

SANTA YNEZ FARMING LANDS will become a 191-unit housing project if the Citizens' Committee for the General Plan fails to get 8,575 signatures on a no-growth petition by January 24.

Developers plan new Santa Ynez project

Citizens' Committee for General Plan mounts petition drive against growth

By Mike Gordon

If you follow the ever-widening swath of Highway 101 through the clustered housing tracts which litter the north end of the Goleta Valley, you can watch suburbia turn gently to rolling hills covered with Santa Barbara chaparral, sloping down to wide, wind-scoured beaches.

This is El Capitan Ranch. It lies quiet now, except when the Southern Pacific hurtles north or south.

But in 1970, when former Los Angeles real estate developer Jules Berman announced plans for a massive suburban development on part of El Capitan's 3,500 acres, a legal tempest ensued which marked the birth of environmental activism by ballot box on the South Coast.

The 1970 Board of Supervisors, then unmarred by no-growth sentiment, had voted to overturn the low-density General Plan for El Capitan. Developer Berman got the rezoning ordinance he needed to begin building. But irate locals formed the Citizens' Committee for the General Plan (CCGP) to petition for a voters' referendum on the controversial rezoning ordinance. Ten thousand signatures put a stop-growth measure on the November, 1970 general ballot. It passed easily . . .

AND NOW, SANTA YNEZ

Continue north on 101 through the twisting coastal hills until you reach Buellton and the turnoff for Solvang and Santa Ynez. To the east the road passes through white-fenced rural farming valleys before rising past Lake Cachuma to spill over San Marcos Pass down into Santa Barbara.

The land here is greener than at El Capitan — in more ways than one. With a Goleta water moratorium and overcrowded sewage facilities blocking most development along the local coast, developers may be girding for a profitable push into the Santa Ynez Valley. There water is plentiful and only the General Plan stands in their way.

Green, empty acres one mile east of Solvang were recently opened up by Insignis, Inc. for a 191-unit residential development and golf course. Though the site is zoned for agricultural use by the General Plan, on December 26 the Board of Supervisors passed a county ordinance granting the Insignis developers a valuable 'design residential' zoning. This would allow Insignis an ultimate density up to 60 units an acre, including row houses, apartments and condominiums.

But residents of the Santa Ynez Valley, coupled with local supporters of the

Goleta Valley now faces water rationing

By Dan Hentschke

Water rationing has been instituted here by the Goleta County Water District, effective Jan. 1. Although the plan promises to impose little inconveniences for the average citizen, further stringent rationing measures may be enacted on Feb. 10.

The Water Board also finalized details of the moratorium on new hookups, a ban imposed on Dec. 7. Because businessmen protested that a moratorium on hookups cannot be imposed without declaring the need for rationing, the board added mild new restrictions on water usage in the Goleta Valley.

The interim rationing, which expires on Feb. 10,

- bans residential, commercial and other lawn and landscape watering between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.;

- prohibits washing of driveways and paved surfaces (note the campus tennis courts are now swept);

- bans the washing of motor vehicles, boats and trailers more than once every 30 days, commercial car washes being exempt.

Three out of five Water Board directors present at the finalizing meeting also prohibited the over-watering of landscaped areas, which would allow water to run over the property lines. Penalties for violations range from 30 days in jail to a $300 fine for each day of violation, plus a possible termination of water service.

Instead of taking immediate punitive action, however, the board will send a person out to remind the violator of the rationing ordinance. If further violations are reported, they will still try to mediate with the offender. "We don't want to act as a policing agency," a Water Board representative emphasized.

FEATHER RIVER

Many observers are speculating that the current rationing program, together with the threat of more stringent measures, are

UCLA faculty group hits 1970 Angela Davis firing

By Mike Gordon

UCLA's Academic Senate voted last month to support the American Association of University Professors' (AAUP) censure of the UC Regents for firing former UCLA faculty member Angela Davis.

At their Dec. 5 meeting, members of the UCLA faculty approved by voice vote a resolution endorsing "the principles of academic freedom" expressed in the AAUP censure of the Regents. The UCLA resolution, however, did not mention Davis by name.

The Senate called upon the Regents to "take expeditious action" to remove the AAUP censure, but stopped short of demanding outright that Davis be rehired.

(The UC Regents first tried to fire Davis in the fall of 1969 under a University policy against hiring members of the Communist Party.)

"However, a Superior Court judge ruled the UC anti-Communist policy unconstitutional.

"In June, 1970, the Regents took Davis' rehiring out of the hands of UCLA campus officials and decided not to honor the second year of her then two-year contract as an assistant professor of philosophy on grounds that she had violated an AAUP policy calling for faculty members to "exercise appropriate restraint" in public speeches.

(However, in May, 1972 the AAUP censured the University for its decision. Despite a subsequent request by the UCLA Philosophy Department that she be rehired, the Regents reaffirmed their decision not to rehire her at the first Regents meeting last quarter.)

to accept jobs at the University of California, the UCLA Academic Senate supported "the rights of faculty members in the exercise of constitutionally protected free speech both inside and outside the classroom."

The endorsement resolution was submitted by Professor Gary Nash, chairman of the UCLA Senate's Angela Davis Committee, who later commented, "We are primarily interested in aligning ourselves with the constitutional protections for free speech for faculty members, as the AAUP and the U.S. Supreme Court have expressed. That isn't a very radical thing."

Slater attacks redistricting bid

A controversial redistricting proposal may dominate action at today's meeting of the Board of Supervisors. Jim Slater and Frank Frost will replace Dan Grant and George Clyde at noon.

However, the old board may approve a redistricting plan before midday which would juggle district boundaries around Hope Ranch and much of the Santa Ynez Valley, and would disqualify some Goleta residents from voting in a third straight election.

Supervisor-elect Slater has called the move a "last-hour attempt to divide the spoils" and the Santa Barbara News-Press has opposed the plan.

The meeting will take place in the County Administration Building at Anacapa and Anapamu downtown at 9 a.m.

Human sexuality at 8 in the morning

Special Class offering for winter quarter 1973
 Psychology 160- Psychology of Human Sexuality
 Instructor: Dr. Dave Bearman, Isla Vista Open Door Medical Clinic
 Time: TT 8:00-9:15 a.m. in Chem 1179 plus discussion

Course Description:
 This will be a survey course providing an introduction to psychological, medical, legal and social considerations of human sexuality. There will be an overview of several pertinent topic areas including anatomy and physiology, the work of Masters and Johnson, contraception, deviant sexual behavior, interpersonal relations and change in society.

An attempt will be made to present information in an unbiased, nondogmatic fashion. It is the intent of this course to help provide people with the tools to be able to make their own decisions in this bias infested, taboo-laden area. In an area of constant change, dogma is not the answer. People must be equipped with the tools for their own problem solving.

In line with the above philosophy is the conviction that students cannot approach this subject with only a strict academic perspective. Realizing this difficulty, students will be encouraged to develop their own interests in the area of human sexuality. Considerable time for discussion is planned so that areas of personal interest might be explored as they arise.

Students will have a required discussion section. There will be a short midterm the fourth week of class. A term paper will be due the eighth week of class. The final exam will be a take home.

IMPORTANT: There are no Psychology Department prerequisites for this course. Sophomores, juniors, seniors and graduate students are welcome from any major (course may be used to fulfill upper-division unit requirements).

L & S makes changes

Recent changes in the College of Letters and Science which may be of interest to some students are as follows:

The General Education Requirement in Fine Arts (Area 3c) has been expanded to include the following film courses: Dramatic Art 46, 146, 148; French 184X, 187X, 187Y, 188X, 189X; Italian 188X, 188Y, 189X. These courses are in addition to those listed on page 80 of the General Catalog.

Biology 21, Vertebrate Adaptions, a new course, is acceptable in General Education requirement 5A (Biological Science); however, the course does not satisfy the laboratory science requirement.

The Letters and Science List of Courses has been expanded to include the following courses: Engineering 1, 152AB, 154, 158AB, 158C; Mechanical Engineering 170ABC, 175, 180. These courses are in addition to those listed on page 83 of the General Catalog.

French majors!

Attention French majors: Professor Anne Cusing is offering French 184 (Contemporary French Poetry) this winter quarter at noon Monday, Wednesday, Friday. The course will offer a critical study of significant poems since 1857 (from Baudelaire to Prevert) against the background of Parnassian, Symbolist, Cubist and Surrealist ideas.

Animals and Art

A new interdisciplinary course in "The Animal in Primitive and Ancient Art" will be offered this quarter at 7:30-9 p.m. on Monday by Demorest Davenport, professor of Zoology.

The course, Davenport declares, "will be a mélange of natural history, anthropology, mythology and art, in which the approach will be that of the naturalist, i.e. 'by the animal' (e.g. octopus, insect and bird), rather than 'by the culture.'"

Over 700 color slides will illustrate the course, which will investigate the relationship between a particular animal and man (e.g., homo sapiens). This is intended to strengthen one's appreciation of the role of animals in the modern world and of the fact that they are a vital part of the continuum of life.

Meeting place: Ellison 1930. Two units, based on weekly lectures, a half-hour discussion and a final report. First meeting: tonight.

Jesus freaks mutilate I.V. mural

By Dave Carlson

An Isla Vista mural by Nexus editor Mike Gordon was eradicated by a group of Jesus people last Saturday afternoon.

The mural, painted last spring, depicted Jack Casady and Jorma Kaukonen of Hot Tuna plus a mysterious central figure, in bold blues, yellows, blacks and purples.

Recently, the end suite of the building on which the former mural was painted — behind the abandoned gas station on Embarcadero del Mar — was leased by a group calling themselves the "Jubilee Temple." The band of Christians hold revival meetings and are affiliated with the "Shiloh Temple" of Oakland and the "Bethany Mission" in Long Beach.

Gordon's mural, the result of three months work for an Art 199 project under UCSB assistant professor Gary Brown, was destroyed because "it expressed a message we didn't approve of," according to Julie Eymann, one of the ringleaders of "Jubilee Temple."

"It was a demonic-looking thing," she told the Nexus, "and most of the people in Isla Vista were sick of it. We are going to replace it with a message of Jesus Christ and victory and overcoming. It's about time that the people of Isla Vista saw a message about the joy of Christ."

Eymann denied that trashing the mural was censorship of artistic endeavor.

"Jubilee Temple is God's house," she alleged. "If it's our building, it's our property and we can do what we want with it."

The vandalism was performed with the permission of the landlord, Alvin Schnoor, a Santa Barbara resident. Schnoor said that he gave them permission because the "Jubilee Temple" promised to replace it with another mural.

WHITE PAINT

Gordon discovered the eradication under way Saturday afternoon as the Jesus people were applying the last strokes of white paint to the wall.

"I don't really know whether I should be upset," he later said after calming down. "This is the sort of thing you can expect from halfwit religious fanatics. Yelling at them is like talking to a turnip."

'PSYCHIC FASCISM'

"Trashing a mural is another manifestation of the narrow-minded psychic fascism that accompanies the Jesus people's so-called religion," he complained. "I don't deface their churches; I don't understand what gives them the right to trash something of at least some value to the community."

"Cultural vegetables, that's what they are," concluded the irate painter.

The former mural was originally painted with materials jointly supplied by the I.V. Planning Office and the Market pays ecologists to recycle cardboard

By Abby Haight

Ecology Action's recycling program has recently been expanded to make the operation more financially independent. The group has placed bins at a number of Isla Vista business establishments to collect the cardboard boxes discarded by the stores. Village Market has found that the ecology group's service of picking up the cardboard twice a week has diminished their trash collection needs and they have begun to pay Ecology Action for the pickups.

Mark Dunbar, Ecology Action's recycling coordinator, feels that the cardboard collection is a step toward total recycling. "Our long-range goal is to get the area recycling as much of its trash as possible," he said. In line with this goal is a recent move by the group to organize recycling of newspaper and cardboard in the UCSB dormitories.

Isla Vistans can still leave their glass, aluminum cans, newspaper and cardboard at the Recycling Center in the Community Service Center Parking lot at 970 Embarcadero del Mar. To prepare the materials for sale to the various companies which accept used containers and newspaper, Dunbar organizes volunteers who bale the paper, separate and break the glass and crush the cans. Ecology Action volunteers also pick up the cardboard from the stores and transport materials from the Recycling Center to the ROTC Commissary on campus where it is stored prior to being sold.

"The center has to be kept up every day," said Dunbar. "We can always use more volunteers and of course, we welcome recyclable materials." Regular working hours for the program are Monday and Wednesday from 5-8 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

"Ideally, we would like to have a system in Isla Vista where each apartment building would be organized for recycling," explained Dunbar. "It is important to recycle so that these materials are not used as landfill, and the mining of materials is decreased."

He emphasized the importance of using returnable containers whenever possible, as these require much less energy to re-use than the recycled glass and aluminum.

"We especially need people who will work consistently in the program," Dunbar said, but added that "there is work for everybody." Potential volunteers should call Dunbar at 961-4105 or come into the I.V. Planning Office at 966 Embarcadero del

Mar. A meeting to organize this quarter's recycling activities will be held Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Planning Office.

LOSE 20 POUNDS IN TWO WEEKS!

Famous U.S. Women Ski Team Diet

During the non-snow off season the U.S. Women's Alpine Ski Team members go on the "Ski Team" diet to lose 20 pounds in 14 days! That's right - 20 pounds in 14 days! The basis of the diet is chemical food action and was devised by a famous Colorado physician especially for the U.S. Ski Team. Normal energy is maintained (very important!) while reducing. You keep "full" - no starvation - because the diet is designed that way! It's a diet that is easy to follow whether you work, travel or stay at home.

This is, honestly, a fantastically successful diet. If it weren't, the U.S. Women's Ski Team wouldn't be permitted to use it! Right? So, give yourself the same break the U.S. Ski Team gets. Lose weight the scientific, proven way. Even if you've tried all the other diets, you owe it to yourself to try the U.S. Women's Ski Team Diet. That is, if you really do want to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. Order today. Tear this out as a reminder.

Send only $2.00 ($2.25 for Rush Service) - cash is O.K. - to Information Sources Co., P.O. Box 982, Dept. ST, Carpinteria, Calif. 93013. Don't order unless you expect to lose 20 pounds in two weeks! Because that's what the Ski Team Diet will do!

SPORTS

NO. 1!

An estimated 2,800 Fresno sports fanatics saw the basketball half-time score Saturday night: Fresno, 29; UCSB, 35! No one left the stadium in the tense 12 minutes before resumption in play, and the end of the game was worth the wait.

The Gauchos upset Fresno State 79-69 and bought more time for themselves as one of the two front-runners for the Pacific Coast Athletic Association champions. (San Jose State's 52-50 victory over San Diego State keeps them in the running.)

"All of a sudden," marvels Gaucho coach Ralph Barkey, "we appear to have a conference race." We host Pacific and San Jose this weekend . . . exciting, isn't it?

'Cactus' retires

By Steve Belton

Sports Editor Pro Tem

After 44 long and illustrious years in sports, "Cactus" Jack Curtice, a Santa Barbara tradition since 1963, has officially verified the bittersweet rumors of the end of yet another era.

In June, Cactus Jack is hanging up his spikes.

There seems to be a different spirit about the campus today, as the word spreads in muted voices from the sombre bells thudding out the passing hours, to the strangely diminished tumult of the gym locker room: our Athletic Director, Cactus Jack, who has made a career of fighting almost impossible odds, has to surrender to the worst enemy any athlete ever has to face — age.

While Chancellor Cheadle's hastily-assembled ad hoc committee scours the countryside for a successor who could take up the burden that Cactus Jack can, at long last, no longer shoulder, one thing seems to have been determined by an unconscious colloquy of the Student Body . . . If we win the basketball championship, we're going to win it for Cactus Jack.

It's a race!

In a surprising upset, San Jose State beat defending PCAA champion Cal State Long Beach, 68-61 Friday night in San Jose, which suddenly tightens up the conference race.

For the 49ers, it was their first loss of the season after 11 wins, which jeopardized their fifth place ranking in the nation.

Rationing...

being used by certain factions on the Water Board to encourage the public to support importation of Feather River water in a district advisory election. The plebiscite, to be held prior to May 15, will ask Goleta residents to decide if they are willing to pay for the state water project water, or if they prefer that the Water Board seek other sources of supplemental water for the overloaded Goleta supply.

If the electorate refuses to pay for imported water, rationing could continue indefinitely requiring a 30% cutback in use so that the district can replenish Lake Cachuma, its presently overdrafted source of water.

Water Board President Max Feldman feels that if a decision to import water is made by the electorate, rationing and the ban on new hookups could be ended and an overdraft of the ground water basin could be allowed to occur.

RATE HIKE

At their first regular meeting after imposing the rationing program, the Goleta Water District Board discussed a possible increase in the cost of water for residents of the district.

The directors debated the question of an immediate hike in water prices to generate funds for drilling wells and building a filtration plant. Some directors felt that a rate increase would be more properly imposed in conjunction with the more stringent rationing program to be implemented in February.

All five directors agreed that a rate increase is long overdue, but several members argued that an immediate hike in the cost of water would be a more effective method of cutting water use than the imposition of restrictive rationing.

The increase could be substantial, noted a district official who admitted that "the first bill may be a shock." He felt, however, that the subsequent drop in water use would be of significance.

Petition...

CCGP, are now working to force the rezoning ordinance to a test at the polls, via an El Capitan-like petition drive.

Organizing efforts are underway in Isla Vista, Goleta, Santa Barbara and Santa Ynez to get the required 8,575 signatures on a referendum petition. By law, the signatures must be gathered by January 24, 30 days after the Board of Supervisors' rezoning vote.

"This Santa Ynez situation has developed quite rapidly," explains CCGP organizer Selma Rubin. "It's taken about a week to get the petition going. We're doing very well, but we need much more."

Co-chairmen of the CCGP petition drive are Bill Webb of Santa Ynez and Ken Palmer, former Democratic Assembly candidate, of Santa Barbara. Says Webb:

"The impact of the development project and zoning change will be felt far beyond the Santa Ynez Valley. Not only is the Insignis project a 'leapfrog' development which will stimulate further unplanned urbanization of agricultural land in the county, but it is a violation of the General Plan and the County Interim Open Space Plan."

The group's Santa Barbara headquarters will be in the Citizens' Planning Association office, Studio G, El Presidio Ave. Their telephone is 966-3979.

It Helps To Have A Starting Point!

If you have never rented an apartment before:

1. Come to the Housing Office for a copy of "Consider the Contract" which answers questions that most people haven't had the experience to ask, such as, things to look for in a contract, where to arrange for utilities, etc.

2. Listings from the Goleta-Santa Barbara area are in counter files in the Housing Office, as well as files that students may use to find roommates and living places to share.
