Spike's Peaks with Fine Food, Beers of the World

By Gringolet Rafalo

There are times when I like to get away from it all. When I like to pretend I'm nowhere near Isla Vista or UCSB or Del Playa. But when I go away, I don't like going to places around here as a retreat in and of themselves. I like to pretend I'm somewhere I've never been before, like in an exotic country, soaking in the ambience.

Because I have not the funds to actually get away to another continent, I go to Spike's instead. You see, Spike's is the kinda place where you can picture yourself anywhere, like a great explorer's hall in the depths of the South American jungle, or a ski lodge on the heights of the Alps. It's easy — just go to Spike's, order some grub and then pick a beer from the widest selection between L.A. and the city by the Bay. Now you can begin to relax in the spirit of your chosen country.

Because Spike's offers so many beers (125 varieties, I understand) from around the planet, you can pick just about any country in the world for your exploration. Once you have your brew, close your eyes and imagine ... Picture yourself trekking through the rough terrain of Scotland, dodging stray drive balls from the oldest golf links in the world as you walk up to the clubhouse, avoiding all the dudes wearing kilts, step up to the bar and order a MacAndrew's Scotch Ale. Or perhaps you prefer to imagine sitting on the beaches of Thailand, exploring the ancient Siamese culture, while sipping gently on a bottle of Singha. Or maybe you've always dreamed of Italy, more specifically the canals of Venice. Picture yourself drifting downstream in a gondola, listening to the gondolier belt out traditional opera tunes, while downing a serving of Moretti. Ah, this is the life.

When you get the chance, of course, it is important to put the drink aside and eat the scrumptious repast Spike's offers. Burgers, pasta, pizza, chicken, salads, soups, appetizers and a large variety of Mexican foods are all offered at Spike's, and you can be damn sure it's all as good as the beers.

Getting back to the beers, picture yourself now standing on top of Mount Fuji in Japan, seeping the low countryside surrounding you and enjoying Asiatic culture while sippin' a Sapporo Dry, or visualize yourself inside a massive beer hall in the infamous Reeperbahn section of Hamburg, Germany, chugging a Dinkelacker Pilsner in the spirit of Oktoberfest, despite the fact that it may be April.

Yes, a trip to Spike's can provide an astute drinker with a world tour, if you have the imagination. And even if you don't feel like making the trek out to nearby Goleta, Spike's will deliver all its beer to anywhere in Isla Vista! Now that's the only way to fly.

Spike's is located at 6030 Hollister Ave. in Goleta. Call 967-2347 for delivery or more information.

Remembering the Grand Ol' Party Going Down at E-Bar

By Reynard Van Nguyen

The elephant is a magnificent beast. In addition to being the largest land animal alive next to Dom DeLuise, the pachyderm has those amazing tusks and trunk which immediately convey a sense of appreciation for nature's adaptive creativity. So it is no wonder that when a chain of great bars was conceived, the noble elephant was chosen as the potent symbol.

Goleta has its own outpost of epicurean delight with a safari theme. As you've no doubt guessed, it's the Elephant Bar. Located with a view of the beleaguered Santa Barbara Airport, the E-bar is just the place to go to get away from it all and upstage your brain with treats for the gut.

The first thing to know about the E-bar is that it is, indeed, a bar. This is no mere statement of the obvious, since the local scene is replete with establishments that pass themselves off as a full-service imbibery but do not offer the wide range of spirits that qualify a place as a bar. No need to worry here, however — the folks at the E-bar are equipped to satisfy your jones for a margarita, prairie dog, Singapore sling or whatever tickles your fancy.

Now that we've established the important starting point, be it known that the best way to take advantage of this situation is to participate in the coolest happy hour thang in the land. Sometimes a happy hour mooch is the only meal I get around to having, and I don't want to be faced with a measly plate of carrot sticks. At the E-bar, a hungry soul can find nourishment in the company and, more to the point, a hungry gullet can load up on food with substance. Tacos! Tacos! Tacos!

This is not to say that the happy hour vittles tell the whole story by any means. The other day, Renzo and I went down to the E-bar for lunch and were bowled over by the selections on the menu. Cal-Mex delicacies beckoned, but I felt the tug of a truly gourmet burger nagging at my esophagus. Re-nzo was considering the chicken sandwich — considering it perhaps the most alluring piece of fowl since Daisy Duck!

The savories were ... well, let me put it this way. On the ceiling, the E-bar has a network of belts connected to broad wicker fans that gently waft a cool breeze down upon its privileged patrons. Combined with the ample greenery provided by potted palms, the fans create a sensation of a dreamy excursion to balmy climes and bwanafied good times. Sound cool? Well, the food was that cool!

Dessert is another source of outstanding praise I have reserved for the E-bar. That mud pie is the best! Renzo heartily agrees with this assessment, and I'm going to have to shoo him away from my shoulder before he overwhelms me with memories and a hankering to return to that place of my dreams, the E-bar.

Locals enjoy the E-bar's ambience, and out-of-towners (like parents) are always up for a trip out there while spending a few hours on the South Coast. Student discounts often make the trek out there especially attractive to us scholarly types.

The Elephant Bar is located at 521 Firestone Road in Goleta. Call 683-1714 for further info.
