Dedication Ceremonies for New Structures Set for February 5

State Officials Attend Rites At Leadbetter

Santa Barbara State college, originally organized in 1906 as an institution specializing in industrial education and home economics, dedicates on February 3, 1941, the first unit in a magnanimous expansion program. Completion of the building on Leadbetter Mesa results now as it did then, in a training field in the industrial arts.

Dedication program at the industrial education unit will commence on Wednesday evening with an address by President Clarence L. Phelps. Prominent personalities in the field of education and industrial arts have been invited to attend the ceremonies which will be climaxd on Saturday, February 8 with a luncheon.

Dexter Attends

Dr. Lynne C. Monroe announced yesterday that Walter Dexter, state superintendent of education for Santa Barbara, will attend the ceremonies.

Several delegetes to the American Vocational convention, held last night at San Francisco, journeyed to Santa Barbara for inspection of the new unit. All were unanimous in acclaiming it as one of the most complete and modern in the country.

G. H. Day, director of industrial arts and vocational education at Kansas City, Missouri, expressed his approval of the new project by stating that it was far ahead of anything he’d inspected in the United States.

Visitors Arrive

Yesterday Dr. Louis Newkirk, director of industrial arts in Chicago, accompanied by Mr. Herbheer, teacher in the Chicago suburban schools inspected the plant with E. Ericson, head of the local industrial arts department.

Dr. E. Ericson, director of industrial arts, today will accompany the department heads in arranging spring semester programs before the opening of the new semester on February 5, according to an announcement from Mrs. Jane Miller Abraham, registrar. Schedule of classes will be ready for distribution before the beginning of final examinations on January 20, the registrar states.

Journalists Induct Ludwig

Eml Ludwig, internationally renowned author and new commentator, was formally initiated into honorary membership in the local campus chapter of Alpha Pi Gamma, national honorary journalism fraternity, last Sunday evening at the home of Miss Elsa Haverland, college libraries and alumni of the organization.

Science seminars at Santa Barbara added the last letter to a series of lectures on vitamins Tuesday when Dr. Helen Sweet spoke on vitamin E and its relation to the sex hormones. This meeting brought to a close the current series of scientific talks held under the direction of Dr. E. Nolle, and offered to interested students, faculty and townspeople free of charge.

Further meetings are being planned for 1941 with hormones and paleochemistry slated at topics for discussion. Although a definite schedule has not been arranged, continuation of the program will begin soon after the end of the semester.

Sponsored through the State college science department, the former groups are addressed either by members of the local faculty or experts on the topic of discussion. Meetings are held in the A. W. S. Clubroom, tea is served and anyone interested is cordially invited to attend, it is announced by Dr. Nolle.

Vitamin Talk Closes Science Seminar Series

Courses exchange by Alpha Delta Chi, honorary educational chemistry society, at their pre-Christmas meeting Tuesday evening will be donated to the Associated Women Students for welfare purposes.

Gordon Gray distributed the proceeds after a short business meeting held at the home of Alice Freeman on Alameda Pablo Serr

After adjournment of the meeting refreshments were served and the group joined in singing Christmas carols.

A dream assuming "concrete" form might well capatip the above photo, a picture of the near-completed industrial education plant on Leadbetter Mesa. Dedication of the buildings will be held on February 5 with many state officials present at the ceremonies.

Photo by Dana M. Barnes

College Women Direct Annual Christmas Work

At Neighborhood House

Campus organizations under the direction of the Associated Women Students and Chairman Faye Thompson have been doing their bit toward spreading holiday cheer this week with the annual Christmas welfare work. In addition to the Christmas gift sale, the proceeds of which will go to the Santa Barbara Neighborhood house, local sororities and social clubs have prepared for distribution of Christmas baskets for the community’s underprivileged.

Associated, representing the welfare drive in its fourth season have been Crown and Scepter, senior women’s service organization; Los Angeles, sorority women’s service group; Associated Men Students and A. W. S. Heads of the respective groups for the tag sale are Evelyn Foster, president; Jonathan, Edward Jones, and Miss Thompson.

Students Donations

Food and articles of clothing that have been donated to students under the college Christmas tree and to the A. W. S. executives will be placed for sale Thursday evening by the neighborhood house, according to Miss Thompson.

Manipulative work at the house has been accomplished by the student women under the direction of Miss Laura McFarlane and the Associated Women Students along with recreational offerings are now in progress.

The all college Christmas tree, which is located in the auditorium of the college yearbook, was donated and decorated by Alphea Phi Omega and Alpha Phi Omega, college library and alumni of the organization, as an annual project of the organization.

Phi Kapp Open House for Tea

Using the traditional holiday atmosphere as an incentive, members of Phi Kappa Gamma held open house from 4 to 6 Wednesday afternoon at the sorority’s home on El Paseo street.

Red Pineapples and red teapers were used in decorating the table while a Christmas tree in the living room further proclaimed evidence of the festivities.

In charge of arrangements were Sue Beal, national delegate, Meredith Morrison, refreshment, and Minta McArthur, invitations.

Assembling in the traditional box of chocolate, Vera Dvorich, Phi Kappa Gamma, and her sorority’s assistant, traveled to Clayman Mansion at a special meeting held last Monday evening.

Misters brought up for discussion the Phi Kappa Gamma’s program for the last of January, and the Phi Kappa national convention which will be held in April. Professor in June to which two or three members of the college group will be sent as delegates.

Phi Kappa Gamma, a sorority under the direction of the Associated Women Students and Chairman Faye Thompson, have been doing their bit toward spreading holiday cheer this week with the annual Christmas welfare work. In addition to the Christmas gift sale, the proceeds of which will go to the Santa Barbara Neighborhood house, local sororities and social clubs have prepared for distribution of Christmas baskets for the community’s underprivileged.

Associated, representing the welfare drive in its fourth season have been Crown and Scepter, senior women’s service organization; Los Angeles, sorority women’s service group; Associated Men Students and A. W. S. Heads of the respective groups for the tag sale are Evelyn Foster, president; Jonathan, Edward Jones, and Miss Thompson.

Students Donations

Food and articles of clothing that have been donated to students under the college Christmas tree and to the A. W. S. executives will be placed for sale Thursday evening by the neighborhood house, according to Miss Thompson.

Manipulative work at the house has been accomplished by the student women under the direction of Miss Laura McFarlane and the Associated Women Students along with recreational offerings are now in progress.

The all college Christmas tree, which is located in the auditorium of the college yearbook, was donated and decorated by Alphea Phi Omega and Alpha Phi Omega, college library and alumni of the organization, as an annual project of the organization.

Phi Kapp Open House for Tea

Using the traditional holiday atmosphere as an incentive, members of Phi Kappa Gamma held open house from 4 to 6 Wednesday afternoon at the sorority’s home on El Paseo street.

Red Pineapples and red teapers were used in decorating the table while a Christmas tree in the living room further proclaimed evidence of the festivities.

In charge of arrangements were Sue Beal, national delegate, Meredith Morrison, refreshment, and Minta McArthur, invitations.

Assembling in the traditional box of chocolate, Vera Dvorich, Phi Kappa Gamma, and her sorority’s assistant, traveled to Clayman Mansion at a special meeting held last Monday evening.

Misters brought up for discussion the Phi Kappa Gamma’s program for the last of January, and the Phi Kappa national convention which will be held in April. Professor in June to which two or three members of the college group will be sent as delegates.

Phi Kapp Open House for Tea

Using the traditional holiday atmosphere as an incentive, members of Phi Kappa Gamma held open house from 4 to 6 Wednesday afternoon at the sorority’s home on El Paseo street.

Red Pineapples and red teapers were used in decorating the table while a Christmas tree in the living room further proclaimed evidence of the festivities.

In charge of arrangements were Sue Beal, national delegate, Meredith Morrison, refreshment, and Minta McArthur, invitations.

Assembling in the traditional box of chocolate, Vera Dvorich, Phi Kappa Gamma, and her sorority’s assistant, traveled to Clayman Mansion at a special meeting held last Monday evening.

Misters brought up for discussion the Phi Kappa Gamma’s program for the last of January, and the Phi Kappa national convention which will be held in April. Professor in June to which two or three members of the college group will be sent as delegates.
Audience Acclaims AWS Christmas Program at Traditional Assembly

Before an audience, appreciative in its acclaim, Associated Women Students sponsored the annual Christmas program Tuesday during fourth hour in the auditorium.

Organist Dorothy Reynolds played traditional Christmas ballads as a prelude to the main program. In the absence of A.W.S. program chairman, Martha Comfort, duties of mistress of ceremonies were voiced in Margaret Glassford.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB
Directed by Van A. Chist Ye, the Women's Glee club accompanied by a string quartet composed of Margaret Kerr, Gordon Ludwig, Jean Trappe and Charlotte Cale, sang two numbers in the yuletide theme. "Ave Verum" by Mozart opened the assembly and was followed by Oldroyd's composition "As Joseph was a-Sleeping."

Highlighting the festive mood was a performance by the Elizabeth Shoban's dance group's "The Juglers," an interpretive dance presented in two scenes.

TOIZER PLAYS
Between the scenes-violinist Bradford Tupper, Sanna Barber State college alumnus played the Bach-Gounod selection, "Ave Maria."

Following the final scene of the "Juglers" the ballroom club returned to singing another group of two numbers, this time composed and accompanied by the group with violin as they sang "Pat-A-pan," "Burgundian Air" and "Ooou Court." an old English Christmas song.

A short half hour of the program the audience joined in singing Christmas carols with Christy directing.

P. E. Fraternity Initiates Four

Formal initiation of four pledges into Phi Delta Pi, women's honorary physical education fraternity, took place Tuesday, December 11, at the Phi Kappa Gamma sorority house, 1721 Prospect ave.

Tea honoring the new members: Frances Boyton, Marietta Grace, Frances Meyer and Jane Wood, followed by the installation of four pledges for the Phi Delta Pi, women's honorary society.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB
Under the competent leadership of Van A. Chist Ye, members of Tau Gamma Sigma sorority presented their ninth annual Soiree Musical in the Biltmore hotel ballroom last Wednesday evening. Numbers sung by the ensemble of 24 included a selection of festive Christmas songs in addition to the pieces usually found in the repertoire of choral groups.

Particularly noted among the first group of selections was "The Two Clocks," a composition by Rogers. Light and airy, it had quality and time adapted to a combination of voices as exemplified by Christy's quartette.

Most powerful and sweeping part of the program was Jack O'Keefe's interpretation of "Caliban in the Coal Mine."

"JESTER'S DREAM" Perhaps the most enjoyable part of the program was E. Klyne Headley's composition, "Jester's Dream." Prefacing the performance of his own suite in miniature, the pianist explained his motive in writing such numbers.

Dected in every movement of the music of the jester who dared he was no longer the court fool but rather endowed with adulthood and honor. His dream consisted of three parts, dance, love song, and procession, a rude awakening to the world of reality. TONE QUALITY

Harmonically, Headley's composition was richly done with a certainty of tone turning through each part to indi-
Height Proves too Much for Green and White Aggregation

The old adage, "a good big team can always beat a good little team", held true Wednesday evening in the National Guard armory when a powerful quintet of giants from Brigham Young University, in a cage thriller that had a capacity crowd of 1200 in a constant up roar. Height was the deciding factor in the final analysis—height plus the fact that the Gauchos were small. The Mormons jumped into a 4-0 lead on buckets by Dale Rea, 6'4" center, and Earl Wimer, 6'3" forward, and were never headed, clinging to a 28-26 lead as half-time.

The timely shooting of Tommy Guerrero and Bill Leveille, who turned in a magnificent game from his forward position, kept the Gauchos in white flight at striking distance.

In the second half, the Gauchos climbed up the offensive summary of Rea and Wimer, but here sartorially, the Green and White club emerged victorious, completing only one out of 12 tries.

The Mormons jumped into a 4-0 lead on buckets by Dale Rea, 6'4" center, and Earl Wimer, 6'3" forward, and were never headed, clinging to a 28-26 lead as half-time.

The timely shooting of Tommy Guerrero and Bill Leveille, who turned in a magnificent game from his forward position, kept the Gauchos in white flight at striking distance.

In the second half, the Gauchos climbed up the offensive summary of Rea and Wimer, but here sartorially, the Green and White club emerged victorious, completing only one out of 12 tries.

The Mormons jumped into a 4-0 lead on buckets by Dale Rea, 6'4" center, and Earl Wimer, 6'3" forward, and were never headed, clinging to a 28-26 lead as half-time.

The timely shooting of Tommy Guerrero and Bill Leveille, who turned in a magnificent game from his forward position, kept the Gauchos in white flight at striking distance.

In the second half, the Gauchos climbed up the offensive summary of Rea and Wimer, but here sartorially, the Green and White club emerged victorious, completing only one out of 12 tries.
Events of Past Year Provoke Questions Regarding Future

Another Christmas, another New Year. A new set of conjectures, predictions, post mortems. Reflections on 1940, a year which will make historians of the future sit up and take notice as they blink through their spectacles at printed pages revealing the world-stirring events of the year...

1940? Why, that was the year of the famous blitzkrieg, when the Nazis, like the Huns of old swept through Europe taking the Low Countries, the Scandinavian countries, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia—mighty France in five days. Then they ran into a Tartan—the little British Isles and were forced to send midnight raiders until... and they’re the recording is checked, for that part of history is yet to be written.

1940? That was the year all precedents were shattered and Franklin Delano Roosevelt was elected to the presidency of the United States for the third successive time. What was the name of that fellow who ran second? Ah, yes, Willkie... Wendell Willkie. And speaking of precedents, another was shattered when the United States called out the first peacetime conscription army in her history, appropriated almost 15 billions of dollars for armaments and prepared herself for... and there we stop again coming to a blank page, with the type yet to be set by Father TIME.

1940? After ten long lean years, a relatively depression-free period came back to the United States. True, it didn’t last long, but while the aircraft factories and the munition plants were producing at full capacity, Mr. and Mrs. U.S.A. enjoyed that elusive period known as prosperity. Christmas of 1940 was the biggest since 1929 and the last one of these before we go into the crisis....

That’s why this is a happy holiday season. That’s the reason for the super-abundance of Yuletide spirit and Auld Lang Syne. That’s why Seabees and the U.S.P.O. are still possible. People are still looking forward to a New Year and thinking of the future. The present here among us we’re making the most of it, they say. 1941? Well, just another few leaves on the calendar—an arbitrary settlement of time differentiation. We’re waiting and hoping and praying that Christmas of 1941 and the rounding into 1942 will be as happy as this one, they say. —S.C.

Jack Newman

Just for fun...

(Note: any relation to characters, places or things mentioned in last week’s column were strictly coincidental and do not reflect the thoughts or opinions of Newman even if they were funny.)

The flu isn’t so bad. That is if you don’t mind about ten barrels of citrus juices, fever, chills, aches, and a headache or two. Lying in bed isn’t bad either, except that it is hard driving a car that way. There were several thousand cases of it in California. They can’t find the germ that causes it either. Seems like every flu germ is different and has a particular personality.

As soon as the docs catch one they turn it out to be just another germ named Joe while the culprit continues his racket and hides out in your esophagus. They’re harder to catch than a waiter at Elmer’s...

Wonder if there have been any casualties among Christmas shoppers? There’s a vicious group for you. I saw two ladies beating each other over the head with their packages. They were up to their knees in merchandise and barely breasted the other day. Several fathers I know are nursing burned and cut fingers from playing with electric trains in myland.

It’s a great time of year, though. Everybody gets a job so that they can earn money to buy gifts for people that don’t like them, who have to get a job to earn money to get a present for you who don’t like them personally and especially because you gave them a gift first.

QUADROPPIN’ AGAIN...

Well, Midge Mamrack has announced that the El Gaucho vacation get-together is scheduled for the Bimbo’s Bowl on the eve of December 27. The last one of these — a few little scuffles was such a wax that the Gaucho execs decided to make it easier for him to concentrate on being a good little lad...

The Gauchos will have a special reserved section, and all interested should see Midge, or just show up on the night of the affair. Better see her before the big night. It’s an idea of how many will show up... Keep seeing more people at Kenny’s... Let’s see—after the basketball game Wednesday night there was Jean 31” Ray and Bob and Faye Thompson and Frank Bennett, Hattie and Jack Richards, Dick Vander poof and Patty Allard, and BUFFY Johnson with Bob Sherman... so to all the brave Souls and a Happy New Year...

The Heat’s On! Only Four More Shopping Days!

Take a few minutes time from your frantic last-minute rush and relax at...

ELMER’S CAFE

1026 East
“WHERE THE CROWD GATHERS”

LAST MINUTE GIFT PROBLEM?

SEND FLOWERS!

For Special Seasonal designs... etc.

Victor’s

For special service, we recommend.

ELMER’S CAFE

1026 East
“WHERE THE CROWD GATHERS”

LAST MINUTE GIFT PROBLEM?

SEND FLOWERS!

For Special Seasonal designs... etc.

Victor’s

For special service, we recommend.

ELMER’S CAFE

1026 East
“WHERE THE CROWD GATHERS”

S & K MARKETS

State and Ortega
Milpas and Gutierrez
Anapamu and Sta. Barbara
Hollister and Mission

Low Prices
Highest Quality

FRESH
FISH

24 Hr. Service
Free delivery of vegetables

GROCERIES — MEATS — VEGETABLES

SPECIAL

FRESHLY MADE