DAN THIBODEAU/Daily Nexus

By J.G. Forrester

So it's springtime, love is rumored to be in the air and you're re-entering the dating scene after a winter-long hibernation. So you find a special someone, ask them to dine with you sometime and they actually say "yes." But once you've made a date, where are you going to go for the crucial meal?

You don't want to spend much money, but you also want your date to think that you're sparing no expense. You'd like to eat at a groovy downtown State Street restaurant, but the noise of the street can make eating under the stars an annoying experience.

The place that you really want is the Pierce Street Annex. It's downtown in the fashionable State Street district, but it's tucked into San Marcos Plaza and out of the way from the hustle and bustle. The entrance to the plaza is literally a hole in the wall off the sidewalk, so if you take your date there you will appear hip enough to know where all the best restaurants are in the area. It's a cool style thing.

Once you're at the Pierce Street Annex, you have a nice choice of atmospheres. You can dine outside in the moonlight or inside near the music and entertainment. You can also, if you so choose, just belly-up to the full bar inside. It's kind of an all-purpose restaurant and bar which also features bands and dancing on the weekends.

So you're staring at the menu, scanning all the delicious meals available, and you think, "Damn, I'm going to have to pay beaucoup bucks to supply both myself and my date with nourishment." Not to worry — although the dishes are indeed sumptuous and the helpings quite generous, the Pierce Street Annex is surprisingly affordable. You can get your bread, soup or salad, main course, a glass of wine and the same for your date without going over $20.

A lunch date at the Pierce Street Annex is another great idea. Sitting outdoors in the warm Santa Barbara sunshine, sipping margaritas and taking a leisurely post-lunch stroll downtown — it's what living and eating in Santa Barbara is all about. It's great food, a stylish location and all for a fraction of what you would normally pay to make it look like you're going all out for a stylish date.

And isn't that the best of all worlds?

The Pierce Street Annex is located at 1129 State St. in Santa Barbara. Phone: 963-7500.

Holy Hamburgers Batman! Red Robin has the Best Food this side of Gotham!

trimmed restaurant in La Cumbre Plaza, we could feel its happy power.

There aren't too many places in the world that promise happiness. Tootsie wanted to go to Disneyland. Oh sure, we could ride the teacups. But what about pure dining pleasure?

Tootsie said she couldn't be swayed. Food alone was not enough to make her happy.

If you're like Tootsie and a little skeptical about receiving such wondrous pleasure from a single meal, then you need to make a trip to Red Robin Burger and Spirits Emporium.

Yesterday, Tootsie and I realized that at Red Robin eating out is more than just food and drinks — it's a happiness adventure. Filled with music, cheerful hosts and servers, and a slogan claiming "We create happy guests," you just can't walk away from Red Robin an unsatisfied customer. Believe me, Tootsie tried.

But from the minute we walked into the red-

You say you hate to wait for a table. Hey, Tootsie does too. But that isn't a problem. The seating is plentiful and the hosts and hostesses are eager to seat you.

"It's such a nice day, we shouldn't be sitting inside," Tootsie whined. So, the host found us a lovely table for two outside. But that wasn't enough to appease Tootsie.

I was happy to order a 19 1/2-ounce margarita, one of the many Colossal Classics featured at Red Robin, and a steal at only $3.75. Tootsie wanted a drink for under $1.

"Did you see today's special posted right up front?" our server asked. "Today we have 11-ounce Miller Lites for only 99 cents."

Tootsie, the beer lover, was beginning to crack.

The drink specials added a special touch to this hip, updated version of the Denny's type of restaurant. But the food choices really won Tootsie over. Red Robin serves scrumptious hamburgers, chicken burgers, salads, pasta and much, much more. Sizzling Banzai Fajitas can be delivered right to your table. Or order without the added Banzai if you're a light eater.

Tootsie, a beer lover and cowgirl at heart, went for the western theme and ordered the Lone Star Chicken Burger and ranch fries. Guacamole, jalapeños and jack cheese dripped over the edges of her monstrous burger. It was all over.

Tootsie was happy. In fact, she was utterly speechless.

We bypassed the delicious assortment of desserts this time, vowing to return next week.

We went into Red Robin regular college students, but came out happy guests.

Red Robin is located at 3825 State St. in Santa Barbara. Hours: Monday-Friday 11 a.m.-10 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m.-10 p.m. Price Range: $2.95-$8.99.

Spectacular Italian

JAMES KU/Daily Nexus

By Bertha Babylon

Looking for some good Italian food in large proportions? Marianne's, a local restaurant that has been around for longer than Barbara Uehling has at UCSB, has everything a hungry person would want plus more.

My dinner companion, Christie, had never been to Marianne's before and was excited about the Caesar salad which people claim is the best in Santa Barbara (with good reason). "Caesars are the best way to eat greens," she informed me over fresh dinner rolls that were served with our meal. Marianne's Caesar salad is a meal in itself. They make it right in front of you in a large bowl as others in the restaurant stare with jealousy. The croutons are made from their very own fresh bread baked daily.

Dinner included a soup of my choice. I selected the minestrone. It arrived at our table with the salad and I tried to figure out a way to put it all in my stomach without getting overstuffed in the process. The soup was delicious and had a hodgepodge of vegetables that outdid the broth. Christie solved my dilemma of overfilling myself by taking her spoon and diving into my bowl.

Christie ordered the vegetable calzone while I favored the lasagna. "My mom makes a pretty good lasagna," I told the waitress while we ordered. She merely smiled with a look that said, "Wait 'til you try Marianne's."

And I wasn't disappointed. The lasagna was covered in cheese, dripping in sauce, and so large that I knew I would have leftovers. Christie eyed my dish with envy until she saw the waitress carrying over her calzone.

"Is this the small?" she asked with astonishment. The calzone was gargantuan! It was steaming hot and looked delicious. Vegetables would come pouring out of the flaky crust that surrounded the internal mesh of vegetables, cheese and more cheese. The dish was served with a side of sauce so that picky eaters like Christie could dip her dish with just the right amount.

Marianne's is located at 361 Hitchcock Way in Santa Barbara. Phone: 682-6408.
