

PLP (PULCHRITUDE, LEVITY, & PUISSANCE) are the aims of the Associated Students Bus Service for this year. The buses arrive on campus in the morning at 7:30, 8:30, 9:30 and 10:30 with an evening run at 6:30. Buses return to Goleta West at 11 a.m., noon, and at 1, 3, 5 and 10 p.m. The service claims this will be a banner year in A.S. Bus Transport as "sanctity of duty and personal sacrifice are intrinsic to the very character of the campus bus driver." McCarthy Endorses Humphrey; Announces Political Retirement

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Senator Eugene J. McCarthy said yesterday he would vote for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for president and would not seek re-election to the Senate in 1970 or the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

McCarthy recommended in a statement that those who supported his unsuccessful effort to win the Democratic presidential nomination follow him in voting for Humphrey against GOP nominee Richard M. Nixon. But he added:

"In order to make it clear that this endorsement is in no way intended to reinstate me in the good graces of the Democratic leaders, nor in any way to suggest my having forgotten or condoned the things that happened both before Chicago and at Chicago, I announce at this time that I will not be a candidate of my party for re-election to the Senate from the State of Minnesota in 1970.

"Nor will I seek the presidential nomination of the Democratic party in 1972."

McCarthy was elected to the Senate on a Democratic Farmer Labor ticket. Presumably he could seek re-election as a Farmer Labor candidate if he chose to do so.

His assertion that he would not seek the Democratic nomination in 1972 left open the possibilities that he might decide not to run at all or that he would seek a third party nomination.

McCarthy, in announcing that he would vote for Humphrey, recommended that "those who have waited for this statement of my position do the same."

He also said, however, that Humphrey's position on key issues "falls short of what I think it should be."

Referring to the youths and others who supported him for the presidential nomination, McCarthy said he had asked them "to test the established political processes of the Democratic Party," and "I will not make that request of them again, unless those processes have clearly been changed."

"I wish to assure them that I intend to work to that end and at the same time to continue to discuss the substantive issues of American politics," he continued.

While not giving Humphrey unreserved praise, McCarthy pointed out that "the choice, however, is between Vice President Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon."

He said his endorsement of Humphrey was based on these considerations:

--On the basis of what he has stood for in the past and what he has said about domestic problems in this campaign. "Hubert Humphrey has shown a better understanding of our domestic needs and a stronger will to act than has been shown by Richard Nixon."

--"With Hubert Humphrey as President, the possibility of scaling down the arms race and reducing military tensions in the world would be greater than it would be with Richard Nixon as President of the United States."

Vietnamese Claims War Fills Thieu, Ky's Pockets

By PEGGY BURNSIDE
EG Staff Writer

"You are fighting the war for us, for two people, Thieu and Ky, just to fill up their pockets, to send their wives shopping in France."

With these words, Monique Truong, of South Vietnam, opened an address which terminated Saturday's monthly peace procession in Santa Barbara.

Miss Truong is the 22-year-old daughter of the South Vietnamese peace candidate, Truong Dinh Dzu, who finished second to Nguyen Van Thieu in the last election. He subsequently received a five-year prison sentence at hard labor for advocating peace talks and the establishment of a coalition government.

Despite the fact that Dzu advocated dealing with non-Communist members of the National Liberation Front, and forming a coalition with these same people, he was found guilty during his hour-and-a-half trial.

One of the significant points to note is that the South Vietnamese Constitution has outlawed Communism and neutralism. To espouse ideas aligned with either of these currents of political thought is to endanger one's physical well-being under the present Saigon regime.

She emphasized that "the most fundamental problem facing South Vietnam today is one which stands above the hawk-or-dove position, it is the problem of government." Inherent in the present conflict is the inability or possibly unwillingness, of the Thieu-Ky regime and its former Diem backers, (Continued on p. 8, col. 1)

ROTC Disturbance Leaders Receive Written Reprimands

By JOHN HANKINS
EG Staff Writer

After three hours of dialogue and deliberation last Friday, the Faculty Committee on Student Conduct came to a decision regarding the demonstration against the ROTC swearing-in ceremony October 3, and two of its demonstrators, Jim Gregory and John Maybury.

Dr. H. A. Barton, head of the committee said, "The word that best describes it is a disturbance, in that it created an obvious distraction to the meeting. Our recommendation to the Chancellor is a written warning to John Maybury and a letter of censure to Jim Gregory."

According to the University's code, a warning is a "notice to the student that continuation or repetition of specified conduct may be cause for other disciplinary action." A censure is stronger, being a "written reprimand for violation of a specified regulation."

The Chancellor has the last say on the decision, but "in most cases the Chancellor takes the recommendation of the Faculty Committee," explained Dean of Students Lyle Reynolds. Acting Chancellor Buchanan is expected to follow through early this week, though Gregory and Maybury are able to appeal.

The A.S. Judicial Committee, headed by Ken Alm, came up with a different recommendation calling the demonstration a disruption, but asking that no action be taken against Gregory and Maybury.

Commenting on the different decisions Alm said, "The Faculty Committee wanted to get to the understanding of the principals, rather than just strictly guilt or innocence. I think our board got a little tied up in judicial proceedings."

Barton described the Faculty Committee as "not, strictly speaking, a court of law as we do not have the final say, we only make a recommendation. We are concerned with the individual in how we can work out understanding of the situation, rather than just hand out a verdict of guilt or innocence."

John Maybury, however, took exception to the Committee's proceedings saying that "there is a considerable lack of attention to due process."

He referred to the press not being allowed in; not being told beforehand of the sheaf of documents gathered by the Military Science Dept. giving statements by various persons that the demonstration was disruptive; Colonel Dewey's absence when the committee talked to Gregory and Maybury; and the seeming lack of trust by the Administration of the A.S. Judicial Committee's decision.

JIVE Trash-in On the Way

JIVE weekend begins this coming Saturday, November 2, in the streets of Isla Vista.

Hundreds of residents, most of them UCSB students, are expected to turn out in force for the giant all-day trash-in (clean-up), beginning at 10 a.m.

Armed with bags and poker sticks, the volunteers will work in teams to clean up trash-strewn lots and clogged gutters. They will be fed by interested private citizens who are supplying free donuts and 50 cases of Pepsi.

Contributions of labor and equipment from the University and realtor Jack Schwartz will make it possible to haul away massive amounts of litter and clear large areas.

Most important, according to JIVE spokesmen, is "the full degree of participation... We cannot get improvement without involvement." They are urging Independents to make a commitment for Saturday; many Greek houses have already pledged their manpower.

The organization of the clean-up, though initiated by JIVE (Joint Isla Vista Effort) and the I.V. Study Group, is composed largely of non-student government or previously uninvolved types of students.

Two typical organizers are The Interfaith Forum and Todd Warner. Warner is heading up the clean-up crews; working for him on publicity matters and recruitment are Tansy Smith, Dick Buford and Carol Peterson.

JIVE is also urging area merchants to volunteer labor and supplies for the all-out offensive on ugliness this weekend.

Entertainment has already been lined up. University and county police may put in an appearance as foot patrol deputies during the clean-up; this would be a trial run of a proposed permanent foot patrol for Isla Vista, which both EL GAUCHO and Argo have endorsed.

For more details on JIVE, how it got started, and how you can join in Saturday, go to the A.S. office in the UCen, third floor.

VIOLINIST STEFAN KRAYK, left, and pianist Landon Young, both members of the UCSB music faculty, are shown in rehearsal for their recital Friday, November 1, in Campbell Hall. The duo will present sonatas from the Baroque, Romantic and contemporary periods of music.

California Club Concerned With UC Communications

In order to establish more direct lines of communication between the University and the public, and between students and the University-wide and campus administrators, the California Club has been reorganized to cover three main areas.

In their public role, the California Club members, in speaking to various Santa Barbara organizations, hope to present a clearer understanding of the function of the University in society. The California Club members also hope to correct the many misconceptions which the public has about the University student.

In its campus function, the California Club will serve as an agency of communication between the students and the Chancellor's office. Meetings will be held several times a month with Chancellor Cheadle to discuss the various state and local issues.

Periodically, the California Club will publish an information sheet dealing with pertinent campus or University-wide issues.

At the University-wide level, the Associated Students President, the California Club Chairman, and members selected from the California Club and the student body will be invited to speak with President Hitch throughout the year. Hitch hopes that this will form the basis for a closer contact with the students of the University.

The California Club is still open for membership. The requirements are experience in some aspect(s) of campus life, and willingness and time to contribute to the Club's goals.

Students may apply for membership by writing a brief letter stating what they think is the role of the student in the University. These letters, along with the phone number and address of the applicant, must be placed in the box of the California Club Chairman, Hal Young, in the A.S. office by Wednesday, October 30.

UC Enrollment Passes 98,000

BERKELEY -- Fall enrollments at the University of California's nine campuses total 98,725 students, an increase of 3,405 students (3.6 per cent) over last fall.

The figure, based on registration by the end of the second week of instruction, represents an increase of 2,290 undergraduate students (3.5 per cent) and 1,115 graduate students (3.8 per cent), compared with last year. In all, 68.9 per cent are undergraduates, 31.1 per cent are graduate students and 31.1 per cent are new to UC at all levels of instruction.

Enrollments range from large increases at the newer campuses (17.7 per cent at Irvine, 24.2 per cent at San Diego and 31.8 per cent at Santa Cruz) to a 2.5 per cent decrease at Berkeley. The largest total increase (1,343 students) occurred at the Davis campus.

For the fall quarter, both Berkeley and Los Angeles exceeded the 27,500 ceilings planned for the two campuses. However, enrollments were decreased slightly at both campuses, at graduate and undergraduate levels.

Blue Key Promotes Campus Dialogue, Applications Due

Applications for Blue Key are now available in the A.S. office on the third floor of the University Center. All interested upper division men are urged to apply for this national men's honorary society. Applications must be returned to the A.S. office by Friday, November 1.

In the past several years, Blue Key has served as a medium of dialogue between active members of the University community. Bi-monthly breakfast meetings are held at which guest speakers from the faculty or student body offer personal insight into a problem vital to the University's welfare.

Highlight meetings last year included a debate on the problems of ROTC on campus and a discussion of the role of black militants in the University. This year Blue Key hopes to utilize the potential available in the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions.

Those wishing further information should contact Tim Donovan, president, at 6660 Abrego Rd., 968-9103.

Why does a perfect size 7 look perfect only 21 days every month?

It has nothing to do with calories. It's a special female weight gain... caused by temporary water-weight build-up. Oh, you know... that uncomfortable full feeling that sneaks up on you the week before your menstrual period. This fluid retention not only plays havoc with your looks but how you feel as well. (It puts pressure on delicate nerves and tissues, which can lead to pre-menstrual cramps and headaches, leaves emotions on edge.)

That's why so many women take PAMPRIN®. It gently relieves water-weight gain to help prevent pre-menstrual puffiness, tension, and pressure-caused cramps.

PAMPRIN makes sure a perfect size 7 never looks less than perfect. Nor feels less than perfect, either.

Vote YES on Higher Education

ISSUE: What does the passage of Proposition 3 mean to the University of California, and specifically what does it mean to this campus?

million going to the University, $100 million going to the state colleges, and $50 million going to repair urban area elementary and high schools which are more than 25 years old.

UCSB can expect to gain about $9 million of the University's slice, which will go towards five major building projects scheduled to get under way in 1969-1971. This includes Engineering Unit 2, Marine Biology Unit 2, a Speech and Dramatic Arts addition, a College of Creative Studies unit, and Administration Unit 2.

These buildings are needed now. UCSB has always been ahead of its space in its enrollment. You may know that students from other campuses are amazed when we tell them about night classes and Saturday classes.

In the next two academic years (1969-1970 and 1970-1971) the enrollment at this campus is expected to rise by 1,150.

A good portion of these will be graduate and upper-division students; it is a Proposition 3 is a construction bond issue which would allow the state to construct needed new educational facilities throughout the state.

The $250 million bond issue would be split three ways, with $100 good rule of thumb that an upper-division uses twice as much space as a lower-division student, and a graduate student uses three times as much as an upper-division student.

These buildings must come. If the bonds are not passed now, and the legislature waits two years, the costs of the buildings will rise by over 10 per cent. This is no economy.

The plight of the state colleges is not much better. Always on the short end of the stick when it comes to allocation of funds, they are being asked to take larger and larger portions of incoming students. As State College Chancellor Glenn Dumke has warned, "We must either provide additional classrooms and laboratories for our spiraling enrollments or be forced to shut the door to some very able students."

Defeat of this measure would mean that the one-third portion of the University's share which has been set aside to build medical facilities could not be utilized. It would mean that development of four new state college campuses in Ventura, Kern, Contra Costa and San Mateo counties would be set back.

In this time of growing enrollments, increased costs, and above all, the realization of the desperate need for better higher education facilities, it would be a disaster if this bond proposition were defeated.

We strongly urge a YES vote on Proposition 3.

Beware of the Dickie Bird

By BILL HOILAND

In 1970 a report by a renowned ornithologist and naturalist set every bird-lover's heart a-twitter. His study, the culmination of a lifetime of observation, described the life of the sole remaining representative of the species of Americanus Gothicus, otherwise known as the Dickie bird. The following is a condensation of that study.

"The Dickie bird looks much like the average bird, but can be distinguished by his oddly-shaped beak. The Dickie I studied nested in a very large tree in the woods, which was also inhabited by many other birds. Though he came from humble beginnings, a nest on one of the lowest limbs of the tree, he appeared to be destined for greatness. He first made his presence felt by all the birds of the tree in the early 1950's, with his persistent, raucous call of 'Commie, Commie, Commie.' His use of that call appeared to be prompted by a desire to imitate other birds who used that call successfully to intimidate and frighten birds who opposed them and to ingratiate themselves with the majority of the birds of the tree.

"By 1952, the effect of the call was wearing off and the Dickie bird was able to ally himself with a very popular older bird, who slightly resembled a friendly but stupid Bald Eagle. As a result of that alliance, the Dickie bird became the second most powerful bird in the tree.

"In 1960, the Dickie attempted to take control of the tree but was narrowly defeated by a flashy young bird. In 1962, the Dickie bird attempted to take control of one of the largest limbs of the tree but was defeated by another bird. This time of his life, the period between 1962 and 1966, was surely the worst in the Dickie's life. Strangely, he did not give up his hope of controlling the tree.

"In 1968, the Dickie bird, by defeating an old hawk and a pigeon, did become the leader of the tree. This amazing victory resulted from two tactics the Dickie bird developed to perfection in the six previous years. After his defeat in 1962 he decided he needed new, more acceptable plumage. Thus, he shed his earlier feathers and grew a new set until he felt he looked very mature and statesman-like. He also stopped his raucous call of 'Commie, Commie' and began to chirp only innocuous generalities about the greatness of tree. Secondly, the Dickie began approaching all the rich and influential birds of the tree in a slightly obsequious manner, gaining their support by promising to aid them in the future.

"With such a solid base established, the Dickie's fondest dreams were fulfilled--he became the leader of the tree in 1968. However, after his victory a most phenomenal thing happened. He found that many of the birds in the tree, especially the young and the black birds, did not like or respect him. One day at a large meeting of the birds some young birds angered the Dickie bird to such a degree that his recently-acquired nature and statesman-like feathers dropped off, revealing the same old Dickie bird, and his voice changed from gentle platitudes to his old, raucous call of 'Commie, Commie, Commie!'

"He ordered that all of the disrespectful birds in the tree be killed. Later he decided that the disrespectful birds in the other trees around them deserved to be killed, also. So, leading the birds into battle with his immortal cry of 'Commie, Commie' the Dickie began a war against the disrespectful birds of the forest. Unfortunately, he was rather unsuccessful since in that war every bird in the forest was killed."

Financial Grape

The following "note" was displayed on the door of one of the department offices in South Hall. I have the permission of the author to publish it and do believe that it deserves as wide a reading as it can get.

TIBOR R. MACHAN

The grape boycott is supposed to hurt the large growers who are presently exploiting pickers. Unfortunately, some of these growers have only 10 per cent of their capital invested in their fields, and thus suffer very little from this boycott. There are, on the other hand, many small growers to whom this boycott is the final blow in their struggle for survival.

All of their income comes from the table and/or wine grapes they sell, and now that the market for these grapes is diminishing, they are getting even less for their fruit than they normally do. (Out of the 29 cents per lb, you pay for grapes, they get five. Out of every dollar you pay for wine, they get less than a dime.) Furthermore, these small growers do not cheat their pickers. If they can get any (visit Fresno sometime, and look at the "Pickers Wanted" signs), they pay a minimum of $1.65 per hour. Pickers who choose to be paid by piecework sometimes earn $40 for a five hour day. (Most of the pickers will only work from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.)

Yet it is these small growers, with all their income invested in their lands, that are being most injured by the boycott. Most of them are now trying to sell their farms, others survive merely by getting jobs on the side, or having other members of their families work to bring in income.

The next time you don't buy a California grape because of the low income of the pickers, remember that for most of the small growers, the average income last year was all of 10 cents per hour. Think about it, and see if there isn't a way of helping one victim without injuring another.

Wallacite Drive

Students may have noticed that a mimeographed tract with a newsletter format entitled "Friends of Free Campus" is being distributed and posted on campus. This is evidently a followup to last week's similar sheet entitled "The Right Way." Both sheets are Wallacite, peckerwood drive, and it scarcely needs to be pointed out that they are utterly unconnected with Free Campus, a nonpolitical group, and are utterly misrepresentative of its views.

But it is worth observing that no one seems to know who is publishing them. They are anonymously composed and distributed; there is no such group as "Friends of Free Campus." But most curious is the fact that students who have examined closely copies of the "Friends" sheets distributed by a certain radical interest at UCSB, have observed that both handouts were typed with an identical typeface, if not the same typewriter. This seems more than coincidental.

Apparently there are those at UCSB who feel they have a great deal to fear from moderate groups such as Free Campus. I suggest that they crawl out from under their rock and express openly their fear of moderation. They have nothing to lose but their reputations.

MIKE ENGLER

Lousy Attitudes

The Senior Class and A.S. Social Committee is sponsoring the Pat Paulsen Election Special on November 3. Publicity for this event was distributed by Norm Shaskey, Senior Class President, and myself on October 21. This consisted of posters with a picture of Pat Paulsen, and time, date, and location of the event that was printed on the posters by members of my committee. By October 23, all of the posters that were stapled up had been stolen.

On October 22, I received 400 bumper stickers along with posters and campaign buttons. This morning (October 25) about 250 of these were stolen from the A.S. Finance office. These must be paid for out of A.S. funds.

This demonstrates to me the irresponsibility, immaturity, and inconsiderate attitude of a number of members of a campus community that likes to pride itself on its maturity and responsibility.

What's the Deal on the Watson Amendment?

By ALAN GOLDHAMMER

The normally long California ballot will be considerably shorter this year as compared to years past. Even with the limited amount of propositions, most polls have shown the electorate ignorant of the issues concerning one of the most important, the Watson Initiative.

This amendment, otherwise known as Proposition 9, is another in a series of tax relief bills which will face the electorate. The basic provisions of the initiative are quite simple: a) it places a constitutional limit of 1 per cent of the actual market value on property taxes; b) it restricts the use of monies derived from the property tax to "property related services," and provides a four-year phase-out of "people related services;"

c) it makes allowance for exceeding the limitation on the property tax for the purpose of bond redemption.

The property tax has existed in California since the state was admitted to the Union in 1850. At that time, the tax was the primary source of income to the state. It was placed in the hands of the local governments in 1910 with the Separation of Sources Act.

Most of the local governments in the state use this for primary services to the people. It is used for police and fire protection, sanitation or welfare. In addition, the money goes into the local school district treasury.

The breakdown of the derivation of revenue is as follows: Residential:

Owner occupied, single family - 30 per cent.

Non-owner occupied - 16 per cent.

Business:

Agriculture - 9 per cent.

Commercial and Industrial - 32 per cent.

Railroads and Public Utilities - 13 per cent.

Thus it is not just the home owner who is contributing to the property tax structure, for he is actually only giving in 30 per cent.

In a hypothetical case, here is what would have happened had the bill been in effect during the fiscal year 1967-68. The actual amount of money collected via this route during this period was $4,240 billion. Had the Watson Amendment been in effect the tax money would have amounted to only $2,064, about half of what was actually collected.

The initiative makes no provision for finding other sources of revenue which would maintain the present level of education and welfare services. Elementary and secondary schools, as well as junior colleges currently derive about 60 per cent of their funding from local property taxes, with the remainder being made up by the state and federal governments.

If the state assumes the cost of people related services, it will have to increase its income, either by increasing revenue from existing sources or by finding new ones. If existing sources were to be used, it is estimated that by 1973 the difference could be made up by, for example, a combination of doubling the present income tax rate, doubling the present sales tax and increasing the cigarette tax to 30 cents a pack.

At any rate, all of this is particularly appealing to the small home owner. His taxes will be lowered by about 50 per cent. While it grants this immediate relief, it gives the legislature five years to make the fiscal adjustment.

Another argument for the initiative is that property taxes should be used only for those services that relate to and benefit the property. Property owners should not have to pay a larger portion of education and welfare costs than other people.

On the other end of the scale, the debits stand out glaringly. The increase in the other taxes would more than offset the property tax reduction and would hit hardest at those who are least able to pay. Since the property owner has more of a stake in the community, it is only right that he should pay for those things, such as education, which increase the value of the community as a whole.

This measure takes away the local control; it does not make provision for a tax override if the local electorate should want it, and it gives control over education to the state, instead of the local community.

Robert Bowen of the California Taxpayers Association says that this is a poor initiative. "We're convinced, absolutely convinced, that the home owner will pay more taxes, principally because he only pays--the single family resident only pays 30 per cent of the property taxes today, contrary to what Mr. Watson says."

Again it boils down to the science of semantics; what looks good on the surface is actually not so good when the consequences of the action are considered.

Magic Fellow Donovan

By GARRY SHAW

Congratulations! The Donovan man has come singing songs of love and life again. "Hurdy Gurdy Man" is a collection of thirteen brand new songs, each rushing and flowing, cascading and meandering through the album. Like a mountain stream it looks crystal clear, but its surprising depth and hidden rocks make it a challenge to swim across. A masterful blending of voice, percussion, keyboards, guitars and winds highlight the album, turning each song into a little slice of life. They range from the ultimate pop single Hurdy Gurdy Man to the mystical eastern influences of Peregrine, and from the gentle persuasion of The Entertaining of a Shy Girl to the mellow sax and bass of Get Thy Bearings.

The overall mood of the album is one of celebration. Donovan is glad to be alive and singing, and he wants you to share in his enthusiasm and songs. His songs are of the real world, not of cotton candy and gloss, including shattered dreams, hungry children, and beggars. The longest cut is devoted to a dirge for the people of Tangier and the empty life they lead, subtly urging us to help change it into the good life of A Sunny Day. The childlike innocence of The Sun is a Very Magic Fellow is an invitation to be very young again, as it reintroduces you to those grand old folks, the sun and rain, the wind and sea, the moon and the stars, and yourself. Donovan doesn't want you to forget Tangier, but to think of what it could be, and realize that there's plenty of time to help change it, because you're still very young.

Whether or not you're a Donovan fan, if you want to do some good listening, or thinking, or just talking with your friends, play "Hurdy Gurdy Man." You'll be glad you did.

Bernstein Boosts UCSB; Gauchos Go Great Guns

By BILL GRAHAM
EG Sports Staff

Once upon a time, there came to the small hamlet of Goleta an artist by the name of Bernstein. He did not paint or sculpt, nor was he an inspiring architect.

His medium was words, his canvas always measured 8-1/2 by 11, and his brushes were his typewriter and his mouth. And what his works lacked in quality, they more than made up for in quantity.

JULIE CHRISTIE

He arrived in typical starving artist format, bringing a dog, a small trailer, and a car that barely made it. He was unannounced and unknown but to a few people.

Immediately he was assigned to his office, a converted refreshment stand on the corner of the gym, and presented with his task: to put UCSB on the athletic map.

Up to that time, you see, the only people who had ever heard of UCSB athletically were two NCAA secretaries and a retired golf coach from Ball State University. And the secretaries thought UCSB was a typographical error.

True, the Gauchos basketball team had just completed a fine 16-10 season in its probationary year in the WCAC, but it was to be the team's last winning season for four years. Football had little but a head coach of considerable fame, and baseball had nothing.

Volleyball was a club sport, and the "minor sports" were as minor as they come. Obviously, there was very little to work with.

But Donn Bernstein has never suffered for a lack of copy. I mean, when you cover Cal Bear football in the early '60's, there's not a whole lot you can do besides extoll Craig Morton.

And so, in his first experience as a Sports Information Director, Donn was faced with building up a school that had little reputation, and less to work on. Patience would have to be the key.

Fortunately, however, the tide was beginning to turn. The foot-

Santa Clara-Gauchos Rivalry 'Big Game' Saturday Night

By GERALD NEECE
EG Sports Staff

As usual, the Gauchos gridders take to the turf once again Saturday evening. This time the worthy opponent is the University of Santa Clara. More importantly the game is in Santa Clara.

This game has more at stake than the usual football game. UCSB and Santa Clara are football rivals, which means that each game between the two is a do-or-die battle. What's more is the fact that because of several incidents last year, Santa Clara will be out for the Gauchos, more than ever before.

Santa Clara is 3-4, the Gauchos 3-2-1. But as Sports Information Director Donn Bernstein puts it, "When UCSB and Santa Clara meet in football, you can throw out the record book." When these two teams meet it is as though the World Championship of football were at stake.

Before going into this year's game it would be nice to review some of the "incidents" last year. Santa Clara was undefeated, winning seven in a row before going into the game. They were ranked number six nationally in AP and UPI college division rankings. A perfect season was theirs if they could get by UC Santa Barbara and Cal Poly Pomona. This was their season.

THE BIG GAME

But UCSB thought otherwise. Although in the throes of a semi-miserable 4-4 season and having lost their last two games to San Fernando Valley State and Hawaii, this was, after all, the big game. It was also homecoming and the last home game of the season.

Santa Barbara was "up" for this game. The night before the game, several thousand students showed up below UCen for a large bonfire rally. Pessimists will say they came to see how big the bonfire would be, but the football team was impressed. During this period of athletic apathy it was a great morale booster for the team.

The day of the game, game

Publicist Bernstein...

ball coach had parlayed his name into more than a few blue chip frosh footballers, many of whom were not accustomed to losing.

Following a 6-0 freshman year, Mike Hitchman and Company took over the varsity, and gave Bernstein something to work with. The football team finished 8-1, and was awarded a berth in the prestigious Camellia Bowl.

Donn began talking to those who make All-Americans, the Football Writers Association and the wire services. The talking paid off in one Little All-American and three Little All-Coast players, a number eight small college ranking, and the College Division Coach of the Year award for Coach Curtice.

Things were just beginning. Bernstein was able to add an All-American soccer goalie, a pair of honorable mention All-League basketballers, a number seven national ranking for the volleyball team, a Little All-American baseball player, and nine All-American swimmers.

And Donn has been in high gear ever since, adding national ratings and All-Americans by the dozens.

His phone allowance is invariably exhausted by December, and that doesn't include his long distance gladhanding on his home phone.

Bernie is now a real pro in the business. He is one of the two College Division representatives to the eight-man NCAA Board of Sports Information Directors, has chaired three NCAA committees, and knows just about everybody in college athletics. It's a well kept secret, in fact, that Bernstein had talked this year's football team into a number one rating on one ballot, and a number two on a few others had the Gauchos beaten Tampa.

But no matter that the Gauchos fail once in a while, Donn Bernstein will keep on talking, keep on writing, and keep on making All-Americans.

Santa Clara-Gauchos...

fever heightened. Although many stayed home and watched the monumental USC-UCLA tussle on television, 8,000 boisterous students turned up at game-time. Santa Clara came in force, too.

As the game appeared lost, several Santa Clara rooters climbed a pole and tore down the speakers, causing considerable damage.

WILL BE READY

Obviously, the Broncos will be ready for the Gauchos. On their home turf, there's no telling what they have in store for Gaucho players and rooters. But undoubtedly it will be the game of the year for both teams.

The Broncos have a 34-7 loss to avenge; the Gauchos would like to make it four in a row. And for both teams, the World Championship of football might well be at stake.

OBSCENITIES SHOUTED

This precipitated incident number two. Reportedly, as the Santa Clara team bus and rooters pulled up, obscenities were shouted out the windows at passers-by. Among these passers-by was Coach Jack Curtice. The UCSB team became enraged. It was the beginning of the end of the Broncos.

The game began and as it became apparent that this was UCSB's game, the crowd and cheerleaders went into near hysterics. Incident number three involved several off-color cheers directed at the Santa Clara rooting section across the way. Unfortunately, the UCSB cheerleader microphones were also hooked up to the Santa Clara side of the stadium.

KCSB-FM

Santa Barbara Mayor and Republican Assembly candidate Don MacGillivray will be the guest of KCSB-FM tomorrow night at 8:30 for a phone talk show. Listeners are invited to call the station at 961-2424 to ask their questions.

Curtice, Gauchos Offensive Output Ranked Nationally

After three straight high scoring victories, the statistics of the Gaucho gridmen have markedly improved, and in two categories were good enough to rank nationally last week.

Offensively the Gauchos are averaging 419.2 yards an outing, a mark which put them 19th in the country before last week-end's games.

Moreover, quarterback Jim Curtice's total offense output was good enough to put him in the number 13 spot nationally. The junior is averaging six yards every time he takes a snap from center, having passed for 938 yards and rushed for 133.

Tom Broadhead is still the leading Santa Barbara rusher with 559 yards gained on 109 carries. The leading rusher in Gaucha gridiron history, Broadhead is averaging 5.1 yards a clip, and is also tied for scoring honors with wide receiver Steve Moore, each having tallied six touchdowns.

Moore is way out in front on the receiving end. In six games he has gathered in 25 aeriels for 415 yards. Jim Priest is next with 13 receptions for 194 yards and three TDs.

to relate to the peasant population.

Immediate American withdrawal would be unrealistic. "We don't want to get shot in the back," said Miss Truong. Rather, a gradual withdrawal of Allied Armed Forces with continuing economic aid would be the most feasible approach. "If you're going to do all the work for us, why should we work hard?" she queried.

A form of "provisional or caretaker government acceptable to Washington, Hanoi and the NLF" is felt to be the best replacement of the present Saigon government according to Miss Truong, one in which "every political party in South Vietnam could participate politically, without resorting to armed struggle."

Furthermore, she added, "The only safe guarantee against a Communist take-over could only and should come from the people of South Vietnam, through the ballot boxes, on the basis of one-man one-vote, not from the military power of the U.S. backing a small group."

Although the U.S. government guaranteed free elections the last time they took place, very little was done to assure this. On the last day of balloting, said Miss Truong, 20 non-Vietnamese-speaking observers were sent out to watch the ballot boxes.

McCarthy also stated that Humphrey's position on reform of the political processes within the Democratic Party (which McCarthy had urged throughout his campaign), fell short of what he had hoped it would be.

The senator said that many, if not most of his supporters, had already decided how to deal with these two groups, stands as a bulwark to any peace feelers that may be put forth. But then if this conflict is truly a U.S. war, one which many Americans seek disengagement from, recognition of the disparity between the NLF and Hanoi may be our task too, and a major step in establishing real negotiations.

Furthermore, the need to realize that the NLF was formed because very real grievances existed within the Saigon political structure, cannot be overlooked. According to Miss Truong, "The present Saigon regime, by denying these political realities, cannot possibly survive through a negotiated settlement."

Barton went on to explain that it had been the procedure to talk to each of the principals individually and that although Gregory and Maybury had not been told of the Military Science Dept.'s documents, they had an advocate there to present their view of the situation.

UC Berkeley Leaders Begin Hunger Strike

By ANN HENRY
EG Staff Writer

In an effort to aid a student strike for credit in the Cleaver course on racism, two prominent UC Berkeley students began a hunger strike Monday.

Charles Palmer, President of the Berkeley Associated Students, and Konstantin Berlandt, editor of the student newspaper, announced Monday that they would eat or drink nothing but small amounts of fruit juice "until the people of the state and the people they have placed in power recognize our humanity."

Student leaders from the Center for Participant Education at Berkeley hailed the hunger strike as "a beautiful gesture in the best tradition of peaceful and non-violent protest." CPE is one of the groups supporting the current boycott of classes at Berkeley.

Larry Magid, a CPE member, told EL GAUCHO yesterday, "I just hope they (the fasting students) live long enough to see their demands granted."

NON-VIOLENT PROTEST

Recent violent outbreaks over the issue of the Cleaver lectures prompted the two students to seek a different method of protest. Declared the pair, "We reject at this time violent action as a reasonable and democratic tool of change."

Palmer later informed a press conference that he would not eat until the Regents and administration opened "definite channels of communication and participation in the governing of the University" to the students.

STAND-IN AT SPROUL

During their fast, Palmer and Barlandt will spend several hours a day standing on the steps of Sproul Hall. They expressed the hope that students and administrators would come there to discuss with them the problems of racism and political interference in academic affairs.

'Amigo' Head Speaks at 3

Today at 3 p.m. in the Interim, Mr. Guy Bevil, Jr., founder and national director of Amigos will meet to discuss his project. All interested students are encouraged to attend.

Amigos De Las Americas is a non-profit organization, chartered by the State of California which recruits, selects, and trains youth to go into some of the most deprived areas of Central America and administer medical aid as well as to promote goodwill.

YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE JUST MIGHT BEAT LAST YEAR'S RECORD.

OF COURSE THERE IS ALWAYS THE OFF CHANCE THAT SOMETHING MIGHT GO WRONG, BUT IN THIS BUSINESS ONE DOESN'T MENTION THOSE THINGS.

AT ANY RATE WE FEEL LIKE PATTING EACH OTHER ON THE BACK.

KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN FOR HH

WE HOPE YOU'LL LIKE IT A LITTLE.
