JACOBY SEES END OF BOOM IN SIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—The end of the post-war "boom" in America is in sight, Neil H. Jacoby, Dean of the College of Business Administration, on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California, said at the regional conference of the National Association of Foremen held recently at the University.

Publication Due on Schutt Text

A book written by Warren E. Schutt, lecturer in English at Santa Barbara College, University of California, will be published in January, it was revealed today.

Entitled "Effective Written English," the book will come out in two editions, one for use as a college textbook, and the other for use by adults who have not had college education.

The publisher is D. Van Nostrand and Co. of New York.

Schutt was one of the first American students to be honored with a Rhodes scholarship.

In addition to three novels and many short stories, Schutt has written a book "Reading for Self Education," published two years ago.

He also has taught at New York University and Columbia University.

Phrateres Present Campus Fashions

"Campus Fashions by Mademoiselle" will be presented by Phrateres on Sunday, November 14, from 3:00 to 5:00 pm. Campus models will model clothes by Mademoiselle in the Quad.

The show is being presented to raise money so that delegates can be sent to the Phrateres International Convention to be held at the University of Arizona in June. Santa Barbara Chapter was hostess 130 delegates at the last convention held in June, 1946.

Tickets will be on sale in the Quad every day this week and may be obtained at Mademoiselle's down town or from members of Phrateres on campus.

"The end is in sight, I believe, because the most urgent consumer demands for housing and durable goods have been met. This does not mean that there will be a sudden fall in home building or automobile production. It merely means that the pressure of demand is not as great in relation to supply and will not support continued increases in prices. In the second place, business enterprises have been building new plant and equipment at a great rate, and their initial programs of postwar expansion in plant will be coming to an end in 1948. A third factor is that Marshall Plan aid will reach its maximum effect on our economy by the end of this year," Jacoby said.

"One consequence of the reduction in exports to foreign countries will be a material drop in farm and food prices, already past their peak and definitely on the way down. This will prevent cost of living from rising as rapidly as it has been rising, and should lead to fewer demands for wage increases. As a consequence of all of these factors, it is reasonable to expect a recession in prices, physical volume of production, and employment some time during 1949," the economist concluded. Some 300 foremen attended the conference sponsored by the Institute of Industrial Relations through University Extension.

Student Directory A. C. B. Calendar

There are still some dates open on the Activities Control Board Calendar.

The Calendar is located in the Student Body Office. Orgs may look up what dates are still open and fill out a money-raising activity form, in duplicate. They must leave it in the incoming mail basket.

They will receive a notice through the mail, if approved.

FISHERS URGED TO BUY TICKET FOR NEXT TRIP

Reservations for the next all-Gauche fishing trip to the islands on Saturday, November 13, are still being accepted. Students wishing to go can purchase their tickets at 100 E. Carrillo St. or call 27368. Friday, November 12, at 10 pm will be the last opportunity to buy them.

Since the boat only has room for 100 persons, students are urged to buy their tickets as soon as possible to insure going. Since this will be a special student trip, tickets are only $2.50. Regular price is $6.00.

Fishing will take place between Santa Cruz and Anacapa Islands, and students are requested to bring at least 100 yards of fishing tackle so the bottom can be reached. All lines should reach the bottom because the best fishing can be done there. Also, because of the strong current between the Islands, sinkers of at least 10 oz. should be brought. Number 4 or 5 hooks are the best to use and all lines should stand a 25 pound test.

Even if students do not care especially for fishing, it will be well worth going for the trip itself.

Mozart Comedy Due Next Month at Lobero

"That's the Way Women Are," the English version of Mozart's gay comedy "Così fan tutte," will be presented at the Lobero Theater on December 3 and 4 under the sponsorship of the Committee on Drama, Lectures, and Music of the college. It is under the production of the Intimate Opera Players.

Translated into understandable English, the tantalizing story of Viennese society is generally conceded to be "opera bouffe" in its best form. Sham suicides and false marriage contracts set a lively pace for the musical score that takes in a wide range of grace, tender love songs, and sparkling revelry.

Gauchos Slaughter Aggies 27-6; Bears Down Stubborn Bruins At Gala All-University Weekend

By Geo. F. Outland

With very un-brotherly like spirit, the UCSB Gauchos roundly thumped the UC College of Agriculture from Davis, 27 to 6 last Saturday. In the second game of the All-U double header, UC Berkeley took their eighth straight win of the season at the hands of UCLA, 28 to 13.

The high light of the game was a 90-yard punt return by Sam Cathcart in the third period of the first contest. It was the longest dash made in Memorial Stadium this year. Tommy White got in on the fun by intercepting a Mustang pass and scooting 24-yards untouched for another tally, as well as notching three out of four placement attempts.

Engman Again

The Gauchos first marker was racked up by Earl Engman, which gives him six TD's for the season to date, although he was hurt in the second period and his condition is not known. Russ Bertell, running in his own special rubbery-legged antics, scored the other Gauche six-pointer.

Although not breaking in the score column, Royal Cathcart, Tommy Kelley and Al Wajbel broke loose for some nice gains. Co-Captain Sam Dimas was good for consistent short gains through the line. The Gauche aerial attack was almost nil, but Glenn Mullaney did get off a few nice ones. Bob Baker, fully recovered from his injuries, got off several long booming punts.

Defense Strong

The defensive job the Gauchos did was a thing of beauty to watch, as Al Wajbel and Jack Nelson in the backfield and Joe Rossi, Hook Hernden, George Crilley, Cy Williams and Bill Brozowski working the guard spots, Mxa Pickarts, Wayne Templeton, Bob Woodridge and Jim Goslin at tackles, with Dick Schaefer spelling captain Frank Kirkland at center on defense, turned back three Aggie attacks deep in their own territory.

The score of the contest was held down by four Gauche fumbles, numerous penalties against both sides, and the fact that the Gauchos were being scouted by their next two opponents—Cal Cal Poly and COP.

Poly Next

The Cal Poly team, which up-ended San Francisco State 40 to 0 Friday night, will charge into La Playa Stadium at 3:15 this Thursday, which is Armistice Day, to face the Golden Gauchos. Last

Eligibility Rules More Lenient

What many Gauche supporters have considered a substantial handicap in playing other 2C2A teams was removed today with the announcement that three years of varsity competition will be allowed to students who have transferred from junior college.

The action was taken when Acting Provost J. Harold Williams endorsed a recommendation of the Santa Barbara College faculty athletic committee. The new policy, effective Nov. 1, was adopted after conferences and communication with President Robert G. Sproul and other University of California officials.

The previous restriction of two years of varsity playing for junior college transfers had been in accordance with provisions of the Pacific Coast Conference code. Although Santa Barbara teams did not play in that conference, it was felt advisable to comply with conference rules because of the University of California's membership in the PCC.

In the case of this provision, however, officials agreed that the three-year allowance would be more consistent with the spirit of the PCC code since 2C2A members are not bound by the two-year restriction.

Dr. William F. Aggeler, chairman of the faculty athletic committee, emphasized that the allowance of three years of varsity competition applied to transfers from junior college only and not to transfers from other four-year institutions. He further explained that the provision is applicable only so long as Santa Barbara College is a member of the California Collegiate Athletic Association.

PROVOST WILLIAMS DELIVERS ADDRESS AT KIWANIS ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

The parallel roles of education and Kiwanis in human service were emphasized in an address by Dr. J. Harold Williams, acting provost of Santa Barbara College, University of California, Thursday, Oct. 28 at the 25th anniversary celebration of the Kiwanis club in Santa Maria.

"Kiwanis and education are conceived in similar hopes and ambitions," Dr. Williams told the group which included many Kiwanians from Santa Barbara. "I believe they supplement each other in a wholesome and effective manner in pursuit of their mutual objective, which is to make this world a better place to live in."

Dr. Williams then pointed to some of the obstacles in the path of progress, and to man's tendency to revert to primitive practices.

"In spite of our boasted civilization, in which we think of man as having emerged from darkness into light, it is evident at times that the emergence is not complete," he declared.

The United Nations represents an outstanding effort by man to set his house in order, Dr. Williams contended, and UNESCO is the agency which opens the way for education to help solve the dilemma in which civilization finds itself.

Dr. Williams cited the high degree of achievement reached by the public schools in the United States. The University of California not only has attained an enviable record in the state but stands high in world recognition, he maintained.

The speaker traced the development of the University of California and described the part that Santa Barbara College now plays in the functions of the University.

Sadie Hawkins Dance Friday

Take cover men, the horrible day is approaching. In the next few days the hallowed, ivy covered walls of old SBC will no longer be a refuge for Gauche men because, leave us face it, Sadie Hawkins' Day is upon us.

The Dogpatch civic betterment league, assisted by the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity, has decided that the old system of boy chase girl just isn't getting the proper results, what with all the untaken men wandering around loose, so they have decided to give the gals a chance to do the trapping. From now on gals, it's open season on men. Use any means, fair or foul, but have them at the Carillo Auditorium Friday night so that Marryin' Sam Cal Thatcher can perform the proper ceremony.

The day's activities will get underway in the quad Friday noon when the annual race will be run. Girls from every campus organization will chase after the men of their choice in the hopes of dragging them up before Marryin' Sam. The entire proceedings will be wire recorded by radio KIST and broadcast at 5 pm that evening.

The celebration will continue at 9 pm Friday evening in the Carillo Auditorium where there will be "dancin' and general fun makin'." As couples enter, they will be met by Marryin' Sam who will perform the fittin' ceremony after which they may slake their thirsts with some genuine "Kickapoo Joy Juice."

Tarrif will be $1.20 per couple and the dress will be "fittin' mountain costumes."

Youthful Fans To See Game

Approximately 150 youthful Gauche fans will witness the Cal-Poly-Santa Barbara College 2C2A football game Thursday afternoon as members of the "End Zone Gang," an innovation of the Block "C."

The "End Zone Gang" will be admitted free, and is composed of Santa Barbara youngsters who otherwise would be unable to attend the Gauche football games. A special section will be reserved for the end-zoners at La Playa Field, and popcorn will be provided the football enthusiasts by the campus sororities.

Several down-town organizations will provide the money to defray the costs of the ten-cent tax ticket required for each member of the gang.

The Block "C" is hopeful that the same arrangements can be carried on for other Gauche athletic events. Committee chairman, Lou Munson, has commended organizations from the city and college for the cooperation given him and his committee in this project, and feels that with the same cooperation, this program will be carried on throughout the athletic year.

Delta Zeta's enjoyed a terrific time in Berkeley this weekend during the all-University Weekend. The gals stayed with alum Barbara Murphy and with active Barbara Crockett's folks and aunts. All the members attended the University meeting Friday morning, the bonfire rally on Friday night and the big game and Dance Saturday.

Plans are underway for a barbecue dinner joint meeting with the Gamma Sigma Phi fraternity on November 15th.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

The Sophomore Class elected Betty Iloff social chairman at the meeting held after the Gauchito Round-up. Plans were made for a dance after the Gauchito-San Diego game, November 27, to be sponsored by the Sophs. Members of Spurs and Squires, sophomore honoraries, told about their organizations. Larry Wathey, class president, presided at the meeting.

DELTA SIGMA PHI

An invitation from Hilgaard chapter of Delta Sigma Phi, located at Berkeley, to the local chapter to spend the Cal weekend at their house was well-received. Members and pledges of the Fraternity enjoyed a swell weekend and became better acquainted with, not only the Delta Sig's on the Cal campus, but members from UCLA, USC and Fresno State who were invited as well.

Plans for the Nov. 12 all-college Sadie Hawkins' Day are being completed. The celebration will begin with the race in the Quad followed by a dance in the evening to be held at the Carillo Auditorium. The Stardusters will furnish the music.

EPSILON PI TAU

Twenty-four new members were initiated into Epsilon Pi Tau, industrial arts honor fraternity, in a ceremony at the Mesa campus on Saturday, Oct. 30. At the banquet which followed in the Fremont Room at Eaton's, 100 members and their guests heard an address by Francis Noel, Chief, Bureau of Audio Visual Radio Education, State of California, on the development of leadership in the field of industrial arts education.

Once upon a time there was a beautiful blond, blue eyed coed with a new convertible, an apartment, and a million dollars. Also, there was a happy jerk, who rode the buses, ate hamburgers, (and I don't mean ground round), and lived from one G. I. check to the next.

Now it happened that these two persons never had a class together, didn't belong to the same clubs, or even have lunch at the same hour. As a matter of fact, they didn't know the same people. Consequently they never met, and never fell in love only to have her big rich daddy try to break it up.

As a matter of fact, he shot himself after getting a low grade in philosophy. The blond went to Europe . . . not to forget him, but to try to land a Prince for her first husband. Frustrating plot, isn't it?

Then, there's the character who robbed a bank and hauled in a hundred thousand fish; went into business, became a respected citizen of his community, and died at a hundred and twelve. S'matter of fact some little squirt got the blame for the dastardly deed and finished off his last seventeen years in the brig. Frustrating, ain't it?

Of course, we can't leave out the real nice fellow who had a wife in San Francisco and another in Los Angeles. This cute party worked for Santa Fe; and naturally he spent one day hither and one day yonder. Never did catch up with him, and when he jumped off the Gate Bridge one fine day, the insurance company paid off to both widows.

Real justice there.

And there's no reason to leave out the tale of the young poet who dreamed of conquering the world with his words. "After all" he said, "others have done it, why can't I?" So he did.

EDITORIAL

President Truman, to the amazement of many, has retained the American Presidency. How this came to pass one may only conjecture; perhaps a feeling of sympathy went out to the President, perhaps some were so certain of a Republican landslide that they wanted Mr. Truman to garner a few votes anyway; perhaps they didn't like Gov. Dewey's platform.

However, Truman is again our first citizen and retained that honor by no mean margin for a candidate who was to be absolutely squelched by his opposition. But the new Truman regime should be infinitely superior to the last. Truman, for the first time, feels that the people are behind him with their support and confidence. Add to this the fact that the Eightieth Congress is now only an unhappy memory and that the Democrat-dominated Eighty-first is out to aid and support the President, makes for favorable prognostications.

People's Will Supreme

It is granted that about half of the voters and all of the pollsters are unhappy over the results of the election but their tears are being shed for themselves rather than for the Nation. It seems to make sense that Truman will be more successful with his Congress than Dewey could hope to be with the same contingents.

In the past, it is true, President Truman has left much to be desired, yet considering the difficult situation he fell heir to upon the death of F. D. Roosevelt and the support he received from the Congress, much blame must be lifted from his double breasted shoulders.

The best stand of the American people seems to be to come to the aid of the Democratic party in an attempt to allow its platform of World Peace and Civil Rights to become a reality instead of a mere campaign promise.

Change in Electoral Method Seen

This election, despite the outcome, is outstanding in that an apparently apathetic people really stood up and asserted itself. The people seemed to resent being anticipated showing that America still exercises its basic right with its own conscience despite the political prophets.

It is believed that one of the first issues to be taken up by the new Congress will be the amendment of the Electoral College making future elections truly of the people; making office holders non-dependent, to a degree, on key states and lessening the chance of small factions influencing the election of the really popular candidates.

This election has proved that the United States is not an aristocratic nation and that Labor holds an important sway in any political situation.—B. C.

Still with the thoughts of last weeks magnificent upset uppermost in mind, and notwithstanding the rationalizations of the fallen prophets, we wonder how much the reversal was due to the one factor with which we, at this college, and others at similar institutions are so vitally concerned—education.

The basis of this speculation rests on the obvious and admitted fact that 80 percent of American newspapers backed Dewey and nearly 100 percent predicted (oh foul word) his victory. And how many Americans are supposed to follow religiously the often quoted wisdom of Will Rogers commenting on the source of his wisdom?

Surely, if this were the practice today, Mr. Truman would not be our President. And the explanations of the "why" of it are still echoing among us.

Well, here are the two answers which seem obvious from this corner. The first is that Little Joe public is not as slow on the uptake as some people thought. Instead of following what the words of the venerable Will seem to say, L'il Joe has taken his cue from Rogers' friends and teachers, the American Indians, and has finally acquired the red man's profitable way of listening quietly and sympathetically to the other fellow's story, nodding and drawing him out, but all the time, unconvinced by his arguments, and adhering faithfully to his own beliefs. The Indian never argues with words, he just lives and acts.

And forming a firm foundation for the above, is another variety of a possible explanation, expressed simply by the word "education," but actually having many and devious manifestations of meaning, which must, through lack of space, be left to the mind of the reader.

The most significant thing, the note of ominous warning from the independently thinking American, is to the Hearsts, the McCormicks, the great news syndicates, even the all-powerful Winchells of the nation. There just aren't enough sheep left in the world to produce wool enough to cover the eyes of America.

"Turn on the stomach pump, again," pleaded The Oaf as he retched quietly.

"But I thought you weren't going to go to Berkeley," said the Timid One. "I thought you didn't enjoy that kind of stuff."

"I love orgies," said the Oaf defensively. "There is nothing wrong with a good, clean, disgusting orgy."

"That is no way to talk about All-Cal day," said the Timid One. "You shouldn't say things like that. It will give the wrong impression. If you can't say something constructive, stay quiet."

"You Americans," sneered the Oaf, adjusting the ice bag on his brow, "you must always have some excuse to justify your orgies. You have to call them New Years, or Fiesta, or All-Cal Day. Why all this hypocrisy? Why not be honest, and very frankly call an orgy an orgy? Don't get me wrong, I think the idea of a big orgy is great. It will bring the schools closer together; very close, as a matter of fact."

"Here you go again," sobbed the Timid One. "I wash my hands of you. I take no responsibility at all for what you say."

"My plan," said the Oaf, as he hit the benzedrine again, "would be to honestly schedule it as an orgy. As it is a university event, we could call it the CALORGY. Like that? CALORGY? In order to protect the students, we would have to eliminate all of the football games. Sitting in those cold, drafty stadia is not good for the students' health. Instead, we will hire two professional teams to play, and buy a number of television receivers. Thus, we shall have better football games, and the students will be able to watch from various bars and hotel rooms where their health will be safeguarded and where they won't have to take any time off from the more important business of the orgy. Just think of how much better it will all be when we don't have to waste so much time going through all the rigamarole of deception."

"I have no sympathy for you," said the Timid One. "Obviously, you are out of your head; mad, mad, mad."

Hilltop Happenings

by GLORIA DEALEY

The dance is ended but the melody lingers on as Hilltoppers get together and tell all the exciting things that happened during those 70 fast and furious hours of the All-Campus Weekend.

Patting themselves on the back over their two day headstart to Berkeley are Jerry Firestone, Stan Baker, and Bob West, who lined up their pick of the Cal Cuties before most of the fellas even thought of packing.

Looks like everyone was at the football game. Here and there in the crowd were Junie Davidson-Cal Reynolds (who recently surrendered his frat pin to her), Leone Clark-Harold Marcum, Connie Pewgh-Don Pierce, John Plessman and Wayne Morrison kept the concessionaires in business all afternoon.

The Kappa Sigs took over at Ann and Patti McClaren's house the other night and danced until the a-yem. Best time was had by Doris Humphries and date, Tom Purtell, who just couldn't leave.

Hill Topic of the week: who is Patti Brock looking for over all those cups of coffee at Kerry's??

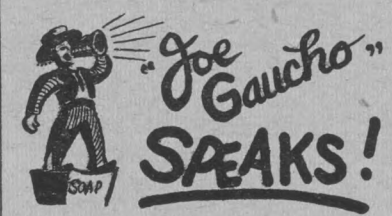

A couple of Hilltoppers who don't seem to realize it's winter are Chris Stone and Laird Stabler, who spend all their spare time surfing.

Cutest campus couples this week are Beverly Miller-Howard Brover, Jean Knease-Frank Goodall, and Barbara Crockett - Bill Hobbs.

Frosh Jimmy Hurd made us all proud when he capped the mixed doubles championship down in Pasadena. Could be he'll come home with the Junior Davis Cup.

It amused us when Jim Schilt tried to retrieve his belongings from NH during an all-girl class.

This brings us to 30 except for a comment on the keen skits turned in by the Greek pledges during last weeks Gauchito Roundup.

Being a newcomer to this campus, I would like to say how pleasantly surprised I was at the excellent performance turned out by the cast of Dr. Knock. Considering the handicap of working in an auditorium where conditions are far from ideal, and the effort that both the cast and the art department must have exerted to present such an undertaking so soon after the beginning of the semester, I feel that far too little praise has been sung on the subject.

However, one thing which did not give a favorable impression was the large number of empty seats, (at least on Saturday night) and the strange dearth of faculty members in attendance.

The Riviera auditorium is not very large, which, it would seem,

LOVE STORY by Don Mills

Laura and Skippy were in love. There was no doubt about it. It had started quite naturally. For a long while they had lived in adjoining apartments in a duplex. Mrs. Scudder, Laura's mother, had wanted her to get out of her embryonic shell and see some of the world, so Laura had obliged and thus met Skippy.

Perhaps the greatest single factor that brought Skippy and Laura closer together was the fact that they were both split personalities. Then, of course living in such close proximity contributed to their love for each other. The time came, quite naturally, when they began to make plans for marriage.

The marriage was a great success, with all the relatives and friends in attendance—oh, it was really a spread. After the vows had been taken, everyone whooped it up with a big party for the bride and groom; some of the relatives brought their instruments and had a jam session—in short, with everyone buttered up

Manuscript Madness

By WALTER ARNDT

In the last few years I have had occasion to read several manuscripts by aspiring authors. Incidentally, the perusal of such material is a fascinating pastime. But don't do it.

--WAX WORKS--

by Rudy Schafer

News Item

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 5—The badly beaten body of Rudy Schafer, El Gauchito columnist, was found near Goleta today. Brass knuckle marks on Schafer's face bore the cryptic symbol KIST. Schafer is expected to live.

Editor's note: Due to Mr. Schafer's unfortunate accident, his column will be written by a good friend of his, Mr. Gene Forssell.)

Good day kiddies, this is your old thin man of the Corn Balls, Gene Forssell writing today. That was too bad about Rudy wasn't it? (snicker) I wonder who could have done such a terrible thing?

I would like to clear up a few misunderstandings you might have before we go any further. Despite what my old buddy might have said, I am not thin, my voice is beautiful and resonant rather than thin and nasal and I do not thrive on adrenalin. KIST does pay me but I do not get the cash as they wisely invest it for me. By the way, where do you go to cash Confederate war bonds? It is plain to see that Schafer's remarks are purely unwarranted. And now, on to the new records.

Hottest record of the month is "Wabash Cannon Ball" by the Outhouse Five (Repulsive). This, kiddies, is my idea of really great Jazz. The record starts out with a terrific Kazoo duet and swings into Luke Hayseed's vocal which is just about the best Luke has done to date. The record ends with a great ride-out with washboard, Kazoo, and harmonica going like mad. This one is a sure "must" for your collections.

For your sentimental moods there's Rye Crumbardo's "Silver Threads Among The Gold" (Nausea). Rye gets plenty of the proper spirit into this one as his musicians are all over ninety. Some critics have been unkind enough to insist that the vibrato effects obtained by these men are caused by palsy, but this is, of course, untrue. A great record.

Well kiddies, enough for today. See you at the "Sadie Hawkins' Day" Dance.

is all the more reason why it should have played to capacity audiences both nights. And it also seems that such a worthy performance could have received more active support by the members of the faculty.

I, for one, enjoy the theater, and I know many others at the college do. However, it would be too much to expect the performers to continue their excellent work, and even improve on it, if the full support of the college is not given. Hope there is a sellout crowd at the next offering!

terial is a fascinating pastime. But don't do it.

I have taken on two novel three full length plays, a good many radio scripts, and countless short stories, not to mention miscellaneous poetry. While I feel immensely flattered by being asked to read these efforts, I usually have a varying amount of mental anguish when I tender my appraisal to the creator. Even when my feelings are eclectically sailed by the plot, I am able to call to mind people who have so "old hat" very successfully. When I hit something so novel as to commercially unfeasible in my opinion, I am reminded of Tennessee Williams and Jack London who were not harnessed by academic restraint. Then there are works of Virginia Wolff, James Joyce, and John Dos Passos consider. It would be criminal to nip young genius in the bud.

Dear reader, never agree to read anybody's manuscript. If a friend of yours has written something and wants you to read it, by means beg off, and say you have to entertain a maiden aunt from Cheyenne, or that you feel an imminent attack of malaria. They will keep your friends, and your peace of mind too. Suppose you do agree to read a friend's work and it is ghastly. Dare you say, "John, this is from hunger?" I don't think so. On the other hand, you cannot, in fairness, advise John that his opus is the greatest since "War and Peace." Thus, you have committed yourself to the possibility of being confronted by a baffling dilemma whereas a simple "no" might have spared you entirely.

One book-length creation forced myself through, dealt with a particular branch of the service in terms so esoteric that I, who had more APO's than some gals, had letters from home, was considerably bewildered. The author was so excited that he said I would have it privately printed; no publisher wanted it. How could I tell him that he couldn't get the copies away if he did? When I did tell him was that he should take it to someone in the publishing field for an evaluation.

A very charming young woman handed me a three-act murder mystery play a year or so ago. I read it through twice carefully. It was not a play, nor was it a mystery, although, in a manner of speaking, it was murder. She hadn't the vaguest idea of the substance of drama, the limitations of Proscenium staging, nor a clear notion of how human beings speak to one another.

I would like to develop the idea further, but this is the end of the column, and besides, I have promised to read some one-act plays.

Tough Schedule Lies Ahead for Cage Squad

As the football season draws to a close, we once again focus our interest on the Gaucho basketball team which is getting ready for a tough schedule.

The loss of Coke Morrison and Charlie Jones was a heavy blow to the Gauchos, but Coach Willie Wilton hopes to find good replacements among the many men who were turned out for the team.

Mainstay for the team will again be CCAA Harvey Hubler, who, ably aided by such men as James and McCutcheon, will pace the Gold and Blue through their schedule. Few new men will be added to last year's team.

The tentative schedule released today by Coach Wilton will include the following games:

Dec. 3 UCLA at Los Angeles.
Jan. 7 Fresno State at Fresno.
Jan. 8, College of Pacific at Eureka.

Jan. 14, Cal Poly here.

Jan. 28, San Diego at San Diego.

Jan. 29, Loyola at Los Angeles.

Feb. 9, California here.

Feb. 11, Fresno State here.

Feb. 12, San Diego here.

Feb. 18, College of Pacific here.

Feb. 19, San Jose State here.

Feb. 25, Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo.

Feb. 26, San Jose at San Jose.

Tentative arrangements have also been made with Pepperdine, Occidental, Whittier, Twentieth Century Fox, Broadway Clowns, and others.

In addition, Coach Wilton announced that he will try to arrange a few practice games before the UCLA game.

Your reporter has had occasion to watch the Gaucho Varsity in training and can assure you that these boys look mighty good. Maybe the season will be a tough one because our opponents are strong, but it will be a hard fight the way through. The team's morale is high and the boys are ready to give stiff competition all the way through.

Kappa Sigs Favored in Fraternity Division; Other Tournaments Set

Sigma Phi Epsilon battled to a 6-6 tie with Sigma Alpha Kappa, and thereby passed up a golden opportunity to climb into a possible tie for the lead in the Fraternity Division. As it now stands, Kappa Sigma, with four games still to play, are stand-out favorites to win. They have a total of four wins and no losses. Sig Ep now has three wins and two ties, with three games to go. Sig Alpha has four wins, one tie and one loss, and two games still to play, and has little opportunity to go out in front. The deciding game may well be that between Kappa Sigma and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The Sig Ep-Sig Alpha game

turned out to be a hard fought, knockdown battle, with neither team able to hold a lead. Sig Alpha scored first on a 20-yard pass from Aldridge to Hackett. Sig Ep came right back to tie the score on a pass from Stevenson to Wayner. During the last half each team had several scoring opportunities, with the ball close to the goal in each case, but neither team could capitalize on the situation.

The Muirites, battling for the lead in the Club Division, dropped a tough game to Dogger House, 13-6 when Bud Gmur of the winners intercepted a Muirite pass and went 20 yards for a touchdown. Royce scored first for the Dogger House on a beautifully executed running play off tackle behind the effective blocking of Kellogg, Ware and Evans. For the losers, Hanson led the way with a 50-yard run for a touchdown after intercepting a pass.

Delta Sigma Phi kept the fire of victory alive by downing a fighting Beta Sigma Tau team by a 18-6 score. The combination of Perry to Tully which clicked in the last game for the winners was the deciding factor.

Volleyball Tournament

The long-awaited volleyball tournament, after many delays, will finally get underway on Monday, Nov. 8, at 3:00 p.m.

 "Ah," said the Oaf, settling back into his coma, "I can see it all. No more waste space being used by rooters caps and pom-poms. Instead, the students will have room to carry good scotch whiskey, mixers, ice-cubes, gin, rum, bitters, sparkling water, stomach pumps, ice bags, blondes, blondes..."
 "Thank heavens, he's gone again," said the Timid One.
 "Hedy!" screamed the Oaf, sitting bolt upright, lines of pain and suffering creasing the yellow skin of his forehead, the glassy stare of the addict transforming his semi-luminous eyes. "Hedy! Come back again."

Hey, student teachers! Do you gripe and complain because your nylons are constantly getting runs in them from beat-up desks and bus benches? We have the answer to your problems... Down at Wendel's they have the BEST LOOKING stocking for $1.75. Yes, they're mesh, they don't run, but the exciting news is that they come in the modern dark shades to match black or grey or browns. Be practical and save money, gals... these hose are great for classroom wear.
