Leg Council creates safety system, calls for semesters

By HENRY GARDINER DN Reporter

Water safety was the topic of a proposal passed by Leg Council Wednesday night. The proposal supports the efforts of student Jan Porter to set up an emergency rescue system for victims of boating accidents in the Santa Barbara area.

Miss Porter who was with Ed Haas when he drowned as the result of a sailboat mishap last fall hopes to set up a system involving the Coast Guard, the Sheriff's Office and three student organizations.

The whole system, if enacted, would be coordinated by the UCSB Campus Police.

Leg Council commended the UCSB Campus Police "for their willingness to involve themselves significantly in the proposed rescue team."

ELECTIONS SOON

Elections are coming up on Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 2 and 3, to fill four Leg Council vacancies and to put on referendum the NSA peace treaty, the proposal to constitutionally require 15 per cent of A.S. fees to go to concert and lecture events and the University's ties to the Atomic

During the one hour trip, pails will be used to scoop up oil from the ocean near the platform. Then each person will be given a small container to put some oil in and send to the White House with a note reminding President Nixon that oil is still leaking in Santa Barbara.

Energy Commission sites at Livermore and Las Alamos.

The vacancies which are due to resignations resulting from diverse causes include two representatives at large, one nonaffiliated representative and one fraternity representative.

Leg Council has extended the sign-up deadline for candidates until noon today. Candidates may sign up in the A.S. Office on the third floor of

SEMESTER SYSTEM

Leg Council has also passed Paul Gassaway's proposal to request that the University President and Board of Regents return the University to a semester system. The Proposal passed with several Council members abstaining from the

The proposal states that the present quarter system severely restricts the University from providing the opportunity to students for scholarly inquiry into numerous fields, "...making the University nothing more than a large machine turning out graduates...."

Gassaway reasons that the quarter system does not provide enough time for students to fully delve into their studies. Also important to his view is his feeling that the present quarter system is inefficient.

DROP GRADES

In other matters, Ken Kosloff, the A.S. representative to the Academic Senate Committee on Educational Policy, reported that ASCEP has passed a proposal to institute a plan which would allow students to drop grades from their record either during or after completion of a course.

Under this plan, the student would be able to drop any course he chooses as long as he makes "normal progress." Normal progress would be 78 units in two years. This limit is somewhat lower than Irvine's requirement of 84 units in two years which ASCEP thought to be a little too Kosloff cites as the main advantage of the proposal the ability of students to remove occasional poor grades which would be detrimental to future opportunities of employment.

The proposal goes to the UCSB Academic Senate in February, and if passed by that body, it will go to the statewide Academic Senate.

S.B. Ecology Center Festival provides sun, fun, information

By GILL HENDRICH DN Staff Writer

The Santa Barbara Ecology Center at 15 West Anapamu St. held a day long festival of ecology and other displays yesterday. Anapamu St. was blocked off between State and Chapala Streets and the numerous and varied displays were set up in the

The Ecology Center provided a display about biological pest control, composting and the California Water Project. Zero Population Growth hosted a slide show on "Spaceship Earth."

The Sierra Club presented a display on water reclamation, the Channel Islands, gypsum strip mining in Lompoc and back packing.

Women's Strike for Peace showed pictures of defoliation in Vietnam. UCSB was represented by Ecology Action with pictures of the Saturday morning recycling program for Isla Vista.

A geodesic dome put up by the IVCC Dome Committee became the center of attraction after it was completed about noon.

The Santa Barbara County Planning Department exhibited the County General Plan and the American Institute of Architects showed a display about cluster housing.

Also the Audubon Society presented a show about flooding in the Goleta Slough. Several groups solicited signatures for petitions.

Bikecology promoted plans for a day in May when everybody should ride their bikes around Santa Barbara.

A group from Santa Cruz call "Fishes Forever," dressed in white uniforms, showed two aquariums. One contained clean river water of a good fish environment, the other polluted water. There were also private displays on such topics as detergents and nutrition.

Hundreds of people wandered among the exhibits in the sunshine. They ranged in age from babies to kids, students and older people.

All were intensely interested and seemed to have questions at every booth. The street was packed by afternoon.

Some school teachers brought their classes to learn about ecology. Many, many dogs came. Cameras were everywhere.

The Hare Krishnas' unique musical chanting added to the atmosphere of novel curiosity. Sun and Earth had a snackbar for those who might be hungry for a taste of natural food.

The festival continued on into the evening at an open house in the Ecology Center, where a bluegrass band entertained visitors.

REALTORS' REACTION

Dismiss boycott effect

Two major Isla Vista property management companies dismissed the effectiveness of a proposed boycott of 1971-1972 contracts by the Contract Negotiating Committee to begin Feb. 1.

Martin L. and Sherle L. Feeman of Income Property Management Co. declared the committee as "not representing the best interests of the majority of the community." They added that the committee represents only a small percentage of students and is more than welcome to try organizing that section of the community.

Don Lawrence, president of Beaumont-Gribin-Von Dyl Realty, pointed out that the boycott was aimed in the wrong direction as the management companies were spokesmen and ultimately responsible to the owners of the property. Conceding that the companies do have influence, he stresses, though, that "the owners tell us what to do."

The boycott was announced last Tuesday by the Committee made up of representatives from A.S., IVCC, IVCAB and the Tenants' Union. The two major issues affecting the decision were the lack of reconciliation on allowing month-to-month contracts and making liability for rent in an apartment individual rather than collective.

The Feemans contend that 80 per cent of the students would not want month-to-month contracts. They insist that such contracts would require 10 per basis. He adds that the cost to the rest of the owners would not be worth the switch.

On the subject of individual liability, Lawrence argues that he has never been approached by a case where the remainder of the rent to an apartment has been assumed by the roommates of the cent higher rent, hurt the owner's ability to make improvements and generally lead to dirtier, less kept apartments. Lawrence added that about 30 per cent of the properties he manages are already on such a

Bulldozers on the beach. battle eroding shore front

The bulldozers working below the bluffs are there to preserve UCSB's shore front, not to mess it up.

According to Frederick Gillard of the Office of Architects and Engineers, the project is aimed at halting the slow but inexorable erosion of the cliffs behind campus beach.

A Yuba City contractor moved his equipment in on Tuesday morning. The entire project, Gillard said, should take about four Campus engineers began to notice the cliff erosion in 1963.

The Pasadena based consulting firm of Tetra-Tech Inc. was called in four years ago to complete a feasibility study on the proposed erosion

They found that a "rip-rap" wall, composed of rocks weighing up to four tons apiece, would prevent wave action from undermining the

The project has been approved by UCSB's Physical Planning Committee and calls for the erection of the rock wall around Goleta Point and at the foot of the bluff near the Marine Biology Building.

The erosion problem is two-fold, Gillard said, because bluff erosion on Goleta Point might eventually destroy the beachfront on the eastern edge of the campus.

Gillard said that prevailing westerly wave action, without the hard shale on the point to hold it back, would gradually displace sand from the UCSB shorefront and carry it far down the coast.

"We would like to leave the point alone," Gillard said, "But under the circumstances, we have to do something." (Editor's note: early next week, the NEXUS will report on the ecological impact of the campus beach project.)

Two young men, both UCSB students, were arrested early yesterday morning by Campus Police who later charged them with bicycle theft.

Police have not released their names, pending further investigation.

Officers responded to a call received from an Anacapa Hall resident who reported hearing suspicious noises from the nearby bicycle racks. According to Detective Carl Blair, the suspects were seen removing

When the officers approached, the two pedalled off in opposite directions. One suspect was apprehended after a short chase and the other turned himself in to police at 10:30 a.m.

According to Blair, a total of 5 bicycles were recovered as well as 2 bicycle frames and a number of disassembled parts. Blair said that 3 of the bikes had been stolen Thursday night and that 2 had been reported stolen in the last month.

Film Contest! Academic freedom threatened at FSC

By DEBBIE PETERSON DN Staff Writer

"We must be prepared to go on strike and shut the institution down if that is the last recourse open to us," reads an editorial in Fresno State "Daily Collegian," dated Dec. 7, 1970.

A familiar cry within the last on college campuses throughout the nation, this protest has taken on new meaning at Fresno State, where, within the last year, the firings of 13 faculty members and the unusual demotion of the top two men in the English Department have occurred, all with very little publicity.

Administrative-faculty problems came to a head on Dec. of last year when English Department Chairman Eugene Zumwalt and his assistant, Roger D. Chittick, were fired from their posts at Fresno State (FSC).

As Zumwalt and Chittick were being notified of their dismissal, campus security police escorted two maintenance men to the English Department.

The maintenance men then proceeded to remove the door knobs on Zumwalt's Chittick's doors, replacing them with metal plates belted to two-by-fours.

The administration at Fresno State, accused of "continuing the purge of campus liberals," claims that Zumwalt and Chittick were fired under "normal procedures."

However, others, including State Senator-elect George N. Zenovich, appear to be unconvinced that the bolting of doors constitutes legal procedure in demotion of faculty.

The Democratic legislator visited the campus, talking to all parties concerned, on Monday, Dec. 7, and is contemplating asking for a state level investigation of the procedures used by President Norman A. Baxter's administration.

In the meantime, one to two thousand Fresno State students massed in their Free Speech Area on Monday, Dec. 7, to listen to student leaders, non-retained faculty and others comment on the recent firings of faculty and the demotions in the English Department.

Their Student Senate, also on Monday, passed a resolution requesting the California State legislature to authorize and appoint a committee to perform

THE OBTUSE ANALYST-

Rationalization Commissi

With the President's State of the Union message safely completed and the new year well under way, series of task forces organized to investigate society's ills have finally had their work published in a condensed 25 volume set.

Herewith are the highlights of some of their National Forest Commission: Concluded that by the year 2073 plastic substitutes will have replaced trees thus supporting the "cut now pay later" plan. As for protecting wildlife that would be lost in the transition the Commission stated, "The people can always go to the zoo or a tree museum."

The President's Youth Commission: After interviewing three teenagers from rural North Dakota the commission concluded that the majority American youth supported President Nixon by a 2

Santa Barbara Oil Slick Commission: After hearing testimony from a panel of experts consisting of executives from major oil companies, the commission blamed nature for placing the oil underneath the channel in recommending the leases be continued.

Middle American Study Commission: At the conclusion of 15 minutes of hearings an adjournment took place in order to make sure no member missed the "Beverly Hillbillies" or "Bonanza." A statement was later issued condemning apathy and saying "Someone ought to do something about it."

National Abortion Commission: Before the final draft of the report could be issued, the Commission's funds were cut off.

National Pornography Commission: After a record two month session in which 147 nudie shows, 346 lewd magazines, 176 dirty books and one live performance were investigated, the commission adjourned and set a new date for hearings due to "lack of evidence."

National Paranoia Commission: Couldn't find anything wrong but stated something fishy was going on under the "Communist influence."

Academic Reform Commission: Concluded another study was necessary to back up a previous study based on earlier findings that stated "more research is needed."

National Marijauna Commission: It was reported by the President's 27th task force that East Angolian Ant Eaters suffered allergic reactions after swallowing 20 tons of the substance. From this data the commission warned humans and college students that "if it happened to an Ant Eater it could happen to you."

Consumer Protection Commission: A panel composed of heads of corporate enterprise advised the consumers to "read the small print."

As of yet no action is planned to implement any of the proposals except by publishing houses which expect to print copies of the reports and sell them to colleges and universities for research purposes.

Destruction of Campus Point

To All the People of the University:

While we all slept, the permanent scarring and partial destruction of Campus Point was systematically planned, studied and funded. While we watch, it is now being carried out. The beautiful weather-eroded cliffs have been sheared off by the bulldozer. Now there will rise in their place a wall of breakwater-rock, 14 feet above sea level, extending 17 feet out from the base of the cliff. It will extend, when completed, around the point all the way from Isla Vista to the Campus side of the reason The destruction? According to Fred Gillard of the office of Architects and Engineers, the work is necessary to "preserve" the point. According to Gillard, the hard shale rock which has for so many centuries protected the point is almost eroded through by wave-action. When it goes, the point will erode much faster and sand will flow freely from Isla Vista beach and will be lost. This, in turn will speed up the erosion of the Isla Vista cliffs. Gillard pointed out that the point could erode from a foot to three or four feet in a bad storm.

His assertions are somewhat contrary to a paper published in 1968 by Robert M. Norris of the Department. Norris Geology studied the cliff erosion in the area and found it to be quite low at the point...around three inches per year and much of that he attributed to non-marine causes. According to Norris, the point is in no danger of the kind described by Gillard. The shale rock is well-coated with tar which is very resistant to erosion.

A feasability study construction at the point was Tetratech carried out by corporation. They admitted in their report that they were uncertain as to the amount of cliff erosion actually occurring ... one study reported that the cliff gained two feet from 1950 to 1962! Nevertheless, they went ahead and planned out "erosion protection". Contracts were signed, money changed hands.

An interesting point which Gillard and Norris mentioned is that the Regents are concerned with the loss of land through erosion. 400 feet of land just three feet wide eroding for 30 years works out to 3,000 sq. feet of land. Land is valuable nowadays. Could land values have played a significant part in the rape of the point?

How can this happen to Campus Point? Why is it happening? You don't believe it? Just take a short walk and see, hear and smell what is going on. Imagine how the rock wall will enhance the beauty of the cliffs. Envision how you won't be able

Audacity of student government

To the Editor:

On Jan. 14, 1971, the ASUCSB Legislative Council sent a letter to all faculty members encouraging them to make modifications in their final examination schedules which might make the coming exam period less ludicrous than the last one by providing alternative those students who find it difficult to perform well on an examination interrupted by a bomb scare. (letter reprinted in DN January 26). This letter has been the object of much criticism from the faculty, many of whom apparently feel that student government is trying to tell them how to run "their" classes. As the author of the letter I feel compelled to respond to this totally unwarranted criticism.

Student government was not "telling" the faculty how to run classes but merely offering "suggestions" (paragraph 3) for changes in our classes. Our suggestions are clearly not the disruption via the bomb threat. They represent but one attempt to avoid the many problems inherent in the interruption of a final exam-an attempt obviously not worth the time or effort of many faculty members on this campus.

Granted-lengthy papers or take-home examinations may take more time to grade than in-class essays or objective tests, making it more difficult to complete grades within the allotted period. time Granted-the recent budgetary cuts and hiring freezes have put a strain on the faculty because of a financial inability to hire T.A.'s, readers, etc. But the quality of not be examinations need compromised for these reasons. Creative solutions are possible.

We have offered suggestions in this regard and have been greeted with many responses questioning "audacity" of student government. Few responses thus far have addressed the real problem-examination, authoritarian student government officials. I completely fail to understand the total lack of creativity on the part of many professors in responding to the possibility of more disrupted final exams. Faculty rigidity has seldom been so prominantly displayed.

Schubertians sing, ignore stereotype our concert?

G.: What concert?

S.: The Schubertian concert ... I'm in the Schubertians.

G.: What's that?

S.: The Schubert-ians. It's part of Men's Glee Club. We sing Schubert. That is, some of his work, his four-part songs.
G.: Thanks but I don't dig classical concerts that much.

S.: It's not really classical. I mean, a lot of it is ... you know ... romantic poems set to music ... Goethe, Schiller ... stuff like that. But we do a lot of different things ... Schumann, Benjamin Britten, Buxtehude...

G.: Bookstahooda?

S.: Yeah, he was before Bach.

S.: I think you'd like it. We do a pretty good job. Some of our music was written especially for our group. Have you ever heard of Fricker?

G.: Fricker? I guess not.

S.: Peter Racine Fricker. He

S.: Gary! Are you coming to wrote a great piece for us. He's chairman of the Department here.

G.: Oh ... local talent? S.: It's really good.

G.: Man, those concerts are always stuffy, snobbish and dull. Everybody goes to pretend they're cultured ... Oh yeah, and the Music 15 students go ... and write their papers during the performance.

S.: This is different. We sing without a director. You know, just sort of sitting around. As a matter of fact, we try to recreate the original way that the songs were performed. Schubert wrote them for his friends and they'd all get together at somebody's house and sing. Sort of a nineteenth century jam session.... Mr. Zytowski, our director, has translated some songs for us and written some that we do.

G.: I thought you didn't have a director.

S.: He only directs in rehearsal.

UCSB SCHUBERTIANS in concert Saturday, Feb. 6, 8 p.m. in Lotte Lehmann Hall, Gemutlichkeit!

In concert we just sing. Gemutlichkeit!

G.: What?

S.: That's the attitude we try to engender in people. It's German for something like camaraderie, comradeship. I don't know exactly, ... I'm a French major ... but you FEEL it. You know what I mean?

G. That's just corny b.s. and

S.: Oh come on. Are you really that much against it? I mean, don't you think it's important to use ... enjoy ... and, and transmit art, the one thing that identifies us as humans?

G.: Yeah, but listen...

S.: Why don't you come? It's free! It's the week-end after next, Saturday night, the sixth, at 8 in Lotte Lehmann Hall.

G.: Man, will you shut up? I've been trying to tell you I'm tone

S.: Oh ... don't you like music anyway? I mean there are some nice ... rhythms. You be there?

G.: Maybe.

Volleyballers host Aztecs Sat.

By TOM WALSH DN Sports Editor

A somewhat improved and hopefully more experienced UCSB volleyball team takes the floor tomorrow night at 8 in Robertson Gym against the perennially powerful San Diego State Aztecs, currently considered as the number two team in the country.

"San Diego State is very good," claims Rudy Suwara, the spiker's rookie coach, "and I would have to rank them right up there with UCLA." Duncan McFarland is the main reason that the Aztecs are in the thick of it all. "He is to San Diego," adds the Gaucho coach, "what Kirk Kilgore is to the Bruins." Just to show how good that is, McFarland was the outstanding player on the United States volleyball Team.

As for the Gauchos, Suwara notes, "we are doing better and keep learning, but we need more experience and are not quite mature enough. We need a consistent player and leader similar to Kilgore of UCLA or McFarland of the Aztecs."

The former All-American and Olympian has been quite pleased with the play of Dave DeGroot and Mike Wilson but claims, "that we still need a big man."
Against UCLA, the Gauchos

were ahead two games to one, and, then, the Bruins won the next two games to win the match even though UCSB was ahead in the fourth game. "I was disappointed," stated a forlorn Suwara, "I really thought we could beat them, but when the pressure was on, they played like real champions, and we fell by the wayside."

working While conditioning, Suwara is also searching for more consistency in performance, "We don't always play well-only about half the time," he noted. Presently sporting a 2-1 record against collegiate competition, Gauchos will need a better performance if they are to finish high in the Southern California Intercollegiate Volleyball Association and advance to post-season tournament play.

"UCLA won't dominate," continued Suwara, "if San Diego develops as expected. Of course we have to win too, then, that will also make it tougher on the Bruins. UCLA is not as strong as in past years and I think they can be beaten. With a little more mental discipline and some experience, I think we may be just the team to do so."

Hoopsters battle behemoth Bruins 'Grapplers best ever;'

By STEVE HENZEL

Four years ago, Doug Rex decided to attend UCSB. One of the schools that he turned down when he made that decision was Notre Dame. Well, it took Johnny Dee four years, but he finally got even with Doug for that decision. His Fighting Irish upset UCLA last Saturday and that has to be the worst thing that could have happened from the Gauchos' viewpoint.

There's not much to be said about the Bruins that hasn't already been said elsewhere. To beat them, you are allowed maybe one mistake for the entire game and you have to beat them at what they do best-rebounding, especially offensively. This is what the Irish did last week, and this is what UCSB must do tomorrow.

Starting for the defending National Champs will be Curtis Rowe and Sidney Wicks at forwards, Steve Patterson at center, with Henry Bibby and Kenny Booker at the guards. With the exception of Booker, it's the same starting lineup that had to scramble to salvage an victory over Santa Barbara last year. But there are a few differences.

Last year, it was on a Friday night, the night before a game with Wyoming, who was judged to be stronger than UCSB and UCLA was looking ahead. This year, there is no game the day before and the Bruins will be out for blood after losing last Saturday. The game, in addition, will be televised as the Pac-8 Game of the Week on Channel 5 with tipoff at 2 p.m. Also, next week UCLA plays USC for probably the Pac-8 title and number one position in the polls and the Bruins know that they can't afford any more losses.

Anyway you look at it, the Gauchos will have their hands full. After losing 75-66 Tuesday night to Loyola, Santa Barbara needs a great performance Saturday in Westwood just to keep some spirit. Last year, after losing to UCLA and two to Loyola, the Gauchos went into a tailspin, and they can't afford to do the same this year.

Tuesday night, the Gauchos couldn't stop Jim Haderlein in the second half and that was the ballgame. He scored 19 in the second period, as the Lions overcame a nine point UCSB lead, with 16:26 left. They pulled ahead with 4:36 left and when they went into a stall, the Gauchos had to foul to get the ball. Loyola made 11 of 12 from the charity stripe and also picked up two field goals, while all the Gauchos could muster was two baskets and a free throw.

Haderlein led all scorers with 28 points and also pulled in 18 rebounds. Doug Rex was second leading scorer with 20 points, 17 in the first half. Loyola changed their defense in the second half to completely bottle up Rex. Bob Schachter and Ron Allen also hit in double figures for the Gauchos with 11 and 15 points, respectively.

The Gauchos are now 13-4 overall, but a dismal 1-4 on the road. Their next home game will be Feb. 12 against L.A. State. Before that there will be the game tomorrow in Westwood, two next weekend against L.A. State and Valley State and the following Tuesday at Westmont.

The Gaucho frosh, coached by Larry Silvett, face the unbeaten Bruin frosh in the preliminary game tomorrow.

CAR NEED REPAIR? HEI-MAC

duel Cal Luthern next

By DOUG AMSTUTZ

With the season halfway over, the Gaucho matmen are 6-2 and looking for their fifth straight duel match win Saturday when they meet Cal Luthern here at 2:30 p.m. in the Old Gym.

Commenting on the second half of the season coming up, Coach Hammer stated, "We have one tough non-league match against Stanford plus our last two PCAA matches against Cal State Long Beach and Fresno State."

The most steady performers this season have been seniors Gordon George, Ken Linn and Jim Galvan whom have 9-1, 10-2 and 9-1-1 records, respectively. George, at 167 lbs., according to Hammer, "is our most poised and knowledgeable wrestler and has the potential to become an excellent coach."

On Linn (190) Hammer notes, "He is currently our high-point man with five pins already this season and has improved 150 per cent over last year.

"Co-captain Jim Galvan (134) has been our most consistent performer over the past two years and is extremely tough in the down position on the mat."

Hammer feels that this could possibly be the best Gaucho wrestling team in history, and with only one more home match after Saturday it might be worth your time to see them in action.

The office of the UCSB Ombudsman, Geoffrey Wallace, is located at 1709 Ellison Hall. His phone number is 961-3285.
