is still being investigated. Allen said he took the honorarium to spare Mrs. Reagan embarrassment. Allen was discovered by someone else eight months later. Lawyers handling the case believe Allen committed no crime.

WASHINGTON—All decisions on permits for oil drilling in federal wilderness areas are being put off for six months. The House Interior Committee and the Reagan administration agreed to the delay so Congress can have more time to review laws governing those areas.

WASHINGTON—A number of major airlines have begun charging penalty fees on refunds of unused discount fare tickets. The charge was prompted by an increase in no-shows during the early weeks of the air traffic controllers strike. The airlines involved include United, American, TWA, Western and Braniff.
Activist Peters Speaks

Humans Proclaimed Weak Life Form

By ANDY WOODWARD
Texas Staff Writer

Native beings are the weakest form of creation; while this was meant to be a caretakers of Mother Earth, they have instead existed as merely takers. Native American activist Ernie "Longwalker" Peters said in a speech entitled "Land and Life" sponsored Thursday by A.S. Program Board.

Peters is the founder of Four Directions, a non-profit spiritual organization aimed at protecting the Indian cultures and traditions. He was given the name "Longwalker" after participating in 1978 in a six-month trek from San Francisco to Washington, D.C. staged to dramatize the plight of the Native American people.

At the time, Congress was considering 11 pieces of anti-Indian legislation which would have removed certain tribes from their land, in addition to confiscating their herds and fishing and water rights.

Although the legislation was defeated and much media attention was given to the cause, Peters said since then Congress has passed, with Reagan's approval, some of the same acts "with different names and numbers." One of these orders, he said, was the relocation of 1,000 Navajo and Hopi from the Big Mountain Reservation in Arizona by 1985.

"There's going to be an El Salvador in your own back yard and nobody's doing anything about it," Peters said. "It's time for less education and more intelligence," Peters concluded.

---

Zimbabwe Nation Discussed Today

Former U.S. Ambassador Stephen Low and UCSB alumna Dr. Frank Muchenje will share "Reflections on Zimbabwe" today at 2 p.m. in the Lane Room, Ellison Hall 3624.

The Native Americans have also been dispossessed by a barbed wire fence erected on the border of the reservations of the Navajo and Hopi tribes "because of (supposed) land disputes between the Hopi and the Navajos," Peters said, pointing out the assembly held by the tribes to affirm their common resistance to the fencing.

Another anti-Indian act passed by Congress requires that each family on the Yellow Thunder Reservation in South Dakota acquire a "subistence permit" from the Bureau of Indian Affairs to be allowed to keep one cow and six sheep from their herds. The rest are confiscated, Peters said.

"You see, we have to ride herd on our animals all the time or they are confiscated by the Bureau of Indian Affairs whether the family has a permit or not, "to make the people more dependent upon the system," Peters said.

In addition to the anti-Indian regulations, "stripping runs" are conducted daily with jet fighters flying low over the Big Mountain Camp to intimidate the people, Peters said.

"There's going to be an El Salvador in your own back yard and nobody's doing anything about it," Peters said. "It's time for less education and more intelligence," Peters concluded.
Big Waves

With the rampant bureaucratic red tape within the university system, it is imperative that effective governmental bodies set strong priorities and use their time wisely to make effective decisions.

This week's A.S. Legislative Council meeting, an interesting prioritization of important issues was set. In an hour long meeting, Leg Council passed a bill (with 15 minutes of discussion) to "urge the Cosmic Wakemaker to produce more surfable north swells." Efficient and effective use of Leg Council's diverse constituency," the position paper concluded with an ASCUSB endorsement of "any future north swells.

With the enthusiastic support of big waves, the meeting ended early. After all, there was a Romeo Void concert that several Leg Council members wanted to attend.

Will this week's Leg Council meeting end early for a campus flood or a social gathering at the pub? With the regents considering a $300 fee increase for next year to help offset the devastating $22.3 million budget cut, the university is faced with, it is ironic that, even at UCSB, big waves take precedence over the price of public education.

Diablo Vote

Safety seems to have finally become the key issue in the ongoing Diablo Canyon controversy, with the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's decision to suspend the operating license of the nuclear power plant until further analysis of the plant's safety. Last Thursday, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the low power testing license granted to PG&E in September until the adequacy of earthquake safety systems is verified. Unfortunately, a decision influenced by the recent discovery of incorrect design specifications for the safety system of the Diablo Canyon, which puts PG&E back to the starting line in a long fight for permits and approvals.

We applaud the action of the NRC. However, such a move can only be accepted with cautious relief. While the commission ordered that an audit must be performed, they left the choice of consulting firms up to the utility itself. In view of the past actions of the power company, the idea that the NRC is confident in their own audit is ridiculous. PG&E has asked one of its own consultants to conduct the review. Despite this, the suspension is a positive step. The safety of any facility as potentially hazardous as a nuclear plant cannot be overestimated. In the memory of Three Mile Island, it is hoped the NRC decision will serve as a warning to other power companies that, in the long run, it is more sensible to do things right the first time.

Good Luck

Once again, the UCSB water polo team may grab the National Collegiate Athletic Association title. After defeating the Long Beach State 4ters this past weekend in the Pacific Invitational meet and going on to win the championship, the Gauchos won the PCAA title and will compete in the NCAA next week.

Of course these Gauchos have to face the fact that since the Gauchos won the NCAA title. This year, seeded number two behind the undefeated Stanford team, the Gauchos are the more likely to see a better than average chance of securing the well-deserved title once again.

An academic institute where competitive athletics are too often overlooked or ignored, the water polo team deserves full support for the hard work, talent, and dedication that enabled them to qualify for the national tournament. Perhaps this is another year for Coach Peck to rise up in the water and the athletes to end up in the champagne (or the champagne in the athletes). We wish all members of the team good luck.

DOONESBURY

DAILY NEXUS
Andy Rooney

Liking Nancy

There are two things I wouldn’t want to be in this life. I wouldn’t want to be the queen of England’s husband and I wouldn’t want to be the president of the United States wife. Other than that, I’d be willing to try anything.

Both of them are really tough jobs, even though I imagine the queen gets all you want to eat. Prince Philip seems to handle his position with a casual calmness that keeps the press off his back, but our lady first lady, who is always, always, always in the press, she’s probably a strong woman. It’s a strange story about Americans but even the Queen Mother, who is the crown princess, the queen’s mother, is not very rich, especially don’t resent the president and his wife living large.

It’s not a serious defect in her character.

She keeps herself that she’s used to having things right. She has good taste in clothes, furnishings, food and decorations. It’s nice.

If I ever elected president, the nation is going to be in for a shock with our new first lady. If reporter think they have something to write about with Nancy Reagan until my Margie moves in. She just isn’t the type who makes a scene. She’s built for making adjustments, is going to love it.

I never speak in a speech in the foreground of the way Franklyn Roosevelt and Jimmy Carter did, my wife is apt to go out and cut a little more wood. If I made some important policy statement she disposed with it all in a way that I will not hesitate to tell anyone that she was out of my mind.

If I wasn’t allowed to speak in a speech in the foreground of the way Franklyn Roosevelt and Jimmy Carter did, my wife is apt to go out and cut a little more wood. She has good taste in clothes, furnishings, food and decorations. It’s nice.

I know darn well she wouldn’t spend half her day in the White House Rose Garden greeting Girl Scout troops because she plays tennis three days a week, has French Club on Tuesdays, bridge on Wednesday and she comes to New York every Friday. She’d be on bookkeeping nights. There’s no way she’s going to hang around to get me out of good with foreign dignitaries if she’s got something she wants to say. She’d be home in the kitchen before the last dish was washed, the press would have a field day. She paid $900 for her 10-carat diamond ring and that isn’t even now.

As I anticipate the kind of first lady she would make, I know how President Reagan must feel when he get after Nancy.

Andy Rooney is a New York-based syndicated columnist featured regularly in the Nexus.

Joseph Kraft

Reagan’s Strategy: The Wrong Side of the Slope

PARIS—Imagine a game in which the home team is on the defensive because the spectators are the price. There lies the sig¬ ificance of the move being made by Ronald Reagan and Leonid Brezhnev in advance of the coming round of Big Two arms control talks.

The spectators, of course, are the West European nations. The home team is the U.S. While it has little to gain, it could lose the Atlantic Alliance. This is why.

Reagan has long enjoyed a huge advantage in conventional forces on the Continent. In the past, he has been able to enter a direct Soviet attack by shooting tartar fire before it could come to the Moscow neutralized that threat by installing an ABM system in Europe with its missiles on the ground. So in concert with the Nexus.

Finally, if there is no give by the US. and Russia to reduce such weapons.

The proposals advanced by President Reagan on Wednesday were a last minute effort to upset the Brezhnev visit. By deferring to “cancel..deployment” of new nuclear weapons in Europe if Russia scrapped the ones it had already deployed, the U.S. put the monkey on Moscow’s back.

The support voiced by Chancellor Schmidt of Germany, a child of colonialism, as practiced by the Soviet Union, and the Bulgarians, and universally deplored. We should not abandon, carriage arguments we have here on international good will.

William F. Buckley is a syndicated columnist featured regularly in the Nexus.

Joseph Kraft is a Washington-based syndicated columnist featured regularly in the Nexus.
Storke Key In UCSB's Growth

Today marks the birthday of Thomas M. Storke (1876-1967), the name sake of Storke Tower and Communications Plaza, a man well respected for his accomplishments in journalism, as well as for his service as a University of California regent and a short term congressman. Storke's contributions and encouragements were key in the development of UCSB from a small campus community in Santa Barbara to the respected university it is today. A $100,000 donation for the Storke Publications Building, prompted by his interest in journalism and promising young journalists, was only one of several contributions Storke made. In addition, he gave money for the building of the UCen and for various scholarships.

In a dedicration of the Storke Communications Plaza, Storke said of the entire university, "I love this institution. I have seen it develop since its birth in 1961. I have had a small part in its development and have followed its course throughout 30 or more years of expansion, until today it is potentially the greatest campus in the California system, and culturally it can be one of the greatest educational centers in the world."

Storke distinguished himself journalistically as the outspoken editor and publisher of the Santa Barbara News Press. He worked at the paper for more than 70 years. His most controversial, and eventually most honored, action as editor was the 1961 expose of the John Birch Society, the ultra-conservative organization that was at that time influential in Santa Barbara. The News Press's hard-hitting expose earned Storke three highly distinguished journalism awards: the Pulitzer Prize, the Lovejoy Fellowship and the Lausterbach Award.

In memory of Storke, the most outstanding UCSB student in each year is awarded the Thomas M. Storke Medal of Excellence.

Crime Problem Is Discussed At Conference

Today from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. a conference, "A Search for Community Solutions to Crime and Violence," will be held at La Casa Juvenal High School to focus citizen energy on learning more about this issue and generating joint local action by government, business and industry, community agencies and organizations and individuals to provide short-term and long-term solutions to this critical problem.

A fee of $5 to cover the resource kit and soliciting is being charged and scholarships are available. Call 965-5792 for additional information.

The lecture is sponsored by the Environmental Studies Program.

Brown Refusal

(Continued from front page)

and Frazier prior to the public meeting.

Brown, although a regent, did not attend the regents' Oct. 15—16 meeting in Los Angeles, leading the regents to vote to send a delegation to the governor in protest of the $22 million cut.

It was the $22 million cut in the current year's budget, which resulted in the administration's decision to impose a one-time $25 surcharge on student fees for spring quarter.

The university was unable to arrange a meeting and for some time was even unable to get a response from the governor's office about their request for a meeting.

On top of possible fee increases for next year, William Baker, U.C. assistant chancellor, said the university will now seriously consider imposing a graduate tuition to avoid cuts in graduate enrollments and reductions in faculty. Before last Thursday's meeting, Baker said the administration was thinking of eliminating about 1,300 graduate students throughout the university system, as well as the 70 faculty positions needed to teach the students.

Baker said attrition and the presence of temporary faculty would allow the university to nob lay off tenured faculty members.

Comments by some of the regents, though, that graduate tuition is preferable to enrollment and faculty cuts have caused the administration to reevaluate its position, Baker said.

Although $12-15 million in instructional program cuts will need to be made next year, if the 5 percent cut goes through, Baker said the university will not cut any program without giving the students in them a reasonable chance to finish.

Because of that, Baker said only one-fourth of any savings in cuts in programs could be realised next year. Other temporary cuts would have to be made, he said. In addition, no program that is not offered somewhere else in the university system will be cut out because of budget cuts, Baker said.

Baker said attrition and the presence of temporary faculty would allow the university not to layoff tenured faculty members.

Graduate programs, rather than undergraduate programs, are more likely for cutbacks because of the way the state funds the university, Baker said.

The State Master Plan for Higher Education calls on the university to provide an enrollment system for all qualified students.

So such requirement is asked of the university, graduate instruction, Baker said, and as a result the graduate programs are not always fully funded by the university.

This year, the university knew it would enroll at least 300 more graduate students than the Legislature had set money aside for in the budget. Baker said the university actually enrolled 1,150 more graduate students than budgeted.

Five undergraduates, though, the university is given funds directly for the number of students and the university can request additional funds if more students enroll than budgeted.

At the Friday meeting, the regents did just that, approving a resolution declaring an "enrollment emergency" and asking the state for U.C.'s share of a $5 million fund set aside for overenrollment.

The university is expected to get approximately $4 million from that fund, although state Department of Finance representatives said there could be some problems because of the financial condition.

Although $12-15 million in instructional program cuts will need to be made next year, if the 5 percent cut goes through, Baker said the university will now seriously consider imposing a graduate tuition to avoid cuts in graduate enrollments and reductions in faculty. Before last Thursday's meeting, Baker said the administration was thinking of eliminating about 1,300 graduate students throughout the university system, as well as the 70 faculty positions needed to teach the students.

Baker said attrition and the presence of temporary faculty would allow the university to not lay off tenured faculty members.

Comments by some of the regents, though, that graduate tuition is preferable to enrollment and faculty cuts have caused the administration to reevaluate its position, Baker said.

Although $12-15 million in instructional program cuts will need to be made next year, if the 5 percent cut goes through, Baker said the university will not cut any program without giving the students in them a reasonable chance to finish.

Because of that, Baker said only one-fourth of any savings in cuts in programs could be realised next year. Other temporary cuts would have to be made, he said. In addition, no program that is not offered somewhere else in the university system will be cut out because of budget cuts, Baker said.

Baker said attrition and the presence of temporary faculty would allow the university not to layoff tenured faculty members.

Graduate programs, rather than undergraduate programs, are more likely for cutbacks because of the way the state funds the university, Baker said.

The State Master Plan for Higher Education calls on the university to provide an enrollment system for all qualified students.

So such requirement is asked of the university, graduate instruction, Baker said, and as a result the graduate programs are not always fully funded by the university.

This year, the university knew it would enroll at least 300 more graduate students than the Legislature had set money aside for in the budget. Baker said the university actually enrolled 1,150 more graduate students than budgeted.

Five undergraduates, though, the university is given funds directly for the number of students and the university can request additional funds if more students enroll than budgeted.

At the Friday meeting, the regents did just that, approving a resolution declaring an "enrollment emergency" and asking the state for U.C.'s share of a $5 million fund set aside for overenrollment.

The university is expected to get approximately $4 million from that fund, although state Department of Finance representatives said there could be some problems because of the financial condition.

Brown, although a regent, did not attend the regents' Oct. 15—16 meeting in Los Angeles, leading the regents to vote to send a delegation to the governor in protest of the $22 million cut.

It was the $22 million cut in the current year's budget, which resulted in the administration's decision to impose a one-time $25 surcharge on student fees for spring quarter.

The university was unable to arrange a meeting and for some time was even unable to get a response from the governor's office about their request for a meeting.

On top of possible fee increases for next year, William Baker, U.C. assistant chancellor, said the university will now seriously consider imposing a graduate tuition to avoid cuts in graduate enrollments and reductions in faculty. Before last Thursday's meeting, Baker said the administration was thinking of eliminating about 1,300 graduate students throughout the university system, as well as the 70 faculty positions needed to teach the students.

Baker said attrition and the presence of temporary faculty would allow the university to not lay off tenured faculty members.

Comments by some of the regents, though, that graduate tuition is preferable to enrollment and faculty cuts have caused the administration to reevaluate its position, Baker said.

Although $12-15 million in instructional program cuts will need to be made next year, if the 5 percent cut goes through, Baker said the university will not cut any program without giving the students in them a reasonable chance to finish.

Because of that, Baker said only one-fourth of any savings in cuts in programs could be realised next year. Other temporary cuts would have to be made, he said. In addition, no program that is not offered somewhere else in the university system will be cut out because of budget cuts, Baker said.

Baker said attrition and the presence of temporary faculty would allow the university not to layoff tenured faculty members.

Graduate programs, rather than undergraduate programs, are more likely for cutbacks because of the way the state funds the university, Baker said.

The State Master Plan for Higher Education calls on the university to provide an enrollment system for all qualified students.

So such requirement is asked of the university, graduate instruction, Baker said, and as a result the graduate programs are not always fully funded by the university.

This year, the university knew it would enroll at least 300 more graduate students than the Legislature had set money aside for in the budget. Baker said the university actually enrolled 1,150 more graduate students than budgeted.

Five undergraduates, though, the university is given funds directly for the number of students and the university can request additional funds if more students enroll than budgeted.

At the Friday meeting, the regents did just that, approving a resolution declaring an "enrollment emergency" and asking the state for U.C.'s share of a $5 million fund set aside for overenrollment.

The university is expected to get approximately $4 million from that fund, although state Department of Finance representatives said there could be some problems because of the financial condition.
Women have been objectified in the various media. An Open House in October which included a showing of the film, "What the Commission of the Status of Women did to me," near, we would like to fill you in on some facts. Women go a long way. Status of Women may still be a long time before we come a long way, baby? In the Status of Women? After all haven't we been concerned with the rights of women? Why would anyone be concerned with the rights of women? The total A.S. budget equals nearly $525,000. The following diagram illustrates where your A.S. fees are currently being spent.

CONSTITUTIONAL LOCK-INS:

- Communications Foundation
  - $200.00

- Financial Aids Grant
  - $10,000.00

- Elmet Congress—G
  - $7,520.00

- L.V. Legal Clinic
  - $2,720.00

- Leg. Council Reservations
  - $5,000.00

- A.S. Vice Presidents (2)
  - $2,450.00

BY-LAW LOCK-INS:

- Constitutional Initiative
  - $183,750.00

- EOP
  - $30,000.00

- Financial Aids Grant
  - $10,000.00

- Elmet Congress—G
  - $7,520.00

- L.V. Legal Clinic
  - $2,720.00

- Leg. Council Reservations
  - $5,000.00

- A.S. Vice Presidents (2)
  - $2,450.00

B.A.S. NEARLY $525,000

1. Approval of the program for a special event, "Women and the Media: What we need to make this year successful," with your input and involvement. We are always open to suggestions. Status of Women meetings are held every Wednesday in UCS 254 from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Everyone is invited.

CALENDAR OF LOCAL EVENTS

FOR THE WEEK
**

MONDAY: 11 a.m. Gay Living Room, 1128 De La Vina. Call 963-2570 for more info.

TUESDAY: 10:30-noon Expectant Mothers' Movement Class. For women 8 wks. to 9 months pregnant. $5 per session. 318 Garden St. 963-4810.

MONDAY: 2 p.m. "Afternoon Air" news commentary by Barbara Spark. KPFT 90.7 FM.

THURSDAY: 7:30 p.m. Rape Crisis Victim Support Group. For info call 963-4810.

FRIDAY: 5 p.m. "Media-Watch," 8 p.m. 12 Women's Coffeehouse.

TODAY: Program Board meeting 2:15 p.m. in Program Board Office. A wild evening with acoustical performer LOOSE BRUCE KERR! Featuring his "Hysterectomy of Rock and Roll!" This FREE show starts at 7:30 p.m. in the Pub.

WED., NOV. 25: The Burning J's "Roll." This FREE show starts at 8:30 p.m. in Storke Plaza.

EVE., NOV. 24: Special Events Committee meeting 2:15 p.m. in Program Board Office. A wild evening with acoustical performer LOOSE BRUCE KERR! Featuring his "Hysterectomy of Rock and Roll!" This FREE show starts at 7:30 p.m. in the Pub.
By George, They’ve Got It! PCAA Title for Gauchos After 49ers Defeat

By JEFF DRUMM

Nexus Sports Writer

LONG BEACH — A goal by David George with 39 seconds left in the final game propelled the UCSB Gauchos to the PCAA Water Polo championship over the past weekend and their third straight victory in the game. The Gauchos beat the Long Beach State team 74-61 in a sensation-filled final battle.

In the win of the game, the Gauchos had to go through a long series of preliminary games. The tournament was a “bracketed” tournament. In other words, there were two groups of teams (called brackets) who had to play each other in a round-robin format. From there, the winners of the brackets went on to play each other in the final game.

In the A bracket, the Gauchos faced Pepperdine and University of Pacific, and in the B bracket, they were UCSB, U.C. Irvine, Pepperdine and CS Fullerton.

The Gauchos opened the tournament with an easy victory over the second Fullerton, 15-5. The Gauchos got off to a relatively slow start, which was probably due to the 8:30 p.m. starting time, and led only 5-2 at the end of one quarter. Over the next two quarters, though, UCSB rattled off seven unanswered goals, giving them complete control of the game. They cruised to the win. Even more important, however, UCSB was able to rest its starters for the later games.

Leading the way scoring for the Gauchos was Dan Hoffman, who had three goals, and Porter and Doug Pickford. Also scoring were Cam George, who had three goals, and Tim McCormick. Also scoring were Cam George, who had three goals, and Tim McCormick. Also scoring were Cam George, who had three goals, and Tim McCormick. Also scoring were Cam George, who had three goals, and Tim McCormick.

In their next game, the Gauchos faced Fresno State, the number six seed. The Bulldogs played a surprisingly tough game, but the Gauchos were able to pull out the game by a 7-4 margin. UCSB did not look extremely sharp during the game and made many mistakes during the course of the game. Only through UCSB’s strong defense and Fresnos’s lack of an offense were the Gauchos able to pull the game out.

All the scoring for the Gauchos in the game was done by three players. George had three goals, and Porter and McBee added two a piece.

The next game for the Gauchos would prove to be their toughest of the day. They were up against U.C. Irvine, the third-seeded team in the tournament. The game proved to be a tight battle between two evenly matched teams.

Going into the fourth quarter, the teams were deadlocked at 6-4. Irvine drew first blood in the period when John Vargas scored on a penalty shot. Goals by McCormick and Mouchawar gave UCSB an 8-4 lead, and Porter added another goal at the 5:25 mark to put the score at 9-7. Julian Murpatt put in a goal for the Anteaters to make it 9-8, but McCormick scored what proved to be the winner at 1:07. Irvine added another goal and had a chance to tie it up, but was unable to get a shot off and UCSB had won the B bracket.

McCormick, Mouchawar, McBee and Tanner had two goals each to lead the Gauchos in the game. Also scoring in the game were Porter and Doug Pickford. Meanwhile, Long Beach State had an easy time of it in the A bracket, beating UOP 94-84 and Pepperdine 12-7. UCSB came on to finish third in the bracket by defeating Pepperdine 8-5. Irvine earned second in the B bracket with a 3-1 record, as they had beaten Fresno 10-7 and Fullerton 11-7 in their games previous to playing UCSB. Fresno went on to finish third in the B bracket.

UCSB’s first game on Saturday was another easy victory this time against UOP, with the score being 5-3. The Gauchos didn’t let UOP score until there were only 15 seconds left in the first half. By then, the Gauchos had rolled up a comfortable 4-0 lead, and again were able to rest up their regulars for the evening’s battle with Long Beach.

Leading the scoring for UCSB were Pickford, Paul Gigoda and Pete Neunat, who had two apiece. Also scoring were Porter, Mouchawar and Howe. Long Beach State didn’t have nearly as easy a time of it as they had to face the tough U.C. Irvine squad. UCSB led 4-2 in the game, 7-6, when they used their starters most of the game. In games preceding the final, Pepperdine and Fresno played for fifth, with Pepperdine coming out on top 9-4, and U.C. Irvine destroyed UOP 14-5 to finish third.

Before the game, UCSB coach Pete Snyder described his strategy for the Long Beach game. "We hope to get our fast break going and try to wear them down," Snyder said. "This might be tough for us because Long Beach plays a very physical brand of water polo, and that will slow us down."

However, the one thing that would prove to be as big a factor as any was the tough polo, and that will slow us down."

However, the one thing that would prove to be as big a factor as any was the tough game the Gauchos had to play against Irvine earlier in the day. "By the third quarter, I knew we could wear them down because they weren’t getting back, and we just stopped pressuring us as much as they had in the first half," Snyder said after the game.

Long Beach jumped to an early lead, but they were able to win by Bobby Dolan and James Birnbel, but Dave Phillips made it a 3-1 game with seven seconds remaining in the first period. Phillips had a chance early in the second period to tie the score up, but the score didn’t hold up for long, as Doug Kimbell gave the Gauchos a 3-2 lead. However, soon afterward Kimbell was called for a penalty foul, and Pickford scored the penalty shot to tie up the game at halftime.

Dolan drew first blood for the Gauchos in the third period on a penalty shot that gave the Gauchos a 4-3 lead, but that didn’t hold up for long either.

(Please turn to p.11, col.4)
REPRODUCTIVE HEALTH CARE is an important issue. I.V. Medical Clinic has a multi disciplinary staff of professionals trained in family planning services. For information, pip, referral, or access, call the Clinic at the Los Cerritos Contact Center 998-9123.

USCB WOMEN ARE BEAUTIFUL
Thank you for your questions on Christian Campus Counselor will be on Tuesday 12-1 UCan 2284. Let's makeroom to come in the day. Tomorrow Only! Beach Castle Shores to Please check our Family (age depends on anyone, not women, especially those of you with white hair or who are thinning!)

PERSONALS
Concert: 7-9 Sept. 2 New Groove. Office requires Distance center phone at UCB,$5.00 no return. You are a fine woman and you have our deepest respect and confidence. J.D. More than another for You still sand® and warm? Warm & fuzzy 783-2094. I am writing you to describe how Action Center. Call me now at 682-3330.

Like to share your experiences at I.V. and SUS. HEALTH SERVICES? pass on a complaint? or suggestion? Your input is vital, confidential, and of high importance. These suggestions increase the SHS's ability to respond. Reproductive Resource Center. Call Jane Sonnes. Palms Advocate at 483-1023. We can meet to discuss.

Problems? You don't have to confront them alone. The staff at the Anusara contraceptives at the URC can help you. Call 682-9000 for an appointment.

Beer! At the Los Viva Youth Project for experience and social benevolence. Women with kids who need help in Harmony. Call 682-3330. Teaching the children is important. Call Sara. Money for tutoring info. 682-2228.

BAD HABITS need to be changed. Let us help you. Colin is a one stop shopping place.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION MEETING (Readings and Testimonies of Healing). All are welcome. Tuesday 10-11:30.

Following the meeting our Campus Counselor will be available to answer questions. The meeting is held at Science, Tuesday 1-3 UCan 2292.

GUARANTEED - Quit Smoking in 30 Days. These are the products used by the staff of the Behavioral Medicine Research Lab at University of California, Los Angeles. 100% money back guarantee. Call 682-3232.

THE BEST OF USCB! WHO ARE THOSE GYPSIES?
The Daily Nexus Ads Office

10:00 am to 5:00 pm on Wednesday, November 25

24 HOUR PROCESSING

INTERNEGS
South Coast Custom Colors

9111 State, Santa Barbara CA 93101

$5.50 $5.50
Mon-Fri
Mon-Fri

12282.
Science. Tuesday 1-3 UCen
Guaranteed - Quit Smoking

Special Notices

THE EASY RICHER LIFE!? Four things you can prove for yourself. 1. You have not heard of "PRINCIPLES" Place: UCan 2292.

FREE IRELAND Channel Irish American Network Fundraiser, Fri. Nov. 21 registration 968-3844.

Dance Workshop, Dec. 6, 1 pm, Navy Ball, at Harbor registration 968-3844.

Yvonue Joy Music 968-7533.

WINDOWS AVAILABLE.

LIKE to share your experiences at I.V. and SUS. HEALTH SERVICES? pass on a complaint? or suggestion? Your input is vital, confidential, and of high importance. These suggestions increase the SHS's ability to respond. Reproductive Resource Center. Call Jane Sonnes. Palms Advocate at 483-1023. We can meet to discuss.

Problems? You don't have to confront them alone. The staff at the Anusara contraceptives at the URC can help you. Call 682-9000 for an appointment.

Beer! At the Los Viva Youth Project for experience and social benevolence. Women with kids who need help in Harmony. Call 682-3330. Teaching the children is important. Call Sara. Money for tutoring info. 682-2228.

BAD HABITS need to be changed. Let us help you. Colin is a one stop shopping place.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION MEETING (Readings and Testimonies of Healing). All are welcome. Tuesday 10-11:30.

Following the meeting our Campus Counselor will be available to answer questions. The meeting is held at Science, Tuesday 1-3 UCan 2292.

GUARANTEED - Quit Smoking in 30 Days. These are the products used by the staff of the Behavioral Medicine Research Lab at University of California, Los Angeles. 100% money back guarantee. Call 682-3232.
HYPNOSIS SERVICES

Creative Hypnosis.

Terminology

968-6770

FAST-ACCURATE Resume Service.

FAST ACCURATE Resume Service.

TYING 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hynotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher.

Call for an appointment.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.

M. Moore, Certified Hypnotherapist, State Credentialed Teacher. 682-0139

30/30 • Dec. 7, 14. Tue. pm. 8-10; Dec. 7, 14. Thu. 7-9 M.
School District Has Seats Open

The Santa Barbara School Board is seeking to fill four vacant positions on its Affirmative Action Committee. The committee's role is to examine and monitor school district policy and procedures to ensure that the intent of state and federal affirmative action legislation is carried out at the local level.

The committee reports to the Board of Education on the progress of each school and department toward the district's affirmative action goals and objectives. The board is looking for people who would be committed to helping the district achieve success in the areas of affirmative action and equal opportunity in employment. Interested people should contact the Personnel Department at 720 Santa Barbara Street.