Roadrunner Held Next Week

Tickets will go on sale for the Roadrunner Review this weekend under the direction of Lucretia Zorotovich. The admission is free for student body members, 60c for the general public, and 35c for servicemen and children. The show will be presented Thursday and Friday nights, May 25 and 26, in the college auditorium at 8:30. Everyone is urged to buy a ticket as soon as possible because the auditorium can seat only three hundred people at each performance. This is the last student function under the auspices of Santa Barbara State College before it becomes a part of the University of California.

The program has been completed with the addition of a horse for one number from the Melrose Stables in Los Angeles. The entire review is under the direction of Dorothy Keniston and Emma Lou Eppel. Jim Zastro will be the Master of Ceremonies, and the orchestra will be directed by Al Coffman.

The entire first act, "Suppressed Desires," is composed of original student numbers. Those students included are: Betty Steele, Elaine Garnier, Jean Ausman, Mary Ann Andrews, Raulyne Riley, Emily Joost, the Quartet, Jeanne Collins, and Edie Van Meter. Jeanne Collins will give "The Waltz," by Dorothy Parker, one of her best monologues.

The second act is highlighted by the big surprise number, "Daisy June," by Emma Lou Eppel and Wilma Eaton. It will feature George Bradvica, Betty Nay, the Quartet, and a chorus of dancers.

The third act has the theme of contemporary problems and is entitled, "These Trying Times." It includes scenes in the United States and in other important places.

U.C. Will Establish Branch on July 1

No. 26

Santa Barbara State College will become Santa Barbara College of the University of California July 1, was the announcement made Monday by Robert Gordon Sproul, president of the University of California.

This action is carrying out the terms of the act passed by the 1943 legislature and signed by Governor Earl Warren on June 8, 1943, whereby Santa Barbara State College was abolished and the regents of the University of California were authorized to establish, within a period of two years, a branch of the university in its stead.

It is noted, however, that the college will be a distinctive institution and not merely a university branch offering a fraction of the same instruction given in greater variety at the university itself. Santa Barbara College is to be administered by a provost, of which there are only three in the university system, one at Berkeley, one at Los Angeles, and one at Santa Barbara, all ranking equally and each dealing directly with President Sproul.

Santa Barbara college will not be patterned after any other unit of the university, but will express its own individuality and have its own admission requirements, which will go into effect on July 1, 1945. In the meantime the present entrance requirements will be maintained.

The college will continue as a four year, undergraduate institution, offering for the present, work leading to the bachelor of arts degree and general teaching credentials, and to the degree of bachelor of applied sciences for students specializing in industrial arts, home economics, art, music and physical education. Students who before Jan. 1, 1942, entered on the program fit the degree of bachelor of education in the Santa Barbara State College will be permitted to continue this program and obtain this degree, provided that they complete their work by Feb. 1, 1947.

In July formal ceremonies will mark the opening of the Santa Barbara College. Academic ceremonies will be held in the college buildings on the Riviera with President Sproul and a group of outstanding members of the university faculty and of the Board of Regents participating.

Final schedules will be posted next week on the bulletin boards situated in the Administration Building, Ebbets Hall, and the Quad.

EDITORIAL

It'll soon be time for those old finals to be rolling around again and it is now time to bring up the subject of the honor code. The honor code here at State is just about a year old. The faculty and student administration would like it to become a tradition here, but that depends mainly on the students themselves. The faculty can't talk it all up, so the students must.

selves. The faculty can't talk it all up, so the students must. Many people say, "What's the use of signing the honor code when people will go ahead and cheat anyway." This is not true. It is true that some people will go ahead and cheat, but this is the exception rather than the rule. It is hard to find a student who would do this. This same honor code is well established at many other colleges—there students can even leave their books lying around on the campus and know that they will be there when they return. We would definitely like to have that same thing here. We're on our way, but it's going to take a lot more cooperation.

In the event that some of the freshmen don't know the honor code, here it is: "I have neither given nor received aid in this examination." In time the teachers will be able to leave the classroom entirely and leave the class to take their exam honestly without any supervision.—J.A.

This is the last issue of El Gaucho for this semester. We, the editors and the staff, would like to thank the whole student body for the wonderful way in which they have received the paper this semester. We would also like to thank the staff of the Gaucho for the wonderful job they have done. It has been very difficult to get people to work on the paper. Those who volunteered have been receiving four and five assignments each issue and not only have they not complained about the heavy load, but they have always turned in all assignments—and made them good ones too. "Woman's Place in War Women's Army Corps"

Women of today and women of tomorrow! Your problems are those of a war and of peace. In the words of Oveta Culb Hobby, Colonel, WAC:

"In the heart of every woman who has a personal interest in the success of our Armed Forces, there must be a burning desire to do something to help, something active, something important, something that will help bring the war to a quick and successful end, something that will bring her loved ones . . . our men . . . home sooner."

men . . . home sooner." "There are many ways in which women can help, depending upon their age, family responsibilities, inclinations and aptitudes. Some may help by carrying on their domestic duties in their own environment, others by taking employment in war industry, and still others by serving in the Armed Forces. To those women who are eligible for enlistment in the Army of the United States, I would say, "Woman's place in war . the Women's Army Corps." If you wear the insignia of the

If you wear the insignia of the Army Air Forces on your arm, you will be serving with airmen who are writing history across the skies of the world. You may be a radio operator, communicating in code with air fields, Army bases, and aircraft in flight. You may be a weather observer, working with such delicate instruments as the theodolite or preparing weather maps to guide our air fighters. You may develop and print photographs taken by aerial photographers, operate a copy camera. You may be a Link trainer instructor or work in the control tower of an Army air field, guilding our flying men to safe landings.

These are some of the important tasks done by Air Wacs. Could you qualify? If you are between the ages of 20 and 49, and have no dependents, you are cordially invited to come to the Air Wac headquarters at 1109 State Street, Santa Barbara o,r phone 6651 for literature concerning every possible question that may arise about the Women's Army Corps. Lt. Frank Levien, AC, and Lt. Evelyn Lawrence, WAC, are particularly qualified in helping you choose the kind of job you would like to'do as an Air Wac.

THE CAMPUS CORNER

Come June . . . and we'll lose many Seniors. Among those will be Odie Myers, DZD, who for the last two years has been your "Campus Representative." You'll remember her by the grand fashion shows she helped Jack Rose put on. And when you gals were hard pressed for something new to wear on that "super-date," you asked Odie . . . for she was the one that kept you posted of all the newest styles and gadgets for the coed.

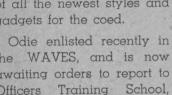

the WAVES, and is now awaiting orders to report to Officers Training School, pending her graduation. I know each of you want to wish her the best of luck and success along with Mr. Rose and myself.

For the last semester I have been helping Odie as Representative, "Campus jr.," and she has really been grand to work with. I will certainly miss her, and I know each of you will too.

To those returning next September; don't forget to stop in at the Campus Corner and get all of those "must haves" for school. I'll be there to help you select those outfits that will be the choice of every coed. Watch for this column every week, and for me each Friday at school when I will wear an outfit from "THE CAMPUS COR-NER" that's destined for success in your wardrobe and budget.
